PERMANENT CROSSING DEMANDED BY P.E.I.

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island demanded at the federal-provincial constitutional conference today that the federal government live up to its promise to build a permanent crossing to his province.

"Failure to provide such a work would be regarded by the people of Prince Edward Island as highway robbery," he said.

$8,000 PAY HIKE STUDIED BY MPs

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Behind the scenes efforts by some influential members of Parliament to get the indemnities for members raised from the present $18,000 to $26,000 a year are now out in the open.

The move, however, is by no means unanimous among the parliamentarians. Many feel that to push for a pay raise of more than 40 per cent at this time would encounter strong protests in view of inflationary pressures now at work and the government's determination to hold down salary and pay raises across the country.

A small private committee with representatives of the different parties has been meeting. So far the move does not have the formal approval of the government or any opposition party.

There is a growing feeling among backbenchers that if pay raises are to be put through, they should be introduced in the first year of the new government.

No member wants to be identified as strongly favoring the move at this stage because it might stir up strong adverse reaction in his home constituency.

Members of Parliament get $12,000 a year as an indemnity and a tax free allowance of $6,000.

The talk now is to provide an additional $8,000 a year in the form of extra indemnity. The tax free allowance would be left at $6,000.

There have been reports of unhappiness among cabinet members over the recent substantial boosts for senior civil servants. Senior deputy ministers have been awarded a salary raise putting them at the $40,000 level. These senior deputy ministers are therefore earning more than the cabinet ministers heading their departments and who only receive a total pay of $35,000 annually. The suggested pay hike of $8,000 would raise a cabinet minister's pay to $43,000.

OTTAWA (CP) — The heads of the federal and provincial governments agreed today on a vaguely-worded directive to their law ministers to take up a continuing study on whether a guarantee of fundamental human rights should be written into a new constitution.

Discussion of the federal proposal for entrenchment of a human rights charter in the constitution wound up with a 10-minute debate on how the conference should say once again there was no agreement.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said he favored a statement saying the first ministers showed "general interest" in the entrenchment of human rights. Others felt that would be making too much out of a somewhat inconclusive discussion that opened Tuesday afternoon and continued for about 40 minutes on the morning of the final day.

Finally, the ministers agreed to take note of their "various views and general interest" and instructed a ministerial committee to study all matters relating to a human rights charter and whether it should be written into a constitution.

DOUBTS EXPOUNDED

Doubts in some delegations were highlighted by Attorneys-General Leslie Peterson of British Columbia and D. V. Heald of Saskatchewan.

They felt it would be against the public interest to make a constitutional guarantee effectively superior to Parliament

Major Changes Looming For All B.C. Universities

Education Minister Donald Brothers told the legislature Tuesday major changes could be in the offing for the province's university system.

Mr. Brothers, speaking during budget debate, said he is awaiting a report from a committee on university affairs established last year.

The committee, headed by Dr. G. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education, was to study the whole university system.

"I have no doubt that this committee will suggest some changes that will cause major changes in our present structure," Mr. Brothers said.

Moments earlier Mr. Brothers had told the house of impression gained when he and others involved in B.C.'s education system visited a junior college conference in California.

Asked outside the house whether Dr. Perry's committee might recommend a university system similar to that of California, with regional colleges and one major university with different campuses, Mr. Brothers said he had not seen the report yet and couldn't anticipate any recommendations.

"This feasibly could be one of them," he said.

He repeated his earlier comment that the report would include recommendations affecting the three major public universities "in a basic way."

The committee had been concerned with a number of subjects, including better methods of liason and financing, he said.

Asked if amalgamation of the Universities of Victoria, Simon Fraser and UBC under one umbrella University of British Columbia, Mr. Brothers said "it's one way."

"I guess other groups have made recommendations along this line."

Dr. Perry, reached by telephone, endorsed his minister's view that fundamental changes in B.C.'s university system and structure would be included in his report.

But he termed speculation any suggestion that the three major universities might be amalgamated.

"We still have to complete the final report," the former dean of the UBC faculty of commerce and business administration said.

He said the committee hoped to submit its report "shortly."

Peking Remains Silent

By COLIN McCULLOUGH
(Copyright (1969) The Globe and Mail)

PEKING — China's foreign ministry made no comment Tuesday on the statement in the Canadian Commons on the possibility of establishing diplomatic ties between the two countries by External Foreign Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Sharp told the house that the Canadian embassy in Stockholm had been instructed to initiate talks with the Chinese embassy there towards the exchange of diplomatic missions between Canada and China.

Chinese reluctance to talk publicly about diplomatic recognition is not surprising, at least at this stage. They will first of all want to find out what Canada's position will be on the delicate question of Formosa.

This is the prime issue for Peking. All other matters are negotiable and probably fall under the category of housekeeping problems.

INTEGRAL PART

Formosa is an integral part of China both historically and legally, in the view of Chinese in Formosa and on the mainland. Neither side would accept a two-China policy.

It is probable, however, that China would accept a simple declaration from Ottawa that Canada had decided to recognize the People's Republic of China. No formal notification would have to be served on Chiang Kai-Shek.

Such a Canadian statement, however, would undercut the basis of Formosa's foreign policy—that it is the legitimate government of China. Logically, Formosa would withdraw its mission from Ottawa, just as it did from Paris when France recognized China in 1964.

Canada does not have a diplomatic mission in Formosa.

Since Canada, as well as all the nations in the world, is well aware of the attitudes of Formosa and China, there seems no reason for Ottawa to initiate the Stockholm talks unless it is prepared to discard the idea of a two-China policy and follow the French course in dealing with Formosa.

INTERESTED

Although China is unyielding on Formosa, it is likely to be flexible on other matters. There are several signs that the Chinese are much interested in Canadian recognition now that they have solved most internal problems and are focussing more attention on foreign policy.

The Stockholm talks would have to cover many other subjects, of course, and might go on for many weeks.

Canadians are well briefed about conditions for diplomats in China, having talked private-

Syrian Jet Shot Down By Israel

From AP-Reuters

Israel reported its air force shot down a MiG-21 warplane from Syria today and chased another one home after they flew over Israeli territory.

An Israeli spokesman said the two Soviet-built jets crossed the ceasefire over the Golan Heights, which Israel seized from Syria during the 1967 war.

He said one of the MiG pilots bailed out and his plane was seen to crash in Syrian territory.

AMBASSADOR HSUEH

Subversive Base Feared

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Diplomatic recognition of Red China by Canada would enable the Communists from Peking to establish a base in North America for subversive activities, Ambassador of the Republic of China, Hsueh Yu-Chi, said here today.

The ambassador has taken the unusual course of not only lodging two formal protests with the government, he has also made an appeal directly to the Canadian people not to abandon their "good and loyal friends" representd by the Taiwan government.

He said that during his two years stay in Ottawa he has come to admire the qualities of "sense of justice and fair play" of the Canadian people.

Ambassador Hsueh delivered the first note of protest to the Canadian government late Wednesday when External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp confirmed that the government was seeking to open negotiations with the Communist Chinese government to exchange ambassadors.

The ambassador representing Chiang Kai-shek's government delivered a second stiff diplomatic note of protest this week. In it he urged the government to reconsider its position.

There has been no official comment from Taipei on the situation. However, it was reported in Washington today that the U.S. government has advised Taipei to keep some sort of diplomatic relations with Canada even if Ottawa goes ahead with recognition of Peking. The U.S. state department has said it is "very much concerned" about Canada's overtures toward the mainland Chinese.

Nationalists Distressed by Move

Ambassador Hsueh issued a press release making a direct appeal to the people of Canada. In it he said: "My people and the government of the Republic of China have been distressed by the recently intensified efforts by the government in trying to recognize the Mao Tse-tung regime.

There even has been word that Canada, in her eagerness to achieve that recogniition, might decide to forsake her traditional friendly relations with the Republic of China."

The ambassador said a study of pronouncements showed the belief of the Canadian government that diplomatic relations with the Mao regime would help promote peace and international understanding by bringing the so far isolated Chinese Communists into the community of nations.

It also indicated that Canada believed it was in this country's interests to take such a step.

"I do not believe so," said the ambassador.

"The Chinese Communists today are isolated only because they themselves have chosen isolation. They have stubbornly resisted all previous efforts made by the free world to bring about communication and contract through diplomatic relations," said Ambassador Hsueh.

Strife 'Financed by Mao'

He pointed out that Britain recognized the Chinese Communist regime 20 years ago. So far Britain has seen her economic holdings and interests on the Chinese mainland liquidated, her legation quarters sacked, her diplomats manhandled and her newsmen incarcerated.

France, "under the bridge-building illusion" recognized the Chinese Communists five years ago. The French government was forced subsequently to conclude that much of France's turmoil and strife last May was instigated and financed by Mao's embassy in Paris, said the ambassador.

The ambassador declared that "what the Chinese Communists did to France they would do with greater enthusiasm to the North American continent. I shudder to think what grave consequences there would be to the security of the Americans if the Chinese Communists should ever be allowed to gain a foothold, or rather, a base of operations on the continent of North America for their subversive activities."

He suggested that if Canada was to use the recognition of the Mao regime as an instrument to promote peace and international understanding, it must not act alone, but in conjunction with other major powers in the Pacific.

The lone efforts of Canada would be not only wasted but would also do harm to the cause of peace by encouraging Mao Tse-tung to think his militant policy was paying dividends.

The ambassador also dismissed the argument that recognition could better promote trade. He pointed out the Mao regime has been buying wheat from abroad simply to meet its own needs without regard to diplomatic relations.

Students March on Students

WINDSOR (CP) — The first active resistance against demonstrators who have blockaded themselves in Windsor Hall at the University of Windsor was mounted early today when about 30 residence students marched on the protesters.

The early-morning march on the barricades may have been the first part of a counter-demonstration by students against the occupation of the theology department.

The counter-move began about 2 a.m. when counter-demonstrators got through the front ground-floor door of the building, but stopped at the barricaded door on the second floor.

The residence men were met by two of the demonstrators, and they talked for about an hour before the residence students drifted away.

A graduate student in history said a committee was formed to protest "against the irresponsible, immature and illegal action taken by the students occupying the theology department."

Fifty-five students barricaded themselves in the theology, classics and psychology departments of the university early Tuesday to back demands for a greater voice in departmental decisions after a professor was released. They were joined by another 30 students Tuesday night.

Dr. J. Francis Leddy, president of the university, said in a statement that U.S.-born Dr. William Kelly, a lecturer in the theology department, was released after his year's probationary period — "the standard probationary period followed by most North American universities."

Dr. Kelly's dismissal sparked the sit-in.

90 Face Arson Charges; $2M Damage to University

MONTREAL (CP) — Sixty men and 30 women appeared in municipal court today for arraignment on conspiracy charges arising from a student rampage Tuesday that caused at least $2,000,000 damage to Sir George Williams University.

Each of the accused was to face charges of conspiracy to commit arson and conspiracy to commit mischief.

Strict security was in effect during the court appearance. The public was barred from the courthouse by helmeted members of the police riot squad, who carried plexiglass shields and long batons.

Reporters were allowed to enter via a rear entrance through police headquarters, where their credentials were checked.

A group of about 50 persons protested about being kept outside. Four persons, including a husband and wife, were arrested outside the courthouse for disturbing the peace by shouting.

The 30 females to be arraigned ranged in age from 18 to 26. All of the 60 males were in their teens or 20s except for two men in their late 40s who described themselves as students.

All gave Montreal addresses except for one Haitian student.

The conspiracy charges allege that they conspired to commit mischief "by obstructing, interrupting or interfering with the lawful use, enjoyment or operation of the computer centre" in Sir George Williams University, and to commit arson "by wilfully setting fire to the computer centre."

A university spokesman estimated that damage, mainly to the costly ninth-floor computer centre, would total at least $2,000,000.

The seventh-floor cafeteria was also damaged during the rampage, and other floors suffered smoke and water damage.

Earlier this morning, police ended the 10-hour rampage by breaking past student-erected barriers as firemen fought the fire.

The students had hurled university records, registration cards, transcripts and computer tapes onto downtown Maisonneuve Boulevard from their ninth-storey bastion.

Firemen contained the blaze, but smoke and water damage was widespread.

Acting Principal Douglass Clarke said police were called in after an estimated 150 to 200 students ransacked the seventh-floor cafeteria and turned on water hoses.

Mr. Clarke said the law and regulations of the university "must be accepted as such" and any change must be implemented by lawful process.

Meanwhile, steps would be taken to recover study time lost by students whose classes were disrupted by the sit-in that started Jan. 29. It was called to protest administration handling of an investigation into charges of racial discrimination by an assistant biology professor against six West Indian students.

Even before firemen began pouring water into the ninth floor to quell the flames in the computer centre, corridors in the university were flooded with water from fire hoses opened by the occupiers. Escalators and stairwells were choked with furniture tossed by the dissenting students.

After it was all over, Malcolm Stone, university information officer, described the scene:

"The computer centre is a total wreck. There are bits and pieces of whatever goes into making a computer lying all over the floor. There's intricate wiring by the bucketfull, shattered crystals and water up to the ankles. Every window in the centre is smashed."

Mr. Stone said the students had destroyed both computers with axes and the fire later went through the ceiling of the room.

. . . HUMAN RIGHTS

and the provincial legislatures, thus reversing the tradition whereby the law-making function is supreme.

"It is important that the provinces be free to undertake those steps necessary to the maintenance of law and order," Mr. Heald said.

He added entrenchment could lead to "endless reference and appeals" to the courts, which might get involved in the policy-making which should be the prerogative of governments.

Mr. Peterson said entrenchment would tend to put a brake on social development. The idea of what constitutes fundamental human rights varies over the years, but it would be difficult to change with the times if today's beliefs were entrenched in the constitution, he said.

The B.C. minister said there should be "limited entrenchment"—a guarantee that legislative bodies should be elected and answerable to the people.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said Quebec favors entrenched human rights provided Ottawa refrains from using the charter as an excuse to meddle in provincial affairs.

The Quebec premier told the conference he recognizes there might be disadvantages in entrenching the human rights charter in the constitution, but Quebec believes the benefits would outweigh the drawbacks.

Mr. Bertrand said he favors entrenchment of rights applicable at both the federal and provincial levels, but on condition the federal Parliament would not interfere with provincial matters under the charter.

For example, he said, Ottawa should not be able to use the human rights guarantee as an excuse to make laws that would interfere with such operations as wills and contracts.

LINKED TOGETHER

In addition, Mr. Bertrand said, constitutional human rights should be established at the same time as a new constitution, but not before.

He said the human rights charter would be linked to other constitutional changes, including establishment of a constitutional court and perhaps also changes in the form and function of the Senate.

Deputy Premier D. G. Steuart of Saskatchewan said a few minutes before the conference resumed that his province has modified its position on Prime Minister Trudeau's human rights charter.

"When we came to Ottawa all we were willing to talk about entrenching in the constitution were the traditional freedoms, such as freedom of the press, freedom of religion and so on," said Mr. Steuart.

"But now we're willing to discuss entrenchment of political rights because of what Prime Minister Trudeau has had to say on the subject."

OPPOSES SOME PARTS

However, said Mr. Steuart, there are still some areas of the charter that Saskatchewan opposes, such as proposed entrenchment of some legal rights covered in other legislation.

"We don't want to find ourselves saddled with an American-style constitution with legal rights that allow a criminal minority to discriminate against the majority of citizens."

Premier Walter Weir of Manitoba said in a corridor interview that his delegation hasn't heard anything so far that changes his position against entrenchment of the rights charter, though Manitoba is still open to suggestion.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said British Columbia still thinks there are adequate safeguards in present legislation to make an entrenched bill of rights unnecessary. "Our position remains the same," he told reporters.

PM, WEIR CLASH

Today's meeting was marked by another clash between Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Weir. For the third day in a row Mr. Weir pressed the prime minister for assurance that Ottawa will not start or end any more shared-cost programs without consultation.

In a tart exchange, Mr. Trudeau suggested that Manitoba was asking to be consulted every time the federal government raises taxes. The province didn't consult Ottawa when it raised taxes.

"I don't want it to emerge from this conference that we are the villains every time we raise taxes," he said.

Mr. Weir said he was not suggesting that Ottawa should consult the provinces every time it raises taxes. Mr. Trudeau said that was the way it had sounded.

At the noon-hour adjournment, the angry Manitoba premier said he was "very disappointed" with the prime minister's refusal to give guarantees. I'm not satisfied with his statement in the least," said Mr. Weir.

Aid Still Needed For Indian Family Homeless in Fire

A mother and five children whose home on the East Saanich Indian Reservation was destroyed by fire Tuesday will likely move into a new house next week.

Victor Underwood, manager of the Tsawout Band, who is handling the affairs of the Horne family, said today public response to the family's plight has been good.

"So far we've received a little bit of everything," he said, "but we need more clothing, dishes and a couple more beds."

He said he is looking for a home for the family and expects to locate one within the next day or two. He asked that anyone knowing of a suitable home telephone him at 652-2921 or 652-2947.

ly with most foreign missions in Ottawa that have embassies in Peking. All these missions, incidentally, are believed to have expressed approval for Canada moving to recognize China.

One request the Canadians no doubt will make is that representatives be allowed to travel in various parts of China and be permitted to visit communes, factories, schools and other institutions in order to make first-hand assessments of living and working conditions in China.

The Chinese probably will answer that Canadian diplomats will be allowed the same privileges as all foregin embassies in Peking.

Before the Cultural Revolution diplomats were taken annually on a long trip to different places in China. Visits to factories and communes, as well as several cities, were relatively easy to arrange.

At the moment, diplomats are allowed to go to the cities of Shanghai, Canton and Tientsin. In recent months visits to communes and factories have been organized.

EMBASSY SITE

Another matter to be discussed is the location of a Canadian embassy. More than 40 missions are established here and many are situated in the new tree-lined diplomatic area called San Li Tun, in northeast Peking. The embassies of Sweder, France, Norway, Yugoslavia and other countries are located there but there are still two or three unoccupied buildings. The Chinese will probably offer one of these to Canada. Nearby are modern apartment buildings erected especially for diplomatic staffs.

If an embassy is established in Peking, Canada probably would have a staff of about six persons: ambassador, first secretary, trade counsellor, assistant trade counsellor or attache, and two clerks.

Some of these could be moved from the Canadian trade commissioner's office in Hong Kong, which has been dealing largely with Chinese affairs.

TWO MENTIONED

Two men who probably will be considered for the ambassadorship are Chester Ronning and Blair Seaborn.

Mr. Ronning lived in China as a child and speaks fluent Mandarin. He has had a long and distinguished career as a diplomat in the Far East and is liked and respected by the Chinese. His age, 76, however, might be regarded as a handicap.

Mr. Seaborn has also served in the Orient and at present is head of the Far Eastern desk in the external affairs department at Ottawa. Tall, energetic and decisive, he is regarded by his colleagues as one of the brightest men in the department.

The third diplomatic post probably will fall to one of the group of younger men working to become Sinologists. The Canadian office in Hong Kong usually has at least one junior diplomat studying Mandarin at the University.

Ironically, one of these, David Anderson, became fluent in Mandarin and was eventually posted back to the external affairs office in Ottawa. He resigned to run as a candidate in the last federal election, won, and now is a member of the external affairs committee.

Breath Test Legislation Scored

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal MP Steven Otto said Tuesday the government's proposed breath-analysis legislation is so tough police may not want to enforce it.

"This will result in a non-effective law," Mr. Otto (York East) warned as debate continued on second reading of the contentious omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code.

The Toronto lawyer said the statutory impairment level set out in the bill would mean a Canadian could be convicted, whether impaired or not, after two drinks.

The level constitutes as impairment a blood alcohol level of eight-hundredths of one per cent. The level would be measured by a compulsory breath analysis taken by police.

A driver who refused to take the test without "reasonable excuse" could be convicted for the refusal and would be subject to the same penalties as those for impairment.

EFFECTS DRINKING HABITS

Mr. Otto said all this will have "a fairly serious effect on the drinking habits of Canadians." The government had better make sure they weren't taken by surprise.

"The government should consider seriously whether the people are willing as yet to accept such a law."

It would mean that people who refused "to incriminate themselves" by submitting to the breath test would be guilty.

How could this be reconciled with the charter of human rights being proposed at the federal-provincial conference by the government?

However, Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey) compared the statutory impairment level to a speed limit.

He said it has been shown in tests that drivers become prone to accidents at that level.

SAVE LIVES, MONEY

The proposed amendments "could save 20 lives a week and millions of dollars in destructions of property.

"What we need is freedom, not for drinking drivers but from drinking drivers," Mr. Mather said.

In other aspects of the debate:

—Creditiste MPs Adrien Lambert (Bellechasse) and Lionel Beaudoin (Richmond) indicated their party will try to have the abortion clauses withdrawn and the subject studied by a royal commission.

—Conservative MPs continued to urge that the government allow its members to vote according to conscience on the omnibus bill.

—New Democrat Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) said abortion isn't a criminal matter and should be dropped from the code altogether.

Mr. Knowles also said he will oppose clauses that would allow state lotteries, which he described as "the most regressive form of taxation."

Fewer Vehicles Enter

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of foreign vehicles entering Canada last year was 12,066,760, down 2.5 per cent from 1967 but up more than 10 per cent from 1966, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

There are fes things more irritating than to be unable to sleep well when you go to bed. The weather can have everything to do with it. If you have enjoyed normal health all day long and then discover that you can't sleep, you might as well get up and read.

If the weather outside is muggy and warmer than usual, you may be too warm in bed with blanketing intended for cold nights. So you toss and turn and wonder why you can't sleep. If you get up and go into the living room and read, you soon get sleepy. But when you go back to bed be sure to take a blanket off and lighten the covers. Then you ought to sleep better.

You can check the weather reports for an idea on how you'll sleep on almost any night. Nights of rain and snow are good nights to sleep. Almost anybody knows that. Cool and dry nights are good sleeping nights, too. A damp, cold night helps you sleep well, but you had better have the window open only a crack when the humidity is high and the temperature warm.

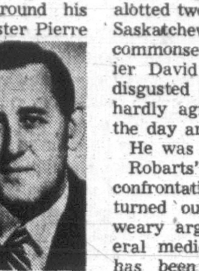
Fizzle, Sputter, Misfire Went Provinces' Attack

By ANTHONY WESTELL



Westell

OTTAWA — With a private smile flickering around his mouth, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau sat back in his chair at the head of the constitutional conference Tuesday and watched the threatened provincial onslaught on federal fiscal policies fizzle out in confusion and contradiction.

Ontario's Premier John Robarts had warned of a confrontation endangering confederation. Quebec's Jean-Jacques Bertrand had talked of a fiscal crisis. The three prairie premiers joined last week in a strident demand that financial issues be placed at the top of the conference agenda.

Headlines, newscasts and inflamatory comments created the impression that provinces were marching on Ottawa, shoulder to shoulder, to demand not only immediate financial relief but also a major voice in making national fiscal policy.

But when the moment for attack came Tuesday, under the eager eyes of the television cameras in the gilt-and-garish Confederation Room on Parliament Hill—fizzle, sputter, misfire.

The basic reason was that while it is easy for the provinces to agree in general that Ottawa should spend less and leave them more in tax resources, they begin to quarrel as soon as they turn to explore details.

This is a diverse country, as the premiers are so fond of saying, and part of that diversity is that proinces need different sorts of help and support from Ottawa.

Trudeau exploited this fact Tuesday to divide and diffuse the provincial attack.

He met the premiers full of the sweetest reason and eager to consider their every wish. The federal government was ready of course, to consider constitutional curbs on its spending power so that more tax room would be left for the provinces. Just where would the premiers like to see Ottawa cut back?

Perhaps the federal government should forego the power to raise funds to initiate such programs as hospital insurance? Or how about eliminating the equalization grants which Ottawa collects in the richer provinces to pay to the poorer? Maybe the federal government should opt-out of regional development, or be barred from launching such schemes as ARDA?

"We—and the Canadian people—are looking for guidance for the rules of the game," said Trudeau earnestly, inviting the premiers to speak up.

●

The premiers no sooner began their replies than they were at cross purposes, quarelling with each other rather than with Ottawa.

Trudeau could relax and intervene only to throw in a provocative remark when the debate among the premiers seemed in danger of flagging.

As the inconclusive argument dragged on through the alotted two hours before noon, Saskatchewan's bluff and commonsensical deputy premier David Steuart made the disgusted comment: "We can hardly agree on the time of the day around here."

He was right.

Robarts' brave talk about confrontation and show-down turned out to be the same weary argument against federal medicare which Ontario has been voicing for three years.

The premier asked for $225-million from Ottawa in place of medicare funds, and was blatant in explaining that his appeal—such as it was—was directed not so much to the federal government as, through the TV cameras, to the voters of Ontario.

●

The voters may also have noticed that Robarts' argument that federal medicare is unconstitutional and unwanted was promptly contradicted by British Columbia's Premier W. A. C. Bennett, a free-enterprising provincial autonomist in most matters who happens to have accepted Ottawa's medicare cash.

They may also have heard the prairie's principal spokesman on fiscal problems, Manitoba's lugubrious Walter Weir, announce that as far as he is concerned, the medicare issue is past, and no longer worth fighting about.

It was a bad morning all around for Robarts. When he offered himself in the unconvincing role of private citizen John Robarts oppressed by the weight of taxes, he was quickly undercut by Newfoundland's puckish Joseph Smallwood who produced a raft of figures to show that the poorest fisherman in the farthest outport pays taxes at a higher rate than does Robarts, a plump and prosperous Ontario burgher.

●

His role Tuesday was to make the case that any attempt to curtail the federal taxing and spending power might endanger the equalization grants the poorer provinces receive from the richer provinces, via Ottawa.

While the provinces quarrelled inside the conference chamber, the federal team quietly reinforced its position outside by distributing to newsmen a briefing paper loaded with statistics disputing most of the fiscal claims made by Robarts and other premiers.

For example: Most of the provinces have been operating on budget surpluses while the federal government has been deep in deficits; federal payments to the provinces have increased more than $800-million if five years; municipal revenues have been increasing faster than expenditures; the provincial governments already collect about 30 per cent of their revenues from Ottawa.

So much for the great confrontation that never was.

The value of the occasion perhaps was two-fold. To demonstrate once again that the federal government still represents the only national consensus. And to allow the premiers to vent some of their political frustrations before turning to other problems.

Certainly they were in an amiable and co-operative mood later in the day when they discussed rights and the proposed charter of human freedoms.

It would be wrong to claim that great progress was made, but some ground was recovered that seemed on Monday to be lost.

Quebec's Bertrand opened on Monday with a contemptuous dismissal of bilingualism as of no value to his province. One could at once see the questions forming in the mind of English-Canada. If Quebec does not want bilingualism, why should we bother?

Gently prodded by Trudeau, Bertrand revised his position Tuesday and explained that Quebec does indeed support the principle of the federal official languages bill, but would like to see it go further.

Federal officials sighed with relief and described Bertrand's speech as very helpful.

●

As discussion of the charter of human rights began, Ontario cautiously conceded that it may accept the principle of entrenching some political freedoms in the constitution—an advance on the previous position.

Some other provinces apparently maintain their objections to entrenchment, but are cheerfully ready to examine the matter in detail in committees of justice ministers and attorneys-general.

The stage seems to have been set, in fact, for a wind-up of the conference today in which the 11 governments will agree to continue the long process of constitutional review in a variety of committees of minister and officials.

That's not very exciting. And more could have been achieved at this conference with better preparation.

But an agreement to continue talking is at least better than a breaking of relations, which seemed possible last week when the provinces were threatening confrontation and the dissolution of the language consensus.

Slides Close Canyon Link Of Highway

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Fraser Canyon section of the Trans-Canada Highway remained closed today by snow slides and danger of more and there was no word on when it will reopen.

Heavy rain and melting show brought down slides Tuesday and a 100-mile stretch of highway, between Hope, 80 miles east of Vancouver, and Spences Bridge, was closed.

In a 30-mile section between Yale and Boston Bar, slides partially buried two cars and there were several minor accidents. No serious injuries were reported by police.

Traffic was rerouted over the Hope-Princeton section of the southern Trans-Canada, itself open to only one lane of traffic after a slidde which covered the road eight miles east of Hope.

In Washington State, a mud slide cut the Great Northern Railway main line. Passengers on the Vancouver-Seattle run were taken past the slide by buses.

China Holding U.K. Journalist And His Family

The Manchester Guardian

LONDON—A British journalist and his wife have been arrested in China on unspecified charges, it was learned here Tuesday.

Nothing had been heard of Eric Gordon, his wife Marie and their 13-year-old son, Kim, for 16 months.

Ben Whitaker, a Labor Party member of Parliament, called Tuesday at the Chinese legation in London with relatives of the Gordon family.

He said later: "We had thought that Mr. and Mrs. Gordon were being held as hostages for the Chinese detained in Hong Kong. But we were told that they had been arrested for unspecified offences against Chinese laws. We were told that their case is being investigated.

"There are no charges against their son, who is 13 today, and we were told he was being well treated."

Whitaker said he has informed the British Foreign Office of the situation.

Air Crash Kills 7

EL TORO, Calif. (AP)—A U.S. Navy patrol bomber with seven persons aboard crashed Tuesday night near the El Toro Marine Air Station in the rugged Santa Ana Mountains. Three bodies were recovered and a navy spokesman indicated today there was little hope of survivors.

Cong Bids Thwarted

SAIGON (AP)—Two attempts by Viet Cong terrorists to blow up busloads of Americans were thwarted today near Saigon's Tan Nhut Air Base.

As many as 50 officers on the staff of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams could have been killed or wounded in one of the attempts, but no Americans were hurt.

The two attempts took place at almost the same spot near the big air base and within 30 minutes of each other.

The first attempt was made about 6:30 a.m., when two Vietnamese on a motorcycle hooked about five pounds of TNT or plastic explosive attached to a string to the screen window of a bus carrying 50 officers on Gen. Abrams' staff to their offices.

An army major spotted the terrorists at work and warned Lt.-Col. Harold J. Keeling, 41, who was sitting next to the window. Keeling pulled the hook from the screen and the charge exploded on the ground after the bus had gone half a block farther.

One building was damaged and a Vietnamese child was injured by the blast.

The terrorists escaped.

Half an hour later, a U.S. soldier saw a briefcase near the right rear wheel of another shuttle bus picking up passengers near a barracks. The men were quickly removed from the bus, and an ordnance demolition team found a bomb inside the briefcase and disarmed it.

Mr. Douglas Returns

MR. T. C. DOUGLAS REBOUNDed from his June 25 defeat by Mr. Ray Perrault in Burnaby-Seymour, to score a clear federal byelection victory in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands. The riding had long been held for the NDP by his predecessor, the late Mr. Colin Cameron. Despite a smaller turnout of voters, the Douglas total exceeded that of Mr. Cameron last year, while Mr. Douglas' runner-up, Mr. Eric Winch, gained slightly for the Liberals.

Support for the Conservative candidate was sharply reduced, with a total about one-fifth of that accorded the Tory candidate last June—a clear indication that released Nanaimo Social Credit voters have not followed the Manning proposals for political realignment. (In ex-Premier Manning's former constituency in Edmonton, however, Monday's byelection produced an upset victory for the Conservative candidate.)

Mr. Douglas waged an energetic campaign and deserves his success in holding what has been—except for a short Conservative interlude—an NDP strongpoint for the past 16 years. But his return to Parliament may pose him more problems than he faced in winning election. Despite his energy and his enthusiasm, Mr. Douglas inevitably is being associated in the public mind with an era that, with the retirement of Mr. Pearson and the twilight of Mr. Diefenbaker, has almost disappeared.

Many members of his party have recognized the need to match the swinging Trudeau image and the Stanfield new look with a similarly fresh approach, but out of understandable loyalty to their leader have been loath to press the matter. Mr. Douglas himself sees the situation and earlier had offered his resignation as party chief. It was declined, but he is still reviewing the question.

The social problems which launched Mr. Douglas on his political career more than 30 years ago have changed in accent; most of their remedies have been taken over as policies by the other parties. Mr. Douglas has found it increasingly difficult to stand out as the sole champion of the oppressed in this era of proliferating social welfare legislation. His party needs a new directive, a new technique, and it will be hard for Mr. Douglas to break from his traditional mould to produce it.

'Wisely This Time'

RECENT NEWS REPORTS OF scuffles at the Canada-United States border in the neighborhood of the St. Regis Indian Reserve which straddles the St. Lawrence River at Cornwall Island have drawn attention to an apparent injustice suffered by the Mohawk band. The Indians claim that under the Jay Treaty of 1794 they have the right to pass freely across the border with their possessions. But a Canadian law restricting this right is given legal precedence and in recent weeks the Canadian Customs authorities have been applying the regulations and charging duty on goods brought into Canada by the Indians.

This is only one of several grievances put forward by the Indians. Canadians' treatment of their Indian population over the years is one of which we are rightly ashamed. There was so much that could have been done to ease the movement of the original race from its primitive culture to the white man's civilization, and so little that was carried out. The net effect in many cases has been to degrade the Indians and supply nothing to take the place of customs and livelihood which have been destroyed. Only in recent years have there been constructive moves to aid Indian education on a practical basis and to initiate means by which the Indian can achieve a workable relationship with the city and with industry.

There is certainly, therefore, a heavy onus on the federal government to speed the machinery to solve the problem of the St. Regis reserve Indians, and to change or interpret the law with a full recognition of what is owed the first inhabitants.

Mr. Robert Andras, minister without portfolio, who is involved in seeking a solution, is apparently impressed with the Indians' case. He told a recent delegation: "I'm not asking you to go back to Cornwall Island and be quiet and peaceful. I'm trying to be very honest with you—I think we have to try to do it wisely this time."

And that, after all these decades, would be a good way to do it.

Pressure on the Moderates

STUDENT MILITANCY IN BRITain has drawn a sharp rebuff. Moderate students have joined university authorities in a counter-revolutionary movement to check the kind of violence introduced by a "tiny cell" of extremists in the January 24 demonstration at the London School of Economics. These forces of moderation lend support to the court action initiated by the London School of Economics the following day for damages against 13 people said to have been involved in the event. The moderates have expressed sympathy, also, with Edward Short, secretary of state for education and science, who says "It is high time that one or two of these thugs were thrown out on their necks" for fouling the good name of a generation of students.

But some misgivings have been created by Mr. Short's further statement that "local authorities in consultation with the universities can wield considerable influence. They have a major deterrent in their own hands." The deterrent is taken to be the ability of the authorities to withhold grants from student troublemakers. Justifiable as that might appear, application of the deterrent is seen as an invasion of university autonomy which could set precedents dangerous to the future.

Here, obviously, is another instance of potential backlash invited by the extreme activists in universities. Moderates, far from blind to the justice of some student efforts to bring universities into conformity with the times, have little desire to risk useful advances by encouraging a form of discipline which could be turned against them. Their apparent wish is to avoid a weapon which, while it might crush the "tiny cell" of those who practise violence, could crush much that is worthwhile as well.

The danger is recognized in Britain, as it is on this continent, where moderates must remain moderate for the defence of their institutions from extremism at both poles.

Unexpected B.C. Help on Language Bill

Western

FROM the standpoint of the public expectations, Tuesday was a disappointing day in which the federal-provincial constitutional conference appeared to lose more ground than it gained. The reality probably is that the expectations were somewhat inflated. For, on the one hand, the Official Languages Bill and Mr. Trudeau's Canadian Charter of Human Rights have received extensive publicity.

They originated in the Dunton-Laurendeau report; they were much discussed in the election campaign; as positive and challenging proposals, they attracted a great deal of attention. Very much less was known about the discussions in the continuing committee which met behind closed doors and only recently made public a delicately worded summary setting out in a general way a range of provincial opinions.

The morning session was a three hour detour into non-constitutional matters. Mr. Trudeau was doubtless able to draw some comfort from the fact that the provinces, as usual, have sharply differing ideas about methods of financing the "just society." But despite their differences most of the premiers managed to unite in what amounted to a grand remonstrance addressed to the federal government. There was certainly a dominant feeling that in the past two years Ottawa has dealt cavalierly with the provinces in the matter of shared programs and there was particularly keen resentment about medicare.

Benson to the Wolves

It was all somewhat reminiscent of the Russian tale of the party fleeing across the frozen wastes pursued by ravenous wolves. The most obvious candidate to be thrown to the pack was Mr. Benson, who offered several nervous and not very successful objections. But some of the hungrier premiers intimated that they wanted Mr. Sharp too, and there appeared to be general relief when the federal party escaped by afternoon to safer discussions on constitution reform.

At two points, however, the morning discussion did touch on the constitution. There was a preposterous suggestion by Mr. Bennett that the federal government should agree to surrender its general power for raising revenue in favor of a restricted right. This meant, as he blandly conceded, that Ottawa should withdraw from direct tax fields. It is equally plain that this would be wholly unacceptable to the less wealthy provinces.

The second point, in the form of a question, was Mr. Trudeau's. Should there be rules governing the exercise of the federal spending power? While this was not taken up directly, much of the discussion bore directly on it. For it was the burden of Mr. Robarts reproach that Ottawa had used its "fiscal leverage" to force provinces into programs (notably medicare) which they did not want and which were within their jurisdiction.

Bilingual Prospects

In the afternoon, the premiers turned their attention to the language bill and to the entrenchment of fundamental rights. Of the two, the lanugage bill, although facing two principal objections, appears at the moment to have the better prospects.

The Western premiers, as a group, are not enthusiastic about proposals for securing language rights through legislation. Mr. Heald, the Saskatchewan attorney-general, contended that some sections of the bill are ultra vires of the federal government. There are also objections that the bill will create practical difficulties in the operations of the courts.

Mr. Turner, who is in charge of the bill, received unexpected help from British Columbia. Although Mr. Bennett insists in his brief that the legislation is unconstitutional, his attorney-general suggested that the provinces explore the possibilities of agreement before going to the Supreme Court. This is to be done. In addition, the federal government is quite prepared to consult with the provinces about practical problems of implementation and this work is to be explored first by officials and afterwards, presumably, by the attorneys-general.

As the federal government is extremely confident that it can make its case in the courts (an opinion shared by Mr. Robarts and Mr. Robichaud), the probability is that Mr. Trudeau will realize this part of his program.

The outlook for a constitutional Bill of Rights is much more cloudy. As the Prime Minister very candidly observed there is no consensus.

Too Optimistic

It seemed likely until recently that the federal government would encounter opposition on linguistic rights but find commanding support for other parts of the bill. The former impression was correct; the latter much too optimistic.

The most searching criticism of the federal proposal came from Mr. Wishart, attorney-general of Ontario—the province which has gone farthest, through its human rights commission, to protect the citizen and to bar discrimination. Mr. Wishart was agreeable to the entrenchment of political rights as specified in the charter. He developed a reasoned argument, however, against the inclusion in a charter of those rights designated as legal or egalitarian. His general case was that in these fields more effective protection can be afforded by action within provincial jurisdiction. Where rights are entrenched, resort is to the courts. Typically, however, in the Ontario experience, complaints are best dealt with by the flexible procedures of inquiry and persuasion. Of some thousands of cases, only two have in fact necessitated judicial action.

Mr. Wishart was generally supported in this view by Mr. Lyon of Manitoba.

Limited Settlement

Although this subject is also to be referred to the attorneys-general for further consideration, it would appear at this stage that the federal government will have to settle in the end for something considerably less far-reaching than the Trudeau bill.

But any appraisal must be tentative. For there remains the possibility of a general agreement based on the "opting-in" principle. Federal officials emphasize that their flexibility extends even to the separate sections of the proposed bill. Thus it would be possible for a province, say Quebec, to remain outside; for Ontario to bind itself constitutionally to the political sections; or for Saskatchewan to accept everything except the linguistic provisions. If at the beginning a group of provinces could be persuaded to join with the federal government in entrenching all categories of rights, others might feel disposed to commit themselves voluntarily at later stages and in the light of greater experience.

There is at least the hope in Ottawa that unanimous consent may be found for such a procedure.

FROM QUIMPER, BRITTANY

By TIM TRAYNOR

Where De Gaulle Talks Unity

Traynor

THE Canadian ear is early attuned to all the jargon of minority rights, federalism and cultural diversity. We have reached a high level of sophistication in these matters, though heaven knows our problems persist. In France at the moment, all the familiar issues are being aired, but crudely, in terms that any Canadian would find jarring. The separatist leanings of Brittany have finally developed to the point where something must be done, but France is nothing like ready to accommodate the Bretons' distinct Celtic culture.

It is a question rather of introducing a measure of self-government to regions, Brittany among them, now in the grip of a highly-centralized administrative system. It was in this vein that General de Gaulle spoke on his recent tour of the Breton Peninsula, where separatists bomb public buildings much in the manner of the militants of Quebec.

Contrast

It was curious to watch the French president attempting thus to come to terms with the Bretons. Here was the man who places the Frenchness of Quebec above its federal attachment, facing a people who would place their culture on at least the same level as their attachment to France. He had encouraged the French-Canadian separatists, and the Breton separatists naturally demanded that the same standard be applied to them.

There is, of course, no straight comparison between Quebec and Brittany. The Breton challenge is both more and less than that of the Quebecois. On the one hand, Quebec has long enjoyed a degree of autonomy, both cultural and political, which the Bretons hardly dare to dream of. Again, Quebec has experienced nothing like Brittany's loss of population to the more highly-developed areas of France. There are said to be over 400,000 Bretons in Paris alone.

On the other hand, Brittany is a much less distinct cultural entity, though this is in part due to a determined French campaign of assimilation. It is nearly five centuries since the Breton peninsula was attached to France, and French has always been the language of instruction in the schools. Breton is only spoken by about a third of the 2.5 million population, which in turn represents a far smaller factor in France than does Quebec in Canada.

Short on Minority Experience

But a certain parallel is possible, and General de Gaulle's tour only served to emphasize it. One could have imagined him a Canadian prime minister tackling rural Quebec as he declaimed the virtues of national unity and humored particularist sensitivities with praise for the culture and a few words of the language. The fact that this picture is out of date is perhaps a comment on General de Gaulle's lack of experience in ministering to minorities. But the general is nothing if not thorough, and the most polished Canadian federalist would have admired his command of the dogmas of unity in diversity.

In an open-air speech in the main square of Quimper, he said France was undergoing a great renovation which would serve, and be served by, all the regions equally. Brittany had lagged behind the rest of the country but through this national leap forward the lost ground would be made up. More outlets than in the past would be given to regional diversity in order to mobilize better the energies of the people for the national good. Then, inevitably, there was a recitation of the economic advantages which would accrue to Brittany through participation in the grand scheme.

Looking Back

From the Times, Feb. 12, 1909.

The West Coast Fishing Co., owners of the Esquimalt oyster beds, has decided to send Capt. Williams to the east coast in March to purchase 10 carloads of oysters to plant in the local beds for the purpose of increasing the supply.

There are at present about 2,500,000 oysters in the beds at Esquimalt, but more are needed to keep up with demands. Most of the imported oysters take four years to mature.

Opposed In Principle

The members of the Grand Black Chapter of British Columbia of the Royal Black Knights of the British Commonwealth, which have members throughout Canada, the U.S.A. and the Commonwealth, view with grave concern the statements of the Prime Minister of Canada with reference to the possible appointment of an Envoy to the Vatican. Our Association is in principle opposed to any union, however obscure, between Church (any church) and state.

The Roman Catholic Church has throughout the centuries appeared to be as much political as religious. Any move to recognize the political status of the Vatican is tantamount to a recognition of the Roman Catholic Church. Canada is made up of many religious faiths and an official connection by the government of Canada with the Vatican will place the Roman Catholic Church in a privileged position. While it may be true that the Roman Catholic Church has the largest numebr of adherents we still feel that no one religious denomination should be given preference however indirectly. — Grand Master, J. Middleton; Grand Registrar, John G. Humphries.

Protesting Vatican Contact

I am strongly opposed to our Prime Minister's idea of setting up diplomatic relations with the Vatican. While the Vatican is rated as a state, it performs few of the functions of a state. Its power and prestige is on the decline and diplomatic relations with it would benefit Canada neither spiritually nor commercially. Furthermore, I protest giving the inside track at Ottawa to any one religious organization.

First it was de Gaulle, now the Vatican. Are they going to run this country, or are Canadians going to run it?

Let me paraphrase Lincoln — —"that government of the Canadian people, by the Canadian people, for the Canadian people shall not be allowed to perish from this land."—"Keep us Canadian."

Slippery Maths

Can anybody here do arithmetic?

We were told that the well off Santa Barbara was "leaking" at a rate "estimated" at about 21,000 gallons per day: a quantity comparable to the tank capacity of a large filling station. The oil slick spread over that part of the Pacific at the rate of about 100 square miles per day, which is about 2.8 billion square feet per day.

21,000 American gallons equal 280 cubic feet. 2800 cubic feet of oil spread evenly over 2.8 billion square feet of ocean would form a film one one-millionth of a foot thick (or about 1-10000th of an inch, or 1-4000th of a millimeter or one-quarter of a micron). Or, if it were to pile up in a 6-inch layer, as it is said to be doing locally it would cover 560 square feet, a fair-sized city lot.

It seems obvious that the actual flow from the well was fantastically underestimated or understated, that it was quite possibly a thousand times or more as great as the "estimates". It suggests a new pollution problem that will relegate our strip-mining squabbles to a paragraph or two in the second section of your valued paper.—Geoffrey Gilbert 915 Terrace Avenue.

Something Seems to Be Brewing Behind Those Kremlin Walls

By ANATOLE SHUB

MOSCOW—Perhaps it is only the frosty haze hanging over Moscow producing hallucinations. Perhaps it has been the sudden alternations in temperature, ranging from 30 degrees above to 25 degrees below zero (Fahrenheit), producing a half dozen varieties of flu and grippe, which have stimulated feverish imaginations.

Yet more and more foreign observers here — and a few Soviet citizens as well — can be heard to mutter, "strange things are happening," "there's something going on inside the Kremlin," and "we may be on the eve of a big change."

These premonitions have been intensified by two actual events and a plethora of curious "mini-happenings." The two actual events have been the 47-day absence of Prime Minister Alexi Kosygin (Dec. 20 - Feb. 6) and the mysterious shooting inside the Kremlin's Borovitsky Gate on Jan. 22 (which most observers believe was an attempt to assassinate Communist Party chief Leonid Brezhnev).

The minutiae, too numerous to recount and fascinating only to hard core Kremlinologists, have ranged from unfavorably placed photographs of Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny in the new Encyclopedic Yearbook (edited by a Brezhnev protege) to a strangely favorable report in the Red Army paper, Krasnaya Zveda, on Polish strongman Mieczeslaw Moczar (the Gomulka rival whom Brezhnev went specially to Warsaw's party congress in November to put down).

A Sense of Uncertainty

Even the most expertly programmed Kremlinological computer would probably be snarled if asked to make sense of all the odd references, omissions, nuances, and rumors being culled by assiduous western observers.

What is clear is a sense of uncertainty and dissonance, with various parts of the complex Soviet apparatus playing distinctly different melodies and an apparent vacuum of agreed policy on many important issues.

The issues enveloped in fog include policy toward Yugoslavia and Rumania, arms control talks with the United States, agricultural investment and reorganization, the shape of the next party congress (due in or before March, 1970), a new Soviet constitution, the "world" communist "unity" conference plannned for May, the relative powers of the KGB (committee on state security) and the MVD (ministry of internal affairs), the vast complex summed up in the terms destalinization and restalinization, the degree of freedom, control or repression for dissident and "wavering" intellectuals — and many, many other problems.

On each of these issues, there have been either strange periods of complete silence, or manifestly conflicting views expressed in (apparently) equally authoritative media.

Despite the importance of all the issues mentioned, most observers agree that the overriding single issue in the Kremlin for the past year has been Czechoslovakia — and that, if the post-Khrushchev coalition of the past four years is to break up, the Czechoslovak events will ultimately prove to have been decisive.

Czechoslovakia Key Issue

As the opponents of last August's invasion doubtless argued, Czechoslovakia impinges on almost every vital area of Soviet policy — relations with the west, the state of the world Communist movement, the state of the scientists, economists and intellectuals in Russia itself.

The fact that the invasion did not "solve" the crisis, but merely brought on new phases of continuing difficulty, is generally believed here to be the underlying cause of the dissonance and uncertainty in high Soviet circles.

Almost every Moscow Kremlinologist can plot scenarios of the ups and downs of various Soviet leaders during the various phases of the Czechoslovak crisis last year, both during the months before and even the days and weeks after the invasion. (However, it is also generally agreed that — with the storm of disapproval blowing from the Vatican and Peking's heavenly gate, Belgrade and Tirana, Jean Paul Sartre and Yvgeni Yevtushenko — the politburo's natural reflex last summer and fall was to submerge differences and maintain unity at all costs until the storm had died down.

Now, unexpectedly, the storm has not died down because the Czechs and Slovaks have strangely failed to yield to the standard Soviet techniques of political management.

Each time the Prague situation has seemed to be virtually "normalized," a new crisis has erupted. If the writers and journalists "behave," suddenly the Czech trade unions become centres of resistance.

If the workers seem appeased, the students are out on the streets again. And each time the Soviets appear to be exerting undue pressure, or there is the threat of new military or police measures, the outside world begins to react: Italian Communists fly secretly to Moscow to warn the Kremlin, the West Germans threaten to block the nuclear non-proliferation treaty, and so on.

Perhaps gravest of all, for the first time in 20 years, there seems to be looming at least the possibility of the Kremlin's ultimate nightmare—an understanding between Washington and Peking, largely resulting from the mutual shock over the Czech events.

Hawks and Doves Debating

In such a situation, as during the tortured American involvement in Vietnam, it may well be imagined that both the "hawks" and the "doves" in the Kremlin are saying:

"We told you so," the hardliners are doubtless arguing that whatever had to be done in Czechoslovakia should have been done quickly, thoroughly and ruthlessly at the very start, without the numerous compromises, stages, manoeuvres and niceties of the past five months.

The moderates, on the other hand, can well argue that the invasion itself, and all the pressures preceding and following it, were fundamentally misguided, and that the Dubcek experiment in "socialism with a human face" should have been welcomed in the same manner as Khrushchev embraced Titoist Yugoslavia from 1955 onward.

It is difficult to tell, from day to day, who may be winning this particular argument. Obviously the events of the past few weeks — the self-immolation of student Jan Palach and its consequences — have seemed incredible to numerous Russians, and probably given pause even to the boldest spirits in top circles. As one shrewd neutral diplomat here argued:

"The Palach affair seems to have produced the same effect on the Russians as last year's Viet Cong Tet offensive did on the Johnson administration.

Not only has there been a shock — but suddenly all the previous assumptions, and ways of viewing the problem, seem dubious or irrelevant. For the first time, I hear fairly official Soviet friends admitting, "we may have made a mistake going in to begin with."

There is clearly not the same confidence that everything will be under control in a matter of weeks or months, since nobody knows what new incident or tactic might suddenly spring up.

It may well be that the situation in Czechoslovakia will, after all, "normalize" without further harsh measures, that current controversies over economic reform may indeed be successfully resolved by compromise and that the prospect of a fairly early summit meeting with President Nixon will restrain the advocates of change.

Despite such possibilities and last fall's record harvest, the current leadership is hardly surrounded by an aura of brilliant success at this particular moment.

Veiled recriminations, as well as conflicting recommendations of alternative policies, have not failed to appear between the lines, at least, of the Soviet press.

Soviet dissidents report that even the police, on lower levels, seem uncertain of which way the pendulum may swing next. Several foreign diplomats and attaches are persuaded that "there's something going on in the army."

Many of these tendencies were already apparent before the January 22 shooting inside the Kremlin gate, and failure to define and explain that unprecedented incident has merely added fuel to the fires of speculation.

What Role for the Army?

Even those observers most convinced that change is imminent are in a complete quandary as to what form the changes might take.

Will there be only the removal or retirement of a few members of the politburo and party secretariat? Would that take the form of "hards" ousting "softs" or vice versa? Or will there be a larger "revolt" of the central committee against the politburo, or perhaps of the "juniors" "the leaders of the late 40s and 50s against the "seniors" who have held the top posts almost everywhere since Khrushchev's fall? What role might the army, the KGB, the MVD play in the processes?

To none of these questions has there been even the hint of a possible answer — which probably indicates that the "winning combination" has yet to emerge.

'Back to Days Of C. D. Howe'

The Financial Times

The Hellyer task force's report on housing brings up a picture of a Madison Avenue brainstorming session which was broken off half way through.

A lot of bright ideas about what would be good for housing were put out on the table. But nobody bothered to throw the bad or redundant or inapplicable ones out and put the rest into a cohesive plan.

★ ★ ★

Nobody bothered, either, to question the assumptions under which the report was written. The main assumption was that there was a housing "crisis" because there was a shortage of owner-occupied homes.

Underlying this was the even more basic assumption that this type of accommodation is the ideal for all kinds of Canadians.

So the task force came up with a melange of suggested measures designed to allow middle-income people who can already afford decent rented quarters to own their own houses.

★ ★ ★

For all its pious hand-wringing about the plight of the poor, it really had very little to say about the million or more Canadians who have an annual income of less than $5,500.

For something that emotes so mawkishly about its concern for the people, the report is curiously callous on this score.

It does call for "serious consideration" to providing income supplements to the poor so that they can afford normal housing, but one is nonetheless left with the feeling that, since the idea is to make home ownership feasible for anyone who can climb high enough on the income ladder, the poor deserve what they get for choosing to be poor.

This brutish attitude shows through most strongly in the suggestion that the system of income-related rentals in public housing is a disincentive for people to pull themselves together, get a well-paying job and buy a tickey-tackey house like a good, patriotic Canadian.

It also looks like a report written with a weather eye on the political angles. This is not to accuse the independent members of the task force of acquiescing in a political exercise, but it is to say that a fact-finding group headed by a politician is likely to find politically-oriented facts.

★ ★ ★

There are many more middle income voters than either the rich or poor.

From a practical standpoint, many of its proposals can and should be implemented. The longer amortization period which it suggests would be especially beneficial in bringing home-ownership within the grasp of more peoples' means.

It frequently oversteps the constitutional line into provincial territory, but some of its better recommendations could be put into effect through federal-provincial negotiation.

It has its strong points — it is bound to. But in its broad outlines, its thinking is back in the days of postwar reconstruction, haunted by the ghost of Mr. C. D. Howe.

Pulsars Caught By Camera

By WILBOURN McNUTT
World Book Science Service

AUSTIN, Tex.—Three men who never looked through a telescope before have made an important scientific discovery.

W. John Cocke, Michael J. Disney and Donald J. Taylor of the University of Arizona are the first people in history to see one of the mysterious pulsars. First discovered in 1967, pulsars send out puzzling radio signals at regular intervals, which led to speculation that they might be messages transmitted by civilizations on other worlds.

Cocke and Disney, who are more at home with abstruse mathematics than telescopes, and Taylor, an electronic specialist, had never operated a professional observatory telescope before January 12.

Then, after three nights of fruitless effort to train Arizona's 36-inch telescope on the remnants of an exploded star known as Crab Nebula, they were about to give up in disgust when they zeroed in on a flashing star.

Smack in the middle of the nebula, the star was in the exact position where radio observatories had discovered a pulsar. As further proof, flashes of light from the star match exactly the 30-times-a-second radio bursts of the pulsar.

●

Twenty-seven sources of pulsing radio energy have been discovered since 1967, but this is the first time that one has been tied to an object that can be seen.

The precise regularity of the pulsating signals gave rise to the idea that they came from intelligent beings. But this speculation was discredited when careful search revealed so many pulsars at different locations.

However, they may shed light on the origin of the Milky Way galaxy, on how much matter there is in the universe, and they may become useful as beacons for space travel.

Actually seeing one of these inexplicable objects seemed too good to be true. The excited Arizona trio, eager to verify their observation, obtained from rather crude instruments attached to the 36-inch telescope, fired off telegrams to the principal observatories around the world.

●

Replies were not long in coming. At the University of Texas' McDonald Observatory on Mount Locke in West Texas, Brian Warner and R. E. Nather had been engaged for months in perfecting a highly sophisticated optical device for searching for pulsars.

"It only took me about 10 minutes to locate the object in the Crab Nebula with our 82-inch telescope," says Warner.

Pulsations 30 times a second are too fast to be seen with the eye. Warner and Nather used electronic instruments, including the oscilloscope, to confirm the sighting.

The achievement is being hailed as a milestone by astronomers around the world. Nature, the top British scientific journal, is rushing into print with a technical article written by Warner and Nather.

●

"This is one of the most exciting developments in astronomy in the last decade," says Harlan Smith, director of UT's McDonald Observatory. "We are practically certain now that pulsars are neutron stars," he adds.

Neutron stars are in the final stage of dying. All that remains is a rapidly spinning, super-hot, incredibly dense core about 10 miles across. Scientists believe the radio pulses are produced by the core spinning inside a tremendously strong magnetic field.

The explosion that formed the nebula in which this pulsar was seen and recorded by Chinese astronomers in 1054 A.D. Crab Nebula is so far away its light takes 6,500 years to travel to Earth.

Radio energy, plus light energy put out by the pulsar in its centre, is greater than all the electric power ever produced on Earth.

Not since Galileo looked through one of the first telescopes in 1709, and discovered the mountains and valleys of the moon, has anyone made such an important discovery the first time they looked through a telescope.

Sun After Grey Days— Young Optimism Blooms

By ART STOTT

The young lady next door paused as she scrambled across the shore rocks at the foot of the lot, looked at the sun-glittering sea, the blue sky, and offered her tribute to the brightest day of the year Sunday afternoon: "Wonderful, isn't it?"

Stott

Then with the optimism of her early teens she added: "I think it's going to be a long, hot summer," and the comment came with happy conviction.

In the context in which she offered her prediction, I hope she's right, though, with what we've had so far in the way of weather, I can expect anything.

Forty-five years ago, when I was her age, I believe my spirits would have soared, as hers did, under the benediction of the sun. They had not then been dampened by too many rainy Junes, too many uncertain Julys, too many unreliable Augusts. The days ahead were always promising. If they occasionally turned out dull, cold, wet or blustery, their discomfort was transitory, easily forgotten. Tomorrow was bound to be better — and because so much of recollection works on the sundial principle, telling only the bright hours, they seem to have been.

★ ★ ★

The young lady next door may be quite incorrect in her forecast. Until she is proved wrong, though, her prophecy is appealing and encouraging. When she had delivered it, I found the sodden earth I was turning a little lighter, the shovel less cumbersome.

It even seemed conceivable that the broad beans we will plant there shortly will germinate, not rot in the heavy soil.

I mentally thanked the young lady for the lift she had given me merely by being young and expressing the impressions of the young. We grow dependent on those of tender years to overcome the grey philosophies that trouble us with the increased experience of living. They breach the confining walls of convention we erect around ourselves and our thoughts. They hurdle pragmatism. Their eyes seek the vision beyond the horizon.

Of course they make mistakes — some bad ones. Yet there is a resiliency to them, an ability to lay aside cares and live in hope.

They run over hills up which we who are older plod, resting frequently, turning back before we reach the top. They can't appreciate the obstacles, and failing to recognize the barriers, overcome them.

Today's mail provides an illustration. In it is a notice from S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School which sponsored the fund to send the Kuper Island school band to "Expo." The committee has announced a meeting to provide an accounting. When the project was launched, it seemed admirable if it served only to let the young people try to accomplish something that look improbable. It didn't look improbable to the students at S. J. Willis. They succeeded where more cautious elders might have declined to start.

The band fund raising was spectacular — a concrete example at which to point. No one can know how many other services are performed by youngsters — often in a spontaneous expression of what they think is right.

We hear, and read, most frequently about their mistakes, about instances of bad behaviour. Yet it is significant that any organization which has studied youth problems in this community — and I believe elsewhere — invariably makes the point that trouble-makers are a small minority. The majority is not composed of angels — far from it. Because of their years and environments, too many never stamped delinquents are irresponsible. As a very sage gentleman once told me, they live by magic. They expect no adverse consequences from what they do without thought.

But is that an unrelieved evil? If they were wholly responsible, recognizing and weighing the potential results of all their prospective actions, they might not act at all. We'd be spared the grief of their sorrows. We could also lose the benefits of some accomplishment that would never be achieved, because no start would be made.

★ ★ ★

I have friends of my own age and older who depress themselves with lugubrious contemplation of catastrophes that may occur, who lose heart in the rat-race, whose hopes shrink.

Better to think of the young lady's bright summer in prospect. And if it's wet — so what! She'll tell me that's how rainbows are made.

Minister Answers Trustee Criticisms

By JOHN SLINGER

Education Minister Donald Brothers Tuesday took a swipe at school trustees in what appeared to be return for the swipe they took at him by passing a motion of censure at their fall convention.

Mr. Brothers reminded trustees, in his reply to the budget speech, that it is a provincial body, the B.C. School Districts Capital Financing Authority, that sells school bonds and debentures.

Local boards did not have to face the difficult task of trying to find money "in these days of high interest rates and shortage of money for capital purposes."

The trustees' censure motion resulted from an imposed cost ceiling of $16,000 and $22,500 on elementary and secondary classroom construction. This, said the trustees, made it impossible to build library, gymnasium, and other special-purpose facilities.

MONEY HARD TO FIND

Mr. Brothers suggested the ceilings were imposed because additional money could not be found.

As a result, "boards have complained that the government deliberately delays necessary school construction."

He denied this, saying the provincial authority since 1963 has marketed $41.4 million worth of school bonds which, in a difficult money market, is "of major benefit" to the local boards.

Provision of this money by the province should bring "plaudits, not complaints."

Noted the minister: "Boards of school trustees have all the authority necessary to sell their own school bonds if they wish to do so."

These boards were not concerned with the problems involved and "do not appreciate that bonds cannot be sold in the volume and at the times they wish."

DON'T COLECT TAX

And, he noted, school boards are not even responsible for collecting taxes, although they determine the amount of money to be raised.

"It is extremely regretful that some persons are deliberately trying to convey to the people the impression that this government is curtailing educational services.

"Also, others are deliberately trying to convince the public that the government is shifting a greater burden of school costs on to the local taxpayer."

Both claims are false, he said.

Despite the "very difficult money market," provincial boards constructed 860 classrooms in 1968—more than four for every school day.

Since the October meeting with trustees and the subsequent ease in the ceiling on classroom costs, the education department had authorized construction of 600 classrooms—more than eight every school day.

COST CONTROL

Mr. Brothers repeated the budget declaration that "assuming continued cost control, applications to proceed with gymnasia and activity rooms will be processed after April."

He also suggested the B.C. Trustees' Association could take the initiative in making a study of the possibility of amalgamating school districts in the province.

A similar step was recently taken in Ontario and resulted in amalgamation of all rural and urban school boards into about 100 area boards.

The minister emphasized the urgency of developing the regional college system into the first two years of university training to eliminate problems now experienced by some students trying to transfer from these colleges to universities.

Students Get Marks For Pitch to Gov't

Student representatives from B.C.'s major post-secondary schools impressed provincial government ministers and members Tuesday with their argument that education issues involve more than money.

Herb Capozzi, Vancouver Centre MLA who arranged the meetings, said he had expected to be confronted by people making wild accusations against government financing.

"Instead we found a great expression of concrete thinking—a rational approach to the need for more planning on all levels."

He said government members found there is a need for regrouping, not just of educational structures but of educational goals.

PLAN WITH CARE

The students did most of the talking, stressing the need for careful planning for the future of provincial universities. Several of them said the budget was inadequate in its allowances for higher education.

The students met Education Minister Brothers, Health Minister Loffmark, Industry Minister Skillings and ministers without portfolio Pat Jordan, Isabel Dawson and Grace McCarthy.

Mr. Brothers said the confrontation had been valuable. The students demonstrated "responsible points of view" on university problems.

Student delegates were Frank Frketich, student president at the University of Victoria and his successor Norman Wright; Dave Zirnhelt and Tobin Robbins of the University of B.C.; Rob Walsh of Simon Fraser and Brian Johncox of the B.C. Institute of Technology.

Earlier in the day, UBC students presented a brief to deputy education minister Dr. Neil Perry calling for a board to manage higher education in the province.

The present relationship between government and the universities is "highly inadequate," they said.

The board, with membership from academic, student and lay communities, would help set standards for the universities, establish priorities and act as an independent grants commission.

Similar submissions have already been made by universities and other student groups.

'Billion Dollars, but Nothing for Poverty'

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) Tuesday accused the Social Credit government of "flaunting a billion dollar budget" but doing nothing for poverty.

He said the so-called "miracle budget" was in fact a product of the premier's "master domino game."

"You move everything around and you end up with everything in a different position."

He said the premier had built up huge surpluses "by denying mothers and children decent social service allowances."

The government was taking "bread and butter out of the mouths of mothers and babes."

$75 A MONTH

Persons sick and crippled were forced to live alone on $75 a month, he said.

"I'd like to ask any one of you to live on those measly rates."

"Same old speech," interjected Dan Campbell, minister of welfare. "Can't you spend 10 months up there (in the East Kootenay) writing a new speech?"

"Same old problems," retorted the NDP whip.

"Leo, why do you begrudge anyone who has anything?" asked Pat Jordan, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Nimsick replied "the first duty of government is to look after the common good of all people, not the chosen few."

"You're sitting on your fannies doing nothing at all except helping the people who have already got enough to help themselves," he said.

He said the people of B.C., through electrical bills, school and hospital taxes, and local governments are paying more than $120,000,000 a year interest on the province's indirect debt while the provincial cabinet criticized federal financing.

He said the home acquisition grants and $5,000 second mortgage will do nothing to end the "inadequate housing of victims of an inadequate income."

The grants only applied to new homes and the 20 per cent of the people on the bottom of the economic ladder "haven't a hope in the world that they can buy a new house."

Landlords were growing rich on rentals paid for shacks "unfit for human habitation," he said.

Son Retains Nova Scotia House Seat

SHERBROOKE, N.S. (CP) — Angus MacIsaac, 25, Tuesday retained his late father's seat in the Nova Scotia legislature, adding muscle to the inherited mandate of Conservative Premier G. I. Smith.

Mr. MacIsaac won a Guysborough byelection for the PCs by defeating Liberal Alick Anderson, 30, by 370 votes in the two-party fight. The byelection was brought about by the highway death last fall of Alexander T. (Tando) MacIsaac, minister-without-portfolio in the Smith cabinet.

Angus MacIsaac won 3,196 votes to 2,826 for Mr. Anderson on the basis of the election night count.

Standing in the legislature is Conservatives 41 and Liberals five.

It was the fourth byelection victory for the Conservatives since Mr. Smith became premier in September, 1967, after Robert L. Stanfield relinquished the post to become national PC chief.

SHATTERED by explosion are these windows in a downtown Montreal building Tuesday night. A guard at the armory near Place Ville Marie was hurled to the floor by the blast at the front of the military establishment. (CP Wirephoto.)

Second Montreal Armory Becomes Target for Bomb

MONTREAL (CP) — A bomb exploded on the front steps of a downtown military establishment Tuesday night in the usually plush Place Ville Marie area.

It was the second such explosion at a Montreal military building since Monday.

One guard was injured lightly, but the explosion shattered several hundred windows in surrounding buildings, including the eight-storey section of Place Ville Marie commonly called the Esso building.

The 10 p.m. blast buckled the four-inch oak door of the Regiment de Maisonneuve armory on Catchcart Street, running along the north side of Place Ville Marie which is dominated by a 42-storey office tower.

An armed forces information officer said the guard, Jean-Paul Goudreau, 58, became suspicious when he spotted a package on the steps of the armory and walked away to call military police.

As he moved away from the thick door inside the building, the bomb exploded, sending him to the floor.

He was taken to hospital for treatment of shock, but was able to resume work an hour later.

DAMAGE NOT SERIOUS

The armed forces spokesman said damage to the armory was "not serious, but quite spectacular."

He did not know if the bomb was made of dynamite. It appeared "similar to the one" of five or six sticks of dynamite that shattered windows Monday night in a north-end building containing a Canadian Armed Forces technical service unit.

A maintenance man suffered a cut ankle from flying glass in that blast, which also smashed windows in a nearby apartment building and a five-storey office structure.

The explosions this week brought the 1969 total to seven in the Montreal area. There have been more than 50 bombing incidents in the last year, most related to labor troubles.

In Monday's explosion at the four-storey building housing the 11th Technical Service Unit, the bomb also was placed outside.

The building was the site of a terrorist bombing in May, 1963, when it was leased by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

CO-OPS CAN SOLVE FISH CRISIS

A system of co-operatives to handle fishing and fish packing is the only salvation for a dying provincial fishing industry, Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) said in the legislature Tuesday.

He said modern technology and transportation methods have "played havoc" with the fishing industry by putting boats out of operation and by permitting canneries to move out of local fishing areas.

More people on the coast would find themselves out of work with the federal government's new restrictions on the number of fishing licences issued.

It was all working towards "the gradual elimination" of the industry so far as many persons were concerned.

"There is a crisis in the fishing industry" that could only be solved by provincial encouragement of co-operative fishing.

Mr. Calder recommended that the provincial government set up a ministry of co-operatives to control such an operation as well as new co-operatives being formed in the housing and mining fields.

He said the co-operative packing plant at Prince Rupert had proved successful.

If packing and processing plants owned by large corporations were going to move out, then it was a good idea for the people to own their own plants, he said.

B.C. Missing Out on Action

The lone Indian member of the legislature Tuesday charged the B.C. government with avoiding meetings with what he called the most important federal-provincial committee acting on Indian problems.

Atlin's New Democratic member Frank Calder said that since January, 1968, the province has been refusing to meet the federal-provincial co-ordinating committee on Indian affairs.

He said this particular committee, composed of deputy ministers and other personnel authorized to draw policy, is the one committee now established that could produce solutions.

The federal government's requests for quarterly meetings have met only silence from B.C. said the MLA, president of the Nishga Tribal Council.

"The name of the game on this committee is action," he said.

The Indians wanted action and through participation in this committee the provincial government could take the initiative in taking over, from the federal government, reserve services for welfare, health, community development, local government and education.

These now are under federal control, but Mr. Calder said there are no constitutional restrictions preventing the province from moving in.

He spoke approvingly of Jean Chretien, the new federal Indian affairs minister. Mr. Chretien showed an awareness of the "awakening now taking place" among the Indians and the minister had to admit to "a certain neglect" during the last 100 years, said Mr. Calder.

Federal officials and the Indians "have suddenly realized something has to be done very quickly."

It was not just an Indian problem. It was a problem of all Canada, of all society.

He called for "re-activation" of the committee.

"I don't think either the federal or provincial government should be dragging their feet in this matter.

"The time is right for doing something and I hope it will be done soon."

NEW DELHI (AP) — Pro-Peking Communists led in West Bengal today, but Prime Minister Gandhi's Congress party was assured of victory in Uttar Pradesh, India's most populous state, as vote counting neared an end in the election of four state legislatures.

The Congress party also led in the 318-seat Bihar assembly contest with 65 seats, followed by the United Socialist party with 24 and Jan Sangh with 22.

The Sikh party, Akali Dal, emerged as the largest single party in the northwestern border state of Punjab, with 43 of the assembly's 104 seats.

$600,000 for Road Work Urged

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Saanich public works committee recommended Tuesday night that the municipality's road budget be doubled to $600,000 this year.

If approved by council, this represents an expenditure of five mills on road work.

During the meeting, committee chairman Ald. William Campbell said, and others agreed, that Saanich has been falling behind on roads and much more must be spent, even if it is at the expense of other areas.

He also disclosed that road breakups following the month-long cold spell could cost $100,000 to $150,000 to repair.

"Many of our roads are going to pieces," he said.

One of the worst-hit areas is the Cordova Bay ridge.

FROST

Municipal engineer Neville Life said there is still eight or nine inches of frost in the ground there, meaning a delay of several weeks before something more permanent than gravel can be used to patch up the holes.

The public works committee scrutinized a recommended list from Mr. Life which would cost $1,288,450 to implement. This was reduced to $574,950 but two projects were tabled and a total limit of $600,000 was recommended.

The recommended projects do not include an expenditure of $700,000 on McKenzie Avenue this year to build four lanes between Patricia Bay Highway and Quadra Street and between Cedar Hill Road and Gordon Head.

Cost to Saanich is between $300,000 and $400,000, provided out of capital from an earlier referendum, with the rest coming from the provincial government.

Major road works recommended Tuesday night were:

- Rebuilding Carey Road from Tillicum to Glanford and then to McKenzie, $90,000;
- Widening Carey to four lanes, curbs, gutters, storm drains and sidewalks, from Douglas Street approximately one-third of the way to Tillicum, $80,000;
- Widening Quadra Street, Kenneth to Nicholson, to four lanes, curbs, gutters, storm drains and sidewalks, $81,000;
- Interurban Road, rebuilding two existing lanes, North Road to Courtland, $60,000.

During the early part of the meeting, Ald. Leslie Passmore noted public comments from residents in the western part of Saanich that the east received favored treatment.

At this point, only $10,000 of work had been approved in the area west and south of Quadra. By the end of consideration, however, much more work had been approved for the west area and Ald. Passmore said this represented a "fair distribution."

Act Changes To Protect Halibut Sale

First reading was given in the legislature Tuesday to an amendment to a 14-year-old act which never became law.

The bill, amending the Fish Inspection Act, gives the cabinet authority to set up a system of licensing and fee schedules governing processing, handling and marketing of fish in B.C.

The amendment will enable the province to delegate inspection duties to federal officers currently inspecting such products only if they are bound for export markets.

Penalties are provided similar to penalties in corresponding federal legislation.

STANDARDS

Fish processing, marketing and distribution has been governed by health regulations but the act sets standards based on more strict health factors.

The act would also allow for labelling or marketing restrictions, and would allow the provincial cabinet to ban marketing of a product known as Greenland halibut, which provincial officials have said interferes with the sale of B.C. halibut, since it is not a halibut but an Atlantic flounder.

A source here said provincial authroities understand federal officers plan to prohibit sale of flounder under a halibut label. U.S. federal authorities have already taken such action.

The source here said the 1955 statute was never proclaimed because the federal authorities lacked the personnel to undertake provincially-needed inspection at that time.

Before the Magistrate

A 27-year-old man, straightened out by the teachings of the Salvation Army, pleaded guilty in central court Tuesday to possession of stolen property.

Thomas Harris, no address available, turned himself in to the RCMP because "he was interested in clearing his past."

He was remanded to Feb. 20 for sentence.

Cpl. W. D. Semenoff told the court Harris and some other persons were involved in some offences in Terrace in 1964 and several items were stolen from a cabin.

On Dec. 20 last year Harris turned in a transistor radio which he said was part of the loot from the cabin and had been in his possession since.

The accused said he wanted to make restitution.

"His action was quite voluntary and I had no leads on the case," the corporal said.

An 18-year-old was sentenced to one to two years in the Young Offenders' Unit on 11 charges of breaking and entering.

Jack Stewart Brown, 1281 Haultain, was on two years' probation at the time of the offences committed earlier this month.

"You have betrayed the hope and faith the probation officer had in you," Magistrate William Ostler told Brown.

"You have committed a very large number of indictable offences. I hope you try to apply yourself to some of the guidance and training in the institution."

Brown pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Cue and Cushion Billiard Room, 642 Johnson, Nelson's Laundry, 722 Humbolt and the Unicorn, 18 Bastion Square on Feb. 2 and 3.

He took $25 from the Unicorn and $101 from the laundry.

Earlier he pleaded guilty to breaking into six separate shops in the Village Fair in Bastion Square, Lou's Lawnmower Service, 683 Herald, and Mac's 700 Block Parking, 748 Yates. Small amounts of money were taken from five of the places.

A 25-year-old woman who sent a man to a store to attempt to get a refund on a dress she had stolen was remanded a week for sentence.

Gloria Carvath, no address available, pleaded guilty to stealing the dress, worth $28, from Taylor's Apparel, 713 Yates, on Jan. 10.

On that day the dress was noticed missing and five days later a man came in and asked for a refund. When he returned two days later the owner called police.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the woman on bail because she had two young children and was separated from her husband.

David Suttie, 23, no address available, was committed for trial by judge and jury on a charge of trafficking marijuana.

A man who conducted a "well worked out and carefully executed system" of using worthless cheques was sentenced to 10 to 16 months in the Young Offenders' Unit.

Michael Clare, 450 Simcoe, pleaded guilty to uttering a cheque for $67.40 and to using a worthless cheque for $34.62 to buy an electric razor. Both charges were dated in November.

Earlier he pleaded guilty to six other charges of uttering.

He told the magistrate he'd like to pay back his debts after serving his sentence.

Gary Heshedahl, 18, of 1283 Astoria, was remanded a week for sentence after he pleaded guilty to stealing two stereo tapes from a car.

Police said the accused and two juveniles were prowling around cars in a city parking lot early Tuesday morning and Heshedahl took the tapes, giving them to one of the younger boys.

They were scared off by a watchman and caught later on Fort Street where they admitted the offence.

Value of the tapes was $12.45.

INSTALLED as the sixth archbishop of the Archdiocese of Vancouver Tuesday was Most Rev. James F. Carney, 53, a native of Vancouver. Replacing Most Rev. Martin M. MLA Charges Dictatorship In Professions

A New Democratic member of the legislature Tuesday called for a governmental investigation of the performance of groups who, under special legislation, are allowed to police their own professions.

Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) cited specifically an act that prevents physicians from practising within 10 miles of a clinic they once belonged to.

He said an injunction is being brought against the head surgeon of Cranbrook Hospital by a clinic for which he worked but never signed the limiting clause.

"This to me is dictatorship," the NDP party whip said.

OPPONENTS SHOULD VISIT GRAVEYARDS

"Opponents of strip mining are invited to visit the graveyards of mining towns in B.C. and consider the young men who have died in cave-ins and explosions."

Education Minister Donald Brothers Tuesday used this quote from former provincial mine union leader Harvey Murphy to emphasize his argument in favor of strip mining.

He said, "It is my hope that we will have the most up-to-date legislation in the world to control surface mining."

An mines minister, before taking the education portfolio, he set up a special committee to study the legislation of the various states in the United States where strip mining is carried on.

He said then that legislation to control such mining would be introduced this year.

It was "obviously ridiculous" for the opposition to say the government "had done little or nothing," he told the house.

Turning specifically to the Kaiser Coal Corp. plans to strip-mine coal in the Kootenays, Mr. Brothers further quoted Harvey Murphy as saying the plan would turn the Crows Nest area, one of the most depressed in the province, into an area of development.

The new method of mining would open new communities and attract new, skilled workers.

And, Mr. Brothers noted that in 1902 some 125 men were killed at Coal Creek Colliery near Fernie and in 1967 another 15 died in an explosion in the Balmer Seam near Michel.

Biculturalism: 'Separatist Plot'

Biculturalism, the way the Social Credit government whip tells it, sounds like a separatist plot.

It was a separatist plot in which Ottawa "deliberately" encouraged French-Canadians in Quebec to isolate themselves from English-speaking North Americans.

And Prime Minister Trudeau, suggested Hunter Vogel, the member for Langley, might well be "the Trojan horse" of the separatist movement.

Mr. Vogel said the prime minister probably doesn't see himself that way, but his Official Languages Bill is serving to help the separatist cause.

It would result in cutting off French-speaking Quebecers from the economic benefits of North America, causing them to "get sore and take it out on the rest of us."

Liberal Leader Pat McGeer asked Mr. Vogel if he wanted Quebecers to stop speaking French.

Mr. Vogel said they could speak anything they like so long as they "learn the language of North America."

He said that on a recent trip to Europe he had found countries surrounding France were not particularly fond of using the French language.

Turning to the matter of expropriations, he said legislation should be made to ensure "that each citizen is treated with equal fairness and consideration."

Now, he said, every government department seems "to be in the expropriation business." So were municipalities under the Municipal Act, and school boards under the Schools Act. Similar provisions were included in the Railways Act and the Public Utilities Act.

Trouble was, interpretations of their powers and procedures varied from public body to public body.

Mr. Vogel said there could be little wrong with establishing uniform guidelines.

Trades Council Urges Bonding Of Contractors

Municipalities which grant licences should accept part of the responsibility, a union spokesman said Tuesday.

John Schibli, secretary of the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council, an association of craft unions, was agreeing with Harry Ormiston, chairman of the masonry section of the Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C.

But he recalled that approaches on this to Saanich and Victoria a year ago did not produce a favorable response.

"There are cases where a union rejects a man as a member because he is not qualified as a journeyman and the next time he is out with a licence to build," he said.

"Some basic qualification should be required. This not only applies to the workman, but also financial responsibility."

He recommended a bonding system to protect individuals from contractors who default.

There was one case, involving the builder of a plush apartment on Beach Drive in Oak Bay, where $8,000 was unpaid to only three trades groups—laborers, carpenters and bricklayers.

There was no hope of getting the money back because the contractor went bankrupt and there were next to no assets.

He mentioned similar cases in Duncan, where $5,500 was recovered only from the goodwill of the company for which a defaulting sub-contractor was doing work, and a Gold River company which "went belly up and $60,000 was lost."

Mr. Ormiston said Monday that B.C. municipalities are granting "licences to steal" to people who are not qualified tradesmen.

He also said many fireplaces in houses are poorly built and couldn't burn logs properly in the recent cold weather.

But deputy Victoria fire chief, Carl Coates, said the department had answered only three calls for troublesome fireplaces, about normal for this time of the year.

ONE COMPLAINT

The Better Business Bureau reported only one complaint in four months about fireplaces.

And city licence inspector William Wallis said "we can't exercise any jurisdiction over who gets a licence and who doesn't. This is an area in which the provincial government has jurisdiction. They decide who can call himself a mechanic or television repair man. This is beyond our control. If a man says he is a contractor, we can't ask him to prove it."

Mr. Ormiston said Prince George, and two other B.C. municipalities, do demand proof of qualification before granting licences.

And he offered to provide a list of locations where there are badly-constructed chimneys and faulty fireplaces.

He asked today if the licence inspector actually is an inspector, and what does he inspect, "or is he just a clerk? Shouldn't they take some responsibility?"

Political Truce Captured by Nixon

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Richard Nixon has pleased his supporters, disarmed skeptics and kept his enemies at bay so far as American president.

True, he's just into his fourth week on the job. The political truce may not last long, considering the nature of his post, the problems at home and abroad and the poor track record for many world leaders these days.

But the Nixon image is emerging from organization, action and caution on a broad front. Even a little humor has surfaced.

To a country still recovering from traumatic events of 1968, Nixon presents an encouraging image.

Opinion poller George Gallup, in his first reading of the Nixon ratings, says that while 36 per cent of those questioned have a wait-and-see attitude, 59 per cent approve of what the president has done so far and only five per cent knock him.

That's pretty good for a man whose political future was judged nil as late as 1966 and who got only 44 per cent of the popular vote in last November's election, becoming the first minority president since 1912.

Time magazine finds the most impressive fact of the new leadership to be that it has "moved so affirmatively in so many directions."

What Nixon has done is set up a five-country European trip starting Feb. 23, begin plans for four-power talks on the Arab-Israeli conflict based on a formula suggested by France and push for ratification of the treaty to curb the spread of nuclear arms.

He has endorsed continued opposition to U.S. restrictions on imports, textiles excluded, and halted—some reports say cancelled—construction on the costly and controversial missile defence system.

He has publicly acknowledged weak links with the Negro community and vowed to do better and given symbolic assurance of cracking down on crime by authorizing more police, more courts—and perhaps preparing for tougher bail terms—in this crime-troubled capital.

"On balance, Mr. Nixon is off to an excellent start," the New York Times says with particu*lar reference to his good press* relations and a refreshing lack of hustle-bustle in White House affairs.

Perhaps the only ones unhappy with Nixon's performance so far are the more conservative members of the president's own Republican party who fear Nixon is becoming too liberal.

Says Richard Wilson of the Washington Star:

"The agony in Nixon's early days is among Republicans who think their legitimate rights aren't being protected while the ecstasy is among Democrats and Liberals who have discovered that Nixon isn't half as bad as they expected."

NO INTEREST IN SATELLITE

PARIS (AP)—A program to launch a French satellite with a Soviet rocket has been abandoned, the French National Centre of Space Studies announced Tuesday.

The original launching date was set as 1971, but this recently was set back a year for budgetary reasons. The announcement said that after the delay, the program did not represent sufficient interest to continue.

VSE Ups Margin

The Vancouver Stock Exchange Tuesday increased margin requirements to 60 per cent from the present rate of 50 per cent.

John Van Luven, president, said the increase will take effect immediately on all new purchases and new accounts, but that existing margin accounts will have until March 31 to raise the additional 10 per cent.

The move to increase margin requirements has been taken in co-operation with the Toronto, Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges and results from discussions at the joint meeting in Vancouver last week.

CP Air Jets

CP Air has ordered two Boeing 727 jetliners at a cost of about $12½ million.

The 570-mile-an-hour tri-jet aircraft, first of this type to be ordered by CP Air, are scheduled for delivery in April and May, 1970.

President John C. Gilmer said the new jets are required for expansion of CP Air's North American services, including transcontinental service from two to five flights daily by mid-1969.

PWA Purchase

Pacific Western Airlines has reached an agreement to purchase Byers Transport Ltd. and Truckers Terminal Distributing Ltd. of Edmonton, officials of the three companies said.

No price was given in a statement delivered by R. H. Laidman, president of Canada's third largest airline, and R. P. Chapman, chairman of Byers Transport and president of Truckers Terminal.

PWA operates extensively in the Northwest Territories and has special interest in air cargo through ownership of Canada's only commercial Lockheed Hercules aircraft.

Weldwood of Canada

The forestry firm of Weldwood of Canada set new records in sales and earnings in 1968.

In a preliminary statement to shareholders, president Roger Montgomery announced sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1968, were $130.47 million which was 14 per cent above 1967.

Net earnings, after income taxes and preference share dividends, reached $6.38 million, equal to $2.10 a share. In 1967, earnings were $2.29 million or .76 a share.

Union-Consumers

Union Gas Co. of Canada Ltd. of Chatham, Ont., Tuesday mailed a letter to shareholders advising that after 15 months' study it had called off merger talks with Consumers' Gas Co. of Toronto.

The single company would have had assets of $600 million.

David Rogers, Union Gas chairman, said in the letter that the study was conducted with the aid of outside consultants knowledgeable in the gas utility field.

Pine Point Mines

Net earnings of Pine Point Mines dropped more than $13 million in 1968, president D. D. Morris said Monday in an interim report to shareholders.

He said net earnings totalled $21 million or $4.66 a share, compared to $34.2 million or $7.58 a share in 1967.

No further details were given. The annual report will be published next month.

Goodyear Split

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. directors announced a 2-for-1 stock split Tuesday after the company reported record high sales and net income for 1968.

Goodyear said the split will be subject to shareholder approval of a 100 per cent increase in authorized shares—from 50 million shares to 100 million.

If approved, the stock dividend will go to shareholders of record April 15.

Japanese Coal Buyers Worry

CALGARY (CP) — Recent public protest over strip mining in western Canada could effect existing and future coal contracts with Japanese industrial firms, a United States economic advisor said Tuesday.

C. T. Takahashi of Seattle said many Japanese importers of coal have been disturbed by the protests and are concerned they could result in the restriction of some mining operations.

Mr. Takahashi said other coal-producing countries, such as Australia, are in a position to take advantage of the publicity, much of which reached Japan.

Most of the contracts now written have provisions for cancellation, Mr. Takahashi said, and the steel producers are not certain of Canada's reliability as a consistent producer of coking coal.

Japan could get coal of equal quality elsewhere, he said, and possibly at lower costs, but is drawn to Canada by its large reserves.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted by the Royal Bank today at $1.07 1/16 for cheques, $1.06⅞ for cash, $1.05⅞ for silver. Sales were $1.07⅜ for cheques and $1.07⅝ for cash.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.07¾. Pound sterling was up 1/16 at $2.56⅛.

NEW YORK (CP)—Closed; Lincoln's birthday.

DDD Charges Reduced; $1 for 3 Min.

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadians will be able to telephone almost anywhere in North America for $1 or less beginning March 16—if they call after midnight.

The Trans-Canada Telephone System said in a statement Tuesday customer-dialled long-distance calls made between midnight and 6 a.m. will be $1 or less for three minutes between Canada and the continental United States.

This was a reduction from the current rate of $1.90.

★ ★ ★

However, the first three minutes of person-to-person calls within 345 miles would be increased by a maximum of 10 cents.

The telephone system, which represents telephone companies in Canada, also announced the following changes:

- Extension of the night rate period to 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. from the current 6 p.m. to 4:30 a.m.
- Reduction of the initial time period for across-the-border calls up to 24 miles to three from four minutes.

Plans Proceed For Canadian Oil Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP) — Otto E. Lang, acting energy minister, told the Commons Tuesday that Canada will not discontinue its planning for a possible pipeline from the Canadian Arctic south through Canada.

He told Conservative House Leader Gerald W. Baldwin (Peace River) that the government is in constant touch with the United States on a number of matters dealing with oil.

Mr. Baldwin had asked Mr. Lang to "make strong and immediate representations" to the U.S. concerning the announcement by an Atlantic Richfield Co. subsidiary, to build a pipeline through Alaska to move oil from the huge find at Prudhoe Bay on the north slope of Alaska.

Mr. Lang said Canada looks forward to the day "when there will be a good supply of Canadian oil also from the region of the Arctic."

CONSIDER ALTERNATIVE

"The announcement of the pipeline across Alaska would in no way lead us to discontinue our discussions and our planning about a possible pipeline and other alternative routes for Arctic oil from the region of Alaska and the Canadian North to the eastern and midwestern markets," he said.

Mr. Baldwin said the government should bear in mind the impact the Alaska route would have on Canada's national oil policy and markets in the U.S.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) asked the minister to make a policy statement soon on these negotiations with the U.S.

He asked for the statement "in view of the fact that exports and domestic use of petroleum are down to 40 per cent of our production" and "particularly since we now are importing $200 million worth of petroleum more than we are exporting."

Atlantic Pipe Line Co., BP Pipe Line Corp. and Humble Pipe Line Co. announced plans Monday for construction of an 800-mile, 48-inch pipeline to move crude oil south from Alaska's north slope to a site on the Gulf of Alaska.

Cost of the Trans Alaska Pipeline System, as it will be known, would be about $900 million it was said.

WILDCAT WELL ON COOK INLET

LOS ANGELES — Two oil companies will drill a 12,000-foot wildcat test well on the north shore of Cook Inlet, 30 miles west of Anchorage, Alaska, mid-way between two gas fields.

The companies are Halbouty Alaska Oil Co. (Halaska) and Reserve Oil and Gas Co., in which Halasko will serve as operator in partnership with General Crude Oil Co., Austral Oil Co. Inc., and Sunset International Petroleum Corp. Drilling is to start in about two weeks.

Shipbuilders, Ottawa Urged To Join Forces

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian shipbuilding industry and the federal government were urged Tuesday to join together "in making a concerted effort to attract new business" for the industry.

Drummond Taylor, executive director of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association, said the industry members should question those "who say Canadian shipyards are antiquated and lacking in modern mechanization."

Addressing the annual meeting of the association's technical section, Mr. Taylor, who had spent 16 years with Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd., said the company was forced to close down its shipyards in 1967 even though it was capable of building the largest offshore drilling rigs in the world.

He said he did not blame Ottawa for the demise of the Victoria shipbuilding enterprise,

Meeting of Oilmen Here Holds New Significance

B.C. members of the Canadian Petroleum Association meet here Thursday for annual private discussions dealing mainly with legislation affecting their industry.

About 75 representatives are expected to take part in the meeting, which could have extra significance with the discovery last year of important oil reserves in the north.

Companies engaged in exploration, producing and piping crude oil and natural gas in northeastern B.C. for markets in the southwestern part of B.C. and in the western U.S. are members of the association.

Most are based in Calgary, but among the provincial companies are Westcoast Transmission, Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line, Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines, and Pacific Northern Gas, all of Vancouver.

In the past year there has been a surge of exploration in the northern part of B.C., in the Yukon, the Northwest Territories and on the Alaskan slope, with new Arctic island programs about to get under way.

Discovery wells in Alaska promise crude reserves estimated anywhere from 5 billion barrels to 50 billion, and Tuesday's decision for construction of a new 48-inch pipeline crossing Alaska to Prince William Sound or Cook Inlet on the Gulf of Alaska, may have the effect of stepping up exploration and early agreement on a continental oil policy.

Northeastern B.C., where production so far is limited, lies along the same trend as the Alaskan slope.

The association says it represents an industry leading all other resource development industries with its contributions to the provincial treasury, which last year totalled more than $36 million in royalties, bonus bids and rentals from the offering of rights.

SPECTACULAR RETURN

'Shoe' Proves A Fit Fellow

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker staged a spectacular return to racing Tuesday when he rode all three of his mounts into the winners' circle at Santa Anita.

Absent for more than a year, Shoemaker capped his performance with a wire-to-wire triumph in the ninth race on Jay's Double, winning by 1¼ lengths.

Jay's Double, second choice in the betting, paid $8.20 to win and the riding triple brought Shoemaker's lifetime total to 5,761 victories.

Sidelined by a broken right leg in a spill Jan. 23, 1968, Shoemaker electrified an estimated 19,500 fans when he piloted the second betting choice, Princess Endeavour, in by 2¼ lengths in the sixth race, the first of three mounts of the afternoon.

TAKES FEATURE

He followed with a win in the featured eighth race, the $8,500 Santa Barbara County Fair Purse, again as the second choice.

Shoemaker's horse, Racing Room, a stablemate of Princess Endeavour, finished 1¼ lengths in front of the favorite, Tumiga, in the 6½-furlong run.

Shoemaker, 10 times the national riding champion, drew a warm round of applause—and the usual boos—when he entered the winners' circle.

After the first race, Shoemaker grinned and said: "Sure, I was a little on edge going into the gate, but that's natural I think."

As frosting on the cake, Racing Room equalled the track record of 1:15 flat.

Howe had 73 points on 29 goals and 44 assists for a one-point lead over Bobby Hull of Chicago, who scored one goal Tuesday night.

Stan Mikita of Chicago is fourth with 70 points on 19 goals and 51 assists. Fifth is Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens who picked up four goals Tuesday night and has 68 points on 30 goals and 38 assists.

Roy Wolsey was returned to his second term as president and Keith Dorman was named honorary president.

Al Wickes was selected as first vice-president; Alec Lynch, second vice-president; Charlie Thomas, treasurer; Joan Munroe, secretary, and George Somner, registrar.

Ken Alexander, Dennis Beaulac, Mel Simpson, Sam Labh, Ed Steele, Gerry Robertson, Leo Kozak and Frank Pearson were named executive directors.

Rising Medical Costs Junior Hockey Worry

KELOWNA (CP) Scotty Angus, manager of the Kelowna Buckaroos, said Tuesday he will press for increased safety measures at the next British Columbia Junior Hockey League meeting.

He said he wants the league to make it compulsory for players to wear helmets and possibly mouth guards after Buckaroo Larry Lenarduzzi suffered a concussion in Sunday's game in New Westminster.

Lenarduzzi, who hit his head while not wearing a helmet, was released from hospital Monday.

Angus said rising medical costs are another reason for his proposal. The Buckaroos have spent nearly $1,000 on dental bills alone so far this season.

"What makes the situation even more ridiculous is the fact there is no reason for these kind of injuries," he said. "The great majority of them could be avoided if helmets and mouth guards were made mandatory."

Four In, One to Come, In Firemen's Playoffs

Four of the five berths in the playoffs for the provincial firefighters' curling championship were decided Tuesday night during competition at Playland and Victoria clubs.

Defending champion Bill McIntosh of Campbell River, Fred Goodyear of Richmond, Don Grieve of Fruitvale and Ed Beketa of Vancouver snapped up the spots by reaching the finals of the primary Fraser Arms event.

Left in the running for his fifth berth, going to the winner of the "B" Fisheries Association event, are Ron Jay of Saanich, Les Brice of Oak Bay, Whitey Severson of Victoria, S. T. Anselmo of Warfield, Lloyd Harper of Quesnel, Ron Jacobson of Richmond, Bert Stanley of Trail and former champion Aubrey Neff of Vancouver.

DRAMATIC FINISH

McIntosh carved out his spot with an 8-7 extra-end win over Bob Partridge of Naramata, making a raise takeout with his last shot to count the winning point.

Goodyear downed Stanley 8-7, Grieve upset Neff 8-5, and Beketa defeated W. P. Moncrief of Montrose, 8-6, in Tuesday's other "A" event quarter-finals.

Losing quarter-finalists all netted a second chance in the double-loss elimination style competition, and Neff and Stanley kept hopes alive by sidelining Moncrief and Partridge, respectively.

Quarterfinals in the "B" event and semi-finals in both the "A" and "B" events were scheduled this afternoon.

BIG ONES TONIGHT

Playoffs begin at 7:45 tonight with a game between the losing "A" semi-finalists, and continue Thursday with games at 8 and 11 a.m. and, if required, at 2 p.m.

The provincial champion will represent B.C. in the Canadian finals at Scarborough, Ont.

In the meantime, other rinks were busy scrambling for prizes in three other events. Several rinks had advanced to the eights Tuesday, and all events were out to the 16s when competition was halted for the annual banquet.

MARCETTA KEY FIGURE IN MINNESOTA TRADE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota North Stars said Tuesday they are making left wing Parker MacDonald playing-coach of their farm team, Memphis South Stars, of the Central Hockey League.

The National Hockey League club said that MacDonald will replace Milan Marcetta, who is being loaned, along with Brian Smith, to Phoenix, of the Western League.

In return for Marcetta and Smith, the North Stars will get the major league rights to defenceman Tom Polanic. For the time being, Polanic will remain with Phoenix.

To complete the transactions, the North Stars said they will trade a player to Phoenix when the season ends.

Labatts Wrap Up Top Hoop Berth

Labatts sewed up first place in the Victoria Senior Men's Basketball League Tuesday night by downing Farmer Construction 71-64 at Mount Douglas High School.

In a second game, Colony Motor Inn defeated Red Lion Inn 95-76.

Leading only 35-34 at intermission, Labatts were paced by Darrell Lorimer's 25-point effort while John Devlin and Terry Shenton chipped in 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Pete Simmonds led the Farmers with a sparkling 38-point performance. Rick Humber, with 10 points, was the only other Contractor to get over four.

Jim Cunningham led the well-balanced Colony attack with 24 points, 10 of them in the first half when winners took a 51-33 lead. Gary Woodburn (20), Mike Soltice (17), Wayne Allen (12) and Ollie Goldsmith (10) showed the great depth in scoring of the Colony crew.

Jack Lusk led the short-staffed Red Lions with 24 points. Bill Spotswood and Bruce Robertson added 17 points each for Lions, who dressed only six players.

WHL BOOSTS PLAYOFF PAY

SEATTLE (AP)—The largest playoff payoff in Western Hockey League history awaits the top four teams of the current season, WHL officials have announced.

The total is $100,000.

On the basis of 20 shares for a team, each player on the first club at the end of the season could receive as much as $2,100 if his team wins the playoffs.

Patriots Raid Jets' Offices

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Patriots once again have raided the world champion New York Jets to fill one of the key positions on their American Football League staff.

The Patriots announced Tuesday night that George Sauer Sr., who has been the Jets' director of player personnel the last six years, has accepted the position of general manager with Boston.

Sauer replaces Mike Holovak, fired from his dual post as head coach and general manager a month ago.

Two weeks ago the Patriots hired Clive Rush, an assistant coach with the Jets, as their new head coach.

Harland Svare Joins Lombardi

Lombardi, who led Green Bay Packers to greatness, took over as head coach, general executive and part owner of the Redskins last week.

U.S. BODY . . . . . . ALTERS CATEGORIES

Shamateurism Ruled Out

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) —The United States Lawn Tennis Association has changed its rules to permit amateurs' acceptance of prize money.

The revision was worded simply:

"The following categories of tennis players are recognized as within the jurisdiction of the USLTA A—amateurs and B—players."

The amateurs will be just that — tennis players who receive no recompense other than legal and reasonable expenses. The "players," however, will be allowed to compete for prize money while losing no USLTA privileges.

"The entire purpose of this move was to get rid of sham amateurism," said Alastair B. Martin of New York, president of the USLTA. "In the past, amateurs have been forced to accept payments, usually under the table or give up the game."

The new rules state that all players under 19 years of age must be amateurs. After that, it's up to the player as to which category he enters.

Phil Threatens To Rewrite Book

Esposito Adds Five More Points To Runaway Sum

By The Canadian Press

Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins took a giant step Tuesday night towards breaking two National Hockey League scoring records.

Esposito collected two goals and three assists as the Bruins trounced the fading Chicago Black Hawks 7-3. The 26-year-old forward now has 92 points on 36 goals and 56 assists and is threatening to set records for the most points and most assists in one season.

In the only other NHL game Tuesday night, Jean Beliveau scored four times to lead Montreal Canadiens to a 7-3 victory over Los Angeles Kings.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, both of Chicago, hold the record for most points in one season, each with 97. Mikita has the assists record—62.

19-POINT LEAD

Barring serious injury, Esposito should finish with well over 100 points and should have no trouble surpassing 62 assists. His performance Tuesday night widened his lead in NHL scoring to 19 points over runner-up Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings.

Another record Esposito could topple is the most goals in one season by a centre—47 by Beliveau. With 22 games remaining on Boston's schedule, Esposito could better that mark.

Meanwhile, Ken Hodge continued his outstanding play by scoring three goals to bring his total for the season to 34.

Other Boston goals went to Johnny Bucyk and Fred Stanfield. Scoring for Chicago were Hull, Eric Nesterenko and Pat Stapleton.

SIXTH STRAIGHT

The loss, watched by 14,659 at Boston, was the sixth in a row for the Black Hawks and left them in last place in the Eastern Division, two points behind idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Bruins, with just one loss in their last 22 games, lead Montreal by six points and have a game in hand.

Boston jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Esposito and Hodge and led 4-2 after the second period.

A turnout of 16,136 at Montreal saw Beliveau get the third four-goal game of his NHL career.

The 37-year-old centre scored once in the first period and three times in the second to bring his season total to 30 goals. It marked the eighth season he has reached the 30-goal plateau in his 16 seasons with Montreal and it brought his career goal total to 460.

ASSISTS FOUR TIMES

Other Montreal scorers were Yvan Cournoyer, who also added four assists, Jacques Lemaire and Ted Harris. Sharing the Los Angeles goals were Bill Flett, Eddie Joyal and Howie Menard.

Los Angeles, with one tie and four losses in five meetings against Montreal this season, led 2-1 at the end of the first period. But Beliveau scored the only three goals of the second to give Montreal the triumph.

The Canadiens blasted 42 shots at Kings' goaltender Gerry Desjardins while Montreal goaltender Gump Worsley faced 25 shots.

Toronto announced defenceman Jim Dorey will return to the lineup for tonight's game against Minnesota. Dorey has missed three games with an injured back.

Pike's Runners Sluggish on Road

By The Canadian Press

Despite the name, the Alf Pike-coached Phoenix Roadrunners don't run too well on the road.

They've won only two away games in the Western Hockey League season and dropped another Tuesday night, a 6-3 decision to Vancouver Canucks before 6,282 Vancouver fans.

In Tuesday's other game, Seattle Totems carded a 5-3 win from Denver Spurs, who, with a 15-33-6 record have monopolized the league cellar.

In Vancouver, Canucks trailed 2-1 after the first period but came up with four straight goals in the second to secure the victory as goaltender Al Millar kept Phoenix under control.

Ted Taylor counted two goals for Vancouver and singles were contributed by Murray Hall, Duke Harris, Andy Bathgate and Ted McCaskill. Harris scored the winner at 9:33 of the second period.

Leo Thiffault and Wayne Carleton gave Roadrunners their first-period lead and Rollie Wilcox added a goal late in the second period to cut Canucks' margin to 5-3.

With George Gardner out with flu and Charlie Hodge suffering an injured knee, Canucks used goaltender Al Millar, who came up with 23 saves.

Rich Charron, who took a third-period misconduct for his choice of language in debating an offside call, handled 28 shots. McCaskill and Aut Erickson of Phoenix drew majors in a scuffle.

SPLIT POWER PLAYS

Each club scored once with a man advantage.

In Seattle, John Hanna scored two goals for Seattle, firming up his position as the highest scoring defenceman in the WHL. He also had an assist and now has scored 19 goals this season.

Totems also had goals from Marc Boileau, Bob Courcy and Chuck Holmes. The clubs went scoreless in the first period, tied 2-2 in the second and Courcy scored the winner late in the third.

Brian Gibbons, John Rodger and Allan Johnson scored for Spurs. Veteran Don Head made 23 saves in the Seattle nets while Rocky Farr looked after 25 in the Denver goal.

European Tennis Players Scoring With Style Change

(The Washington Post)

SALISBURY, MD. — Ismael El Shafei of Egypt overpowered defending champion Cliff Richey 6-1, 6-4 Tuesday night in the second round of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association indoor championships.

Richey continually had trouble returning the left-hander's service. The Egyptian champion kept Richey off balance, making the fourth-seeded domestic player an easy mark for his sharp volleys.

That Richey had trouble getting his own first serve into play consistently added to his problems. The San Angelo, Tex., player fell behind 5-0 in the first set and 5-2 in the seconds as the 22-year-old El Shafei scored frequently with his two-fisted backhand return of service.

In addition to Richey's loss, a new breed of European player emerged earlier Tuesday to pose additional threats to American domination of this tournament.

Jan Kukal of Czechoslovakia and Ove Bengtson of Sweden, each tall and powerful, scored impressive victories in the American serve-and-volley style. Most Europeans are finesse players and fare poorly on canvas.

Kukal sent the first seeded player to the sidelines. The 6-foot-3 Czech champion rallied behind a sharp serve and strong net game to eliminate Brian Fairlie, 18-16, 7-5. The New Zealander was seeded third among the foreigners.

In defeating Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-4, 6-4, the 6-foot-4 Bengtson displayed an attack similar to the one his fellow Swede, Jan Erik Lundquist, used in 1965 to win this championship, the only foreign victor in the past nine years.

Bengtson was playing on canvas for the first time Tuesday. But he is not a novice indoors. In fact, Bengtson plays best on wood, a slightly faster surface, and won the German and Scandinavian championships recently on that slightly faster surface.

COAST SOCCER LEAGUE CONTINUES TO MAY 19

Officials of the Pacific Coast Soccer League have decided to extend the end of the season from March 16 to May 19 in order to make up the nine weeks lost when snow began covering B.C.'s playing fields.

Jack Spry, secretary of the PCSL, said the league executive has decided to carry on with the schedule in its original form.

This Saturday, New Westminster Labatts meet Croatia and Eintracht plays the University of British Columbia in Vancouver while Columbus takes on Victoria O'Keefes in Macdonald Park.

Shaws Display Victory Touch

(Times News Services)

Tuesday was a good day for the Shaws.

They had the winning touch as two provinces declared their representatives to the Canadian women's curling championships Feb. 24-27 at Port Arthur.

Mae Shaw skipped her Kimberley rink to the B.C. crown in playdowns at Nelson while Kenora's June Shaw picked up the North Ontario standard at Sault Ste. Marie.

The Kimberley foursome defeated New Westminster's Lois Fisher 5-4 to win B.C.'s title.

Fisher forced the sudden-death final by beating the Kootenay District champions 10-5 earlier in the day. That win left Fisher and Shaw both with identical records of four wins and one loss.

WRECKED ON GUARD

Fisher had last rock coming home in the last game with the score tied 4-4. But with Shaw sitting shot rock inside the four foot circle, Fisher's stone hit a guard in front of the house, leaving the Kimberley rink to count one for the win.

Fisher had defeated Marg Cooke of Vancouver 6-4 in the semi-final game Tuesday morning.

June Shaw skipped her Kenora rink to a 10-9 victory over Audrey Braid of Ottawa to earn the right to represent Northern Ontario. It is the third time in four years that a rink skipped by Mrs. Shaw moves into the national final.

Mrs. Shaw finished the three team, double round-robin competition with four wins and one loss. Mrs. Braid had a 3-2 record.

At Winnipeg, Alice Oterholm of Winnipeg won the Manitoba senior ladies' championship with two victories over Florence Hutchinson of Flin Flon. The Winnipeg foursome took both games with scores of 8-7.

Schedule Change For Boxing Club

A new training schedule has been announced by the London Boxing Club.

Juniors and beginners will commence workouts at 6:45 while seniors take over at 8 p.m. Mondays through to Friday.

At the same time, club president Harry Morris announced that Bill Selfridge, a former Scottish and Canadian champion, will take over as coach and trainer. Club manager is Al Robinson.

Belmont Hoop Squad Couldn't Hold Tigers

Victoria High Tigers vaulted over idle Esquimalt into second place in the Inter-High School Senior Girls' Basketball League by crushing Belmont 63-18 Tuesday.

Sue Holland outscored the entire Belmont squad with a 20-point display.

In the only other league game, Mt. Douglas downed Mount View 25-18 after two overtime sessions. The teams were tied 16-16 after regulation time and 18-18 after the first overtime period.

Individual player awards have been well-distributed throughout the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League.

Nanaimo ace Ron Berry emerged as the league scoring champion, Selby Statz of Port Alberni was named "most valuable player" and Al Small of league-winning Powell River Regals was adjudged the most gentlemanly performer.

Final league statistics show Berry won the point crown with 17 goals and 23 assists for 40 points, one more than Statz' total. Statz was the league's top goal-getter with 21.

Pre-Season Schedule Stirs Football Storm

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Football League general managers Tuesday hammered out a pre-season exhibition schedule in a desk-pounding session that challenged the authority of commissioner Jack Gaudaur.

The general managers met from 9 p.m. to midnight Monday, then reconvened at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday with an ultimatum from Commissioner Gaudaur to produce an exhibition schedule by noon or accept one he would draw up.

More than 30 proposed schedules for pre-season games have been considered by the general managers since the CFL semi-annual meeting last year.

Team officials are here for the CFL annual meeting which ends Friday.

RAISED VOICES

When no agreement had been reached on an exhibition schedule by noon Tuesday, Gaudaur presented the general managers with his own version.

Shortly afterward, desk-pounding and angry voices could be heard in the corridor outside the meeting, closed to the press.

After the meeting, Gaudaur told reporters:

"We came to a position to recommend to the executive committee on Thursday. Nobody got exactly the pre-season schedule he wanted."

Gaudaur said his compromise proposal was amended on one date and that the matter was being referred to the executive committee "because of an area of uncertainty which exists" concerning the commissioner's role.

'FOR ALL TIME'

He said the executive committee was expected to "clear up the question for all time."

The schedule to go before the executive committee for ratification calls for two home and two away games for each team as provided for under the CFL constitution.

However, Montreal likely will play three home and two away games—a traditional concession to the Alouettes—with Hamilton playing one game at home and two away to even the schedule.

"Under the constitution, teams are entitled to only as many away games as they are willing to play at home," Gaudaur said.

The only other point resolved at the general managers' meeting was a decision to set the date for final roster cut-down at Tuesday, July 29.

Five minutes later referee David Smith ruled Best had handled the ball inside his side's penalty area and Birmingham centre-half David Robinson slammed home the penalty to tie.

Two Dumps Agree To Close Down

Health Board to Enforce No Burning Rule Thursday

Today is the last day for illegal burning of garbage at two dumps north of Langford.

Legal action will be taken if necessary by the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health to enforce its no-burning regulations at the dumps.

But the senior medical health officer, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, told the health board Tuesday afternoon he believes both dumps will simply close down.

The two dumps which have continued to break the law since Jan. 1 are Highland Sanitary Centre and Scafe's Dump, both on Millstream Road in the unorganized area west of Victoria.

MILL WASTE ONLY

Dr. Whitbread said letters were sent earlier to both dumps giving them until today to rectify their operations and follow the requirements spelled out last October.

He said Scafe's Dump had replied that it will stop taking rubbish and will only accept mill waste which will be covered. Health board staff considered this satisfactory.

Highland Sanitary Centre had replied verbally that it will close today.

"We'll go round on Thursday and proceed to prosecution and lay an information regarding a courst case on this matter," said Dr. Whitbread.

But, he added, "I belive they will both close down of their own volition."

This will leave only one garbage dump to serve southern Vancouver Island, at Hartland Road just north of Prospect Lake. It has been obeying the no-burning and burying garbage regulations.

DUMP LARGE ENOUGH

Dr. Whitbread said present garbage collectors in the Langford, Colwood, Metchosin and Sooke areas are charging enough money to cover the cost of taking garbage up the West Saanich Road to Hartland Road dump.

He also said Hartland Road dump is large enough to take all the garbage from the area.

In other business, the health board will write Health Minister Loffmark requesting the orthodontic procedures necessary upon the recommendation of a plastic surgeon to correct cleft lip and palate problems be included under the medical care insurance coverage.

It will also commend Education Minister Brothers for calling a seminar on drug addiction problems, including glue-sniffing.

The health board is also attempting to have the health department provide a public health nurse for the armed services housing estate at Belmont Park.

The service was provided by the armed forces but this was withdrawn. The first application to the health department for it to provide a replacement was refused.

In similar areas, such as Chilliwack, public health services are provided by the health department and not by the armed forces, the health board was told.

Health Board Insists On Approving Sewers

The Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health will write to the Capital Regional Board outlining the proper procedures for installing sewerage systems.

"The proper procedures have not been carried out," senior medical health officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread told the health board Tuesday afternoon.

He said applications seeking approval for installing sewerage systems must be sent to the Pollution Control Board and at the same time to the minister of health.

STUDYING APPLICATION

Board chairman Roy Elphick noted that the regional board applied to the Pollution Control Board to extend Macaulay Point outfall in Esquimalt last November.

But Ald. Lily Wilson of Victoria said the regional board has had a letter from Health Minister Loffmark saying he is studying the application.

Ald. Leslie Passmore, of Saanich said his municipality isn't waiting for provincial delays but will go ahead with installation of sewers in one area.

However, he added, the sewers won't be connected to houses until provincial approval is forthcoming.

Mrs. Wilson said Victoria has laid a new main right down Cook Street for the Clover Point outfall extension, but has been held up for a year awaiting approval.

Ald. Passmore also said there are two provincial standards and confusion arises from which one supersedes the other.

The Pollution Control Board set one standard which Associated Engineering Services, the company which did the 1966 sewerage study, said it can meet without treatment plants.

But the minister of health has said that treatment plants are needed for increases in sea disposal of sewage.

Public Meet To Discuss Marina Plan

A public hearing will be held in Sidney on March 11 to consider an application to develop a marina on waterfront lots on the northeast side of Beacon Avenue.

Ratepayers will also be asked to submit their views on a new zoning bylaw.

The marina application has been submitted to T. G. Gill of Point Grey, Vancouver, who porposes to install berths for a large number of pleasure boats and to construct a restaurant and retail store on the waterfront site.

The new zoning bylaw includes new standards for commercial, residential and apartment developments.

The bylaw was prepared as the result of criticisms from ratepayers that building and zoning regulations are outdated and are not keeping pace with the rapid expansion of the town.

Saanich Police Appeal for Help In Finding Man

Saanich police have again appealed for community assistance in locating a Victoria businessman missing since Feb. 3.

William Earl Osland, 35, of 2831 Sea View Drive, was last seen standing on the corner of Fort and Cook streets prior to 2 p.m. that day.

Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart said he is interested in hearing from anyone who saw him subsequent to then.

So far police have not commented whether they suspect foul play.

RECREATION MEET SLATED

A public meeting will be held in Esquimalt Thursday to determine what kind of recreational facilities the community wants.

Ald. Roy Elphick, chairman of the recreation commission in Esquimalt, said "any suggestions from groups or individuals will be considered as we make plans for improving recreation in this community."

He welcomed "any interested people" to attend the meeting in Jubilee Hall beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Cuba Refuses To Refuel Hijacked Plane

MIAMI (AP) — The Cuban radio said today that the Castro government has refused to refuel a hijacked Venezuelan airliner and that if the Venezuelan government wants the plane back it will have to ship the fuel to Cuba.

The radio said that Cuba took this position because of the seizure of a Cuban fishing boat by the Venezuelan Navy last year.

"The necessary fuel for the return of the plane must be sent previously to Cuba by the Venezuelan government because Cuba is not disposed to render that service to a Venezuelan government-owned airline, taking in consideration the criminal seizure in international waters of the Cuban fishing ship Alecrin and its crew, perpetrated at the end of last year by that government," the broadcast said.

Although two other Venezuelan airliners have been hijacked to Cuba and released, this was the first from that country since the boat seizure.

The Alecrin was seized last November 20 and later released.

The DC-9 the Cuban government refused to refuel is owned by the Venezuelan government-run airline, Aeropostal. It was hijacked Tuesday by three Venezuelan passengers wielding two pistols and a hand grenade, the broadcast said.

The plane's 68 passengers and crew of five were housed at Versalles Hotel in Santiago, according to the Cuban information.

RUSSIA YIELDS TO WAITERS

MOSCOW (UPI) — Waiters of the world have united and Russians have nothing to lose but their change.

After 51 years of campaigning against the capitalistic evil, the Soviet establishment today acknowledged tipping may not be so bad—it may also be necessary.

The Literary Gazette, one of the Soviet Union's most influential newspapers, suggested tipping be "officially recognized."

Since the Bolshevik Revolution, Communists have denounced the practice as "demoralizing people and breeding lackey psychology," it said.

Log Shortage Sparks Row, Big Layoff

A shortage of logs has produced a labor dispute at Port Alberni and will bring a layoff at Chemainus.

MacMillan Bloedel's Chemainus sawmill division will cut out its graveyard shift for an indefinite period starting Monday, the company said today.

The layoff will affect from 100 to 125 men.

Production manager Ray Zoost said bad weather has prevented loggers from getting into the woods and the log shortage is now being felt.

"We have tried everywhere to get more logs but have not been successful."

Estimates ranging from two weeks to a month for resumption of logging have been made by companies.

PUNITIVE

At Port Alberni, the closing down of one sawmill shift Monday at MacMillian Blodel's Alberni Pacific division has led to the union accusing the company of punitive action.

Company and International Woodworkers of America representatives met in Vancouver today to argue what the union says is a six-day work week for loggers.

The company has applied to the labor department for permission to carry out forest operations six days a week for the next three months.

REFUSED TO WORK

It has been granted a three-week interim permit while the application is being considered. But loggers in the Sproat Lake, Cameron and Franklin River divisions refused to work Saturday and the union is protesting the application.

John Squire, financial secretary for Local 1-85, said the union objected to offhand and arbitrary manner in which the company sought the longer week.

MacMillan Bloedel said the partial shutdown was due to a shortage of logs.

More Aid Urged In Transportation

TORONTO (CP) — The first conference on urban transportation was told Tuesday the federal government must provide more money to provinces and municipalities to solve transportation problems.

Gordon Taylor, Alberta highways minister, proposed that the federal government return 60 per cent of income tax generated in a province and called for a federal-provincial partnership in sharing costly urban expenses such as building expressways and rapid transit systems.

He said Ottawa now returns 30 per cent of income tax raised in a province, but it is not enough to take care of increased provincial expenditures.

Mr. Taylor also called for interest-free or low-interest loans to be provided to municipalities by the Bank of Canada for the construction of new transport facilities.

Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, called for regular urban-provincial meetings to discuss spending priorities which provinces wish to present to the federal government.

Philip Givens, Liberal MP for York West and former mayor of Toronto, urged creation of a federal department of housing and urban affairs to study city problems.

R. C. Barnstead of Toronto, spokesman for the Canadian Trucking Association and president of Smith Transport Ltd., told the conference the federal government has offered to support a study of truck movement in urban areas.

He said traffic congestion and the time loss associated with it causes a waste of money in the distribution of goods in urban areas and he called for street-widening, modern traffic controls and better loading and unloading facilities to decrease the cost of truck transportation.

Two Years To Connect

Saanich residents will be allowed up to two years to connect to sanitary sewers when they are built if council approves a recommendation from the public works committee.

The committee was told Tuesday night that residents now are allowed up to six months to connect.

But development engineer Joseph Barber-Starkey said this might cause a hardship if large areas are sewered at once.

(Saanich plans to sewer 3,400 acres in the next five years. Some idea of this size can be realized from the fact that the city of Victoria contains 4,600 acres).

Ald. Edith Gunning said two years "seems a long time."

Municipal engineer Neville Life replied that if construction is just going down one street, six months is adequate.

But installing a large amount of sewers in a short time will diminish the number of contractors available.

Political Tempers Warm Snow-Bound New York

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The icy grip of the worst winter in a decade eased on metropolitan New York today, but political storm clouds were gathering over the handling of the current snow crisis by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

At least 25 deaths have been linked to the storm in New York City alone and nearly 100 persons have died in the northeastern United States, unofficial police records showed.

Temperatures above the freezing point Tuesday began melting some of the 15-inch accumulation of snow that fell during the weekend and commuter railways and road traffic began moving again, although it was expected to be several days before they are back to normal.

Politicians of both parties blasted the city's inadequate preparations for such a snowstorm.

Lindsay, who has yet to decide whether he will run again when his term expires this year, defended existing snow emergency procedures and charged his detractors with resorting to election year political manoeuvring.

Lindsay extended the state of "snow emergency" through today and declared "a full-scale war on the snow." He said the sanitation department, which bears the responsibility for clearing city streets and highways, had enlisted the aid of private garbagemen to help in the task.

Minimal airline service from the metropolitan area's three airports—Kennedy, La Guardia and Newark—began Tuesday, but potential passengers still faced the problem of getting to the airports on snowbound access roads.

Need for Servants Hurts South Africa's Apartheid Policy

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — South Africa's apartheid policy of racial segregation is running into trouble, and one major problem is that white residents refuse to do without African servants.

"It seems that the average South African needs two servants to make his morning cup of coffee," said Michiel Botha, government minister in charge of setting up separate African homelands.

Apart from the servant problem, the government is concerned about the reluctance of industries to move to the edge of the Bantustan areas where low-wage black labor is available.

Government officials say the apartheid policy could founder on apathy. Loyal government supporters are beginning to ask whether it would not be a better idea to partition South Africa.

Leading members of the ruling National party have been urging a change in attitude by their fellow-Afrikaners, warning that unless they changed "from segregation talkers into segregation doers," as one nationalist newspaper editor put it, the bottom will drop out of their apartheid ideology.

The government's main domestic concern is moving Africans from the industrialized "white areas" to the undeveloped and economically unpromising tracts of land designated as their homelands.

To do this without disrupting the country's thriving economy, built on cheap black labor, the government is trying to lure industries to the so-called border areas.

But despite the temptations dangled before them such as tax concessions, loans at preferential interest and subsidized transportation, industrialists have shown little interest in moving to areas remote from the major markets.

Meanwhile, a growing stream of African work-seekers from the homelands are joining those already in the cities, where thousands are employed as domestic servants.

Botha continually chides whites for thwarting separate development by refusing to do without servants.

In some apartments in Johannesburg, he noted African servants living on the premises outnumber white tenants two to one.

Greek Seaman in Hot Water After Taking Canadian Bride

The story of a young Greek who jumped ship to remain here with his new bride was heard Tuesday in Victoria's central court.

Panagiotis Arvanatakis, 20, admitted failing to report to immigration authorities and wa. remanded to Friday for sentence.

Lawyer Norman Prelypchan, acting for the immigration department, unfolded a story of young love.

●

He told the court the man's ship arrived at Victoria Jan. 8 and subsequently went to Vancouver where the accused married Patricia Lee Frankham, 16, of Campbell River. Her father gave permission for the marriage.

Two days later at the Vancouver immigration office Mrs. Arvanatakis entered an application to sponsor her husband as an immigrant. It was refused because he had no passport. Advice was given on how to get one.

●

Later that evening, before his ship left for Japan, the youth collected his belongings and deserted.

On. Feb. 3 in Victoria he admitted to immigration and RCMP officials he hadn't reported to them since leaving the ship.

Mr. Prelypchan said the seaman told them he wanted to stay in the country with his bride. He didn't want to return to his homeland because he was due for induction in to the army in October.

The court proceedings Tuesday were translated to the seaman by an interpreter.

His wife, an attractive brunette, sat quietly in the front of the court appearing apprehensive.

Magistrate William Ostler expressed concern no immigration officials were on hand to guide the court in disposing of the case. Mr. Prelypchan said he hadn't any "firm" instructions on how they felt.

●

He explained the seaman only became obliged to report to the immigration authroities upon his desertion from the ship—the offence with which he is charged.

After conferring in the courtroom gallery with the lawyer and interpreter, the young couple left hand-in-hand.

Williston Blames NDP For Scaring Off Prince

A logging company owned by a German prince has "backed off" from a deal to log 1,700 acres on Texada Island in Georgia Strait because of the New Democratic Party, resources Minister Ray Williston said Tuesday.

He said the company's decision also means a 235-acre waterfront park that was to go with the development has been cancelled.

Mr. Williston made the statement after Don Lockstead, an NDP candidate in the Mackenzie provincial riding, said a citizens' protest succeeded in halting the deal between the government and Texada Logging Ltd., owned by Prince Johannes Von Thurn und Taxis.

'GUMMED IT UP'

"All the NDP has done is gum up the whole thing," Mr. Williston said.

Mr. Lockstead protested earlier that the public had not been given a chance to bid on the acreage and that the company was going to get it at a price far below the current market price.

Mr. Williston said the arrangement between the company and the government came about because Texada Logging and the crown shared an undivided interest in the property.

The government was prepared to permit the developer to log in the area in return for a portion of the acreage being set aside as a park site.

"Now nobody can touch a tree on the place unless somebody is prepared to buy out the present developers and go ahead with some sort of program," he said.

BLINDING LIGHTS BLAMED IN DEATH

DUNCAN—A coroner's jury Tuesday absolved the driver of a car involved in a fatal accident on the Old Island Highway near Cobble Hill, on January 4.

Kenneth Blake, 21, of Mill Bay, told an inquest here his car struck 15-year-old Katherine French, of Cobble Hill, after he was blinded by oncoming car lights.

"All of a sudden this girl was right in the centre of my lane," he said. "She was only 5 to 10 feet in front of me when I saw her."

The girl died in Cowichan Hospital three days after the accident.

Doctor Loses To Technician

DUNCAN—A Victoria doctor and a police breathalyzer expert tangled in county court here Tuesday over the accuracy of breath tests.

Judge Harry McKay, after a four-hour trial, took the word of the technician over that of the doctor.

And an appeal by Charles Norman Thompson, 57, of Sooke against an impaired conviction, was lost.

Dr. John Patterson of Victoria and Miss Natalie Pawlovich of the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver became central figures in the trial.

Dr. Patterson said he had spent 21 years arguing that breathalyzer tests do not always provide absolute evidence of the amount of alcohol a person has consumed.

WROTE BOOK

He said he had testified at dozens of similar trials and is the author of a book outlining the effects of alcohol on persons suffering from diabetes, duodenal ulcers and emphysema.

He cited one case where a man weighing 185 pounds had shown a blood alcohol level of .10 (greater than the level generally accepted as indicating impariment). The test was taken one half hour after the subject had taken only 1½ ounces of liquor.

The doctor testified that the same test applied to a man who weighed 130 pounds showed a reading of only .05 alcohol.

ULCER BLAMED

Dr. Patterson said it was not the difference in weight which affected the reading but the fact that the bigger man had a duodenal ulcer.

The fact that the accused was jocular one minute and depressed the next may have been the result of drugs prescribed for his ulcer condition, said the doctor. And the drug may have caused photophobia—a senistivity to sunlight, resulting in symptoms like sunstroke.

HIT CAR

Evidence submitted to the court claimed that Thompson was arrested last July 28 by RCMP Corporal Colin Smith after Thompson's trailer was backed into a car at Cowichan Bay boat ramp.

Const. Irwin Yaskiw conducted two breathalyzer tests on him at Duncan RCMP headquarters and reported blood alcohol levels of .17 and .18 per cent.

Police lab technician, Miss Pawlovich, explained operation of the breath-testing unit and said she had conducted more than 350 tests on experimental subjects.

She claimed that in order for a 150-pound man to have a blood alcohol reading of .17 he would have consumed six to eight bottles of beer.

TWO BEER

The accused, who weighs 135 pounds, testified he had only two bottles of beer while fishing in the hot sun over a 10-hour period.

In over-ruling the defence claims, Judge McKay said he had no hesitation in accepting the testimony of two police officers who both had considerable experience in such cases.

The judge said Miss Pawlovich was an acknowledged expert and he was willing to rely on the accuracy of breathalyzer tests.

Salmon Club Fights Log Booms

COWICHAN BAY — Directors of Cowichan Bay Salmon Club have joined the protest against further log booming grounds in Cowichan Bay, president George Hauk said Tuesday.

Mr. Hauk said the club objects to the latest booming application by Falt Enterprises Ltd. on the basis the designated area would extend over one of the best coho, chum and spring salmon fishing areas in the bay.

The proposed booming ground is in an exposed location, and with prevailing winds, could present a hazard to pleasure craft, he said. Clam digging also would be affected.

COMMUNITY ROLE SOUGHT FOR SCHOOL GYMNASIUM

The gymnasium of a new school planned for Port Renfrew may double as a community hall.

Sooke school trustees appeared generally in favor of the idea at a meeting Tuesday night and approved exploring the idea further with B.C. Forest Products and holding a public meeting.

District superintendent Ernest Hyndman said the initial plan called for a school with four classrooms, a library and an activity room.

But the idea now is to see if BCFP will contribute the extra money needed to build a full-sized gymnasium in place of the activity room with an understanding the gym could serve for community functions.

A $2 million building referendum which will go to the ratepayers March 29 includes about $185,000 for buying the Port Renfrew site, building and equipping the school.

The referendum is designed to meet a predicted 36 per cent pupil increase over the next three years. There are now 5,023 students in the Sooke district's 17 schools.

Provincial government grants will cover three-quarters of the building program. The ratepayers will be asked to approve long-term financing of about $500,000.

In other business, the board authorized Mr. Hyndman to seek government approval for an extension to the gymnasium at Edward Milne high school in Sooke.

The project will cost an estimated $40,000 and funds for it were approved in an earlier referendum.

Trustees Protest Trailer Parks

Sooke school trustees are going to let Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell know how unhappy they are about recent zoning changes approved by his department.

The school board decided at a meeting Tuesday night to protest by letter in the "strongest possible terms" recent zoning of five areas in the school district for trailer parks.

"We can't tax these parks for school purposes and they will be just an added burden to the taxpayers in the school district," said Trustee Mrs. Isabelle Reader.

She noted the minister's decision went contrary to the recommendations of the regional planning board, the school board and the zoning advisory commission.

The school board's protest comes a day after the resignation of Stan Hiscock, chairman of the advisory planning commission, who quit over the same issue.

Arthur Mayse

One day when our winter was at its meanest, a party unknown slipped $8.50 cash into a plain envelope and sent it off to Canadian Customs, Victoria division.

Lack of name and return address told a familiar story. The sum enclosed in the envelope with the January 24 Victoria postmark was "conscience money". Somebody, sometime had failed to declare one or more purchases made on the other side of the border, and wished to set the record straight.

Since receipt can't be acknowledged through usual channels, district chief of port operations Donald A. Smith asks me to pass on a message from Customs to 'X'.

"We take this as non-tax revenue from a person unknown, and have remitted to the Receiver-General of Canada."

Although smugglers' consciences don't always start hurting, Mr. Smith tells me that at intervals of two years or so, someone gets to brooding on past failure to declare and decides to make amends.

Oftener than not, such delayed payments are received in February, a moody month that lends itself to soul-searching.

The conscience-prickled have even been known to send in the undeclared article, along with their names. But far more usual is the anonymous enclosure—mailed, no doubt, with a sigh of relief.

★

Here's an account I think you'd like to share. It was set down by Commander Peter G. May, RCN, Captain of HMCS Yukon, and it tells how the ship's company of a Canadian destroyer on cruise moved in hearty navy style to befriend one Victoria six-year-old.

The Yukon's crew learned of Florenda Joy Dick's need for complex heart surgery through an internal broadcast on the evening of Jan. 29. This comment was added: "Does anyone have any ideas?"

Let Commander May continue:

"At 0800, 30th Jan., there were cash donations of sufficient amount to indicate a great interest in the cause, and immediately a fund was set up. The cash donations gave the fund a good start and strong momentum.

"As a matter of interest some of the methods of fund-raising are here indicated. The cash donations were followed by a raffle of ship's crests, a haircutting bee, canteen sales sponsored by the ship's company fund, a softball game, a raffle of a Mexican curio, and various untold, including sponsored sales at a ship's banyan." (For landlubbers, a banyan is a party, usually on shipboard, rigged by navy men for their own entertainment.)

Commander May also notes that two young seamen ashore in Balboa accepted donations from a USAF sergeant and a USN sailor.

"To a man," he concludes his message, "we pray for the little girl's full recovery and safe return to her mother and father and all good Victorians who so well deserve her smiling face to brighten an already beautiful city."

There's a P.S. "The fund now stands at $1,116.79, and you may expect a final report from San Diego shortly after mid-February."

★

Another letter to hand from Chris Page, 1601 Belmont, who offers his views "as a student still in the throes,"

"I would like to tell of a system which is working extremely well in our grade nine class," he writes. "The teacher in advance asks several students to each pick a poem from any resources at their disposal and talk about their choice.

"Now one of the things which you mentioned in your article as 'dissecting a poem like a frog,' is one of the most rewarding things to do which I have encountered in all my English lessons. Doing this greatly deepens the interest in the poem and has been greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all members of this class."

To Chris Page, good frogging, and respect for a sturdy opinion. It isn't mine . . . but what a heck of a world if we all chose to agree!

'Don't Look to Regional Board' Mayor Tells Colwood, Langford

Campbell Proposal Shot Down

By JIM HUME

The Regional District Board has no intention of providing local government administrative services for Colwood, Langford and Metchosin.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, chairman of the regional board, made this view known today in answer to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's statement that, following rejection of the bid to incorporate the three areas, the regional board could provide certain local services.

Following the 90 per cent against incorporation vote Mr. Campbell said the regional board could be approached to administer such things as metro sewer expansion and planning "without having to duplicate full scale municipal government."

Mayor Stephen took a different view.

"I want to make it absolutely plain that in no circumstances will the regional board become a substitute for local government in any area where there are sufficient people to incorporate and look after themselves," he said.

"We have been charged with the duty of looking after regional functions and we shall continue to carry out those functions as we do for all our members.

'LOOK IN VAIN'

"But if the people of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin are looking to the board for assistance in the solving of problems which are purely local in nature, they will look in vain.

"We have enough on our plate now without running around trying to manage local affairs."

Mayor Stephen said his statement was not to be construed as an attempt to interfere with the Feb. 1 decision of the residents of the three areas concerned.

"We do not wish to intrude in their local decision," he said. "But we want our stand made quite clear."

Mayor Stephen said it was with considerable regret he received the resignations of three regional district board directors following the vote.

'GREAT SERVICE'

"The entire board deeply deplores the decision of these three dedicated men to leave the board," he said.

"All of them rendered great service to the board, particularly John Williams of Langford who guided the regional board parks committee through its formative years.

"I is a just a tragedy that these three men should be forced, because they are men of principle, to leave the regional government field,"

The resignation of Mr. Williams of Langford, Mac Tipton of Metchosin and Hal Banks of Colwood means the three areas will be unrepresented on the regional board until an election to appoint three new directors is held.

No date has been set for the election.

GET POSITIVE

In announcing their resignations in protest at the total rejection of the incorporation bid the three men challenged "the negative thinkers" of the area to now come forward and do something positive.

The resignations will cause some switches in committee appointments at the regional level made over the weekend by Mayor Stephen.

Mr. Williams had been re-appointed as chairman of the parks committee while Mr. Banks and Mr. Tipton had been appointed to the key finance, planning and transportation committees and the sewers, health and garbage committees respectively.

Other committee appointments saw Mayor Ray Bryant, Esquimalt, take the chair of the finance and personnel committee; Ald. Ian Stewart, Victoria, chairman of planning and transportation; Mayor Hugh Curtis, Saanich, chairman of regional sewers; Ald. Edith Gunning, Saanich, health services, and Mayor Fred Hawes, Oak Bay, regional garbage disposal.

MORE LIAISON

Mayor Stephen has introduced the Victoria city Group "A" and Group "B" committee system at the regional level in an attempt to bring about closer liaison between members and to streamline administration.

On Group "A" are directors Bryant, C. M. Parrott, L. H. Passmore, Howard Elder, D. Cavaye and Joan Purchase.

Group "B" is comprised of H. A. Curtis, E. R. Gunning, F. W. Hawes, A. W. Freeman, A. M. Galbraith, A. E. Beasley and Lily Wilson.

CHARRED EQUIPMENT and building remain after early morning blaze gutted premises of Ideal Lawn Equipment, 1640 Cedar Hill Crossroad. Damage is estimated at $15,000 to the building, a near total loss, plus several thousand dollars of lawn mowers. Fire broke out at about 1 a.m. and spread through entire one-and-a-half-storey building. Cause of the blaze was unknown at press time. Building and equipment are insured. (Times photo.)

Langford Pair Ready to Fill Vacant Posts

Both Opposed Incorporation

Two Langford opponents of incorporation have agreed to let their names stand as directors on the regional board.

William Temple and Earl Pallister said today they have been asked to stand by groups of persons who oppose incorporation of Langford, Metchosin and Colwood.

Hal Banks of Colwood, John Williams of Langford and Mac Tipton of Metchosin announced Monday they are resigning from the board.

"I opposed incorporation at this time because I did not think our financial base was strong enough to support a municipality," said Mr. Temple.

"I am not against progress. Possibly in three or four years when our assessement reaches the $30 million mark incorporation might be practical.

"I also feel that we did not influence more than 10 or 15 per cent in their vote. The people had made up their minds long before we anti-incorporationists began."

A spokesman for the regional district said this morning there never has been a contest for directors from Langford, Colwood and Metchosin. All elections have been by acclamation, meaning there was no opposition.

PTA Women Talk Back To 'Teacher'

Education Minister Donald Brothers and about 100 women members of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation today flunked each other's homework tests in a sometimes-stormy confrontation.

The women, from various parts of the province, descended on the Legislative Buildings to lobby all MLAs to pressure the government into releasing more money for school districts.

Mr. Brothers, declining to meet the executive, said he wanted to take them all on, so he went over to their meeting in the auditorium of the new museum, backed by half a dozen Socred MLAs.

As soon as he got there, he said he'd like to ask the group a few questions before they asked him any.

While the supporting Socreds spread through the group handing out sheets of blank paper, Mr. Brothers threw out test questions to the women much like a teacher staging a surprise test.

Telling them to write down the answers, Mr. Brothers asked the women such questions as:

How much money did the provincial government contribute to school districts last year? How much did the homeowner grant total last year? What was the total education bill of the province?

"I wonder if you could answer the same questions if we asked them of you about each of our own school districts," blurted an exasperated woman.

PERSISTED

Mr. Brothers said he didn't think so, but gamely kept on asking questions and then swung into excerpts of his Tuesday speech to the legislature.

Within minutes, he was being peppered by mainly hostile questions form the women, which reached a climax when he told them that he was "proud" to find on his cross-Canada trips that the B.C. government's formula for helping school districts was the best in the country.

The inconclusive confrontation was to be followed by more lobbying by the PTA members later in the day.

Tests Continue on 'Bugs' For Finding Slide Villains

A two-year experiment using electronic "bugs" to listen for rocks about to start mountain slides is still continuing, a provincial highways engineer said Tuesday.

E. M. Readshaw, senior materials engineer, said super-sensitive microphones are used to monitor noises inside boulders either by earphones or tape recorders.

He said the noises can be analyzed for indications whether the boulder is about to crack but the monitoring program is still only an experiment.

Mr. Readshaw said the monitoring unit was used last fall in the general area of the Squamish Highway where a rockslide killed three persons last Sunday. But no readings had been taken of the particular spot.

First Wave Swamps Guards At Hillside's H-Hour

By PETE LOUDON

Poor Mr. Childerhouse, poor Petra—they were innocent victims the day the women stampeded.

Their names were advertised over a public address system soon after Victoria's newest department store electronically slid open its doors today.

Mr. Childerhouse was instructed to meet his wife at the customer service counter. A man could have aged 10 years before he found it.

RISKY BUSINESS

Petra was described as three years old and lost, and Heather and Wendy were said to be waiting their mother at the foot of the down escalator.

The directions were clear enough, but on the day of the stampede, their positions were fraught with peril.

You could tell the women were getting restive days ago. Instead of ringing Valentines Day on the calendar they've been putting crayon hearts around Feb. 12.

Coins have been disappearing from sugar bowls. They've been studying bank statements to see if there had been a post-Christmas recovery yet.

POLICE KNEW

Husbands saw these little signs but most of us didn't twig to what was coming. We certainly never expected the stampede. The police were the first to know.

Some 1,500 cars overflowed the parking lot at the new Hillside-Shelbourne shopping mart soon after 9 a.m. Then cars began to plug Edgeware, Oakland, Burton, Keats and Shelbourne as far north as McRae.

The women appeared from cars, walking in, pushing baby buggies, pushing reluctant but helpless husbands in many cases.

Commissionaires soon stopped entry from Shakespeare. Men of the Veterans' Security Service stood like Horatios along North Dairy. Others were braced on the floors and at escalators. The tide swept by them.

The crowd flooded around a nurse with a wheelchair slowing her errand. Stragglers soon began falling out wherever there was a place to sit. Numbed faces, weary legs with toes turned in, claimed every space in the coffee shop as 80 people formed a line at the door.

As the first wave of shoppers completed their orbits and moved out, new waves rolled in. Now traffic was going two ways in the car lots and some guards were mumbling to themselves.

At press time it's still too early to assess the aftermath of the day of the great stampede. The minds of men may be scarred with what became a moving hallucination of flipping wallets, credit cards, cash drawers banging, free balloons and elbows in the ribs.

The amazing thing was, however, the women appeared to love it.

Rites Thursday For Former Shell Official

The former president of Shell Oil Co., (West Coast) Sidney Belither, O.B.E., died Monday in Royal Jubilee Hospital following an illness.

Mr. Belither retired in 1949 from his post with Shell, based in San Francisco, and came to live in Victoria in 1952.

He was born in Ilford, England, had spent most of his career with the Shell company and was known in many parts of the world.

Surviving are his wife Alexandra M., at home 3515 Upper Terrace; a daughter Ann, of Saskatoon, now at home; a son Peter in England, and two grandchildren.

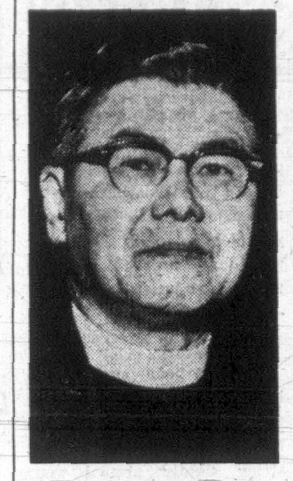
Funeral service will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church by Canon Grahame Baker, with burial at Royal Oak.

FROST-BROKEN SAANICH ROADS BLAMED FOR CAR ACCIDENTS

Saanich police today cautioned drivers to use extra care, especially at night, when driving on roads damaged during the recent winter cold spell.

A number of accidents have been caused by ruptures in the road following frost heavings. The obstructions are not visible in the darkness and repairing of the damage will not be complete for some time.

The area affected includes Gordon Head, Cordova Bay and Mount Douglas.



ELECTED MODERATOR of the Victoria Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Tuesday, Rev. Edward Ling became the first Chinese Canadian to hold this office in British Columbia. A former successful businessman in Toronto before taking theological studies in Formosa, he was appointed minister of the Chinese Presbyterian Church here in 1967. (Robin Clarke Photo.)

Park, Pool In Offing For Sidney

Sidney residents may soon enjoy a new waterfront park and an enclosed swimming pool.

The park would be a public project while the pool is being negotiated with a private company.

Council has approved a proposal by Mayor Arthur Freeman for a two-acre waterfront park to be located between Rest Haven Hospital and the federal fishboat wharf. It will involve extending the foreshore with 40,000 yards of gravel and rocks taken from the Patricia Bay Highway widening project.

The mayor said council will study similar developments in other parts of the municipality. Lack of available land means reclamation of foreshore is necessary.

The swimming pool is proposed for Resthaven Drive at Mills Road at an estimated cost of $60,000. The promoters will require to lease a half acre of municipal property.

One of the principals of the unnamed firm, William Young, said the pool would measure 60 by 30 feet and depths would range from 2½ to 5½ feet. A recreation room above dressing rooms would permit spectators to watch swimmers.

The prefabricated building is under study by Sidney recreation and parks committee under Ald. Harry Perry. Approval will depend on whether the facilities are considered adequate to local needs.

Hard Look Planned At Costs

Lively Sessions Coming On Car Insurance Study

The special legislative committee studying the royal commission report on auto insurance decided today to try to restrict its study to specific recommendations of the Wootton Commission.

And it will examine particularly the cost implications of any proposals.

Chairman Herb Capozzi (SC — Vancouver Centre) said if the committee entered into a comprehensive study of the lengthy report there would be "no possibility" of the committee reporting to the house by its March 7 deadline.

'UNREALISTIC'

He described the deadline as "quite unrealistic if we are to do a thorough job."

The Wootton commission presented its report to the government in November calling for a compulsory, no fault, insurance scheme.

Former attorney-general Robert Bonner made the recommendation that cost be studied for each proposal because he did not think the committee should report to the house "simply in a philosophic vein."

"If the philosophy is to reach for the moon — the question is how do you get there in dollars and cents."

ACTION AHEAD

It was the first meeting of the house committee and indications are that its deliberations will be lively.

Chairman Capozzi ruled that any MLA has a right to sit on the committee, but no MLAs with "vested interests" in automobile insurance may vote. This would take the vote from committee-member William Hartley (NDP — Yale-Lillooett), Co-Op Fire and Casualty agent from Merritt.

Mr. Hartley said he plans to appeal the ruling to the speaker of the house. The member has already this session entered a bill to provide for publicly-owned and operated auto insurance in the province and he told the committee he wanted to see "that the people in B.C. get a fair deal" in car insurance.

LIBERAL SECRETARY

Garde Gardom, the Liberal MLA for Vancouver-Point Grey, was elected secretary of the committee by acclamation. It is unusual for this or any other committee executive position to be held by non-government members.

The committee will advertise publicly for persons wishing to present briefs to its future meetings. A schedule has not yet been set.

Resignation Postponed

Ed O'Connor, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees Association, said Tuesday he will postpone his intended resignation indefinitely because no suitable replacement has been signed on.

He made the statement after plans to turn the $15,000 to $18,000-a-year job over to Vancouver City Hall Employees Association business agent Max Pierotti fell through.

HATE MAIL PUZZLES SCHOOLS

Hate literature attacking Premier Bennett and the Social Credit government arrived by mail at some schools in the Capital region Tuesday.

The bundle of poster-sized sheets, some with elaborate color printing, appears unrelated to schools and attacks various legal aspects of government policy.

"There's nothing constructive about it at all—it's a hurt thing," one official at the Greater Victoria school board office said.

The material arrived in a plain brown envelope with the initials "PTA" penned alongside the address. (PTA is a common abbreviation for Parent-Teacher Association).

There is no indication of the source and in the case of the envelope at the Greater Victoria board office, even the post-mark was blurred.

Several schools in the Sooke school district received the material but a Saanich Peninsula school board administrator said this morning it all came as news to him.

There was no indication of how many schools in Greater Victoria, or any other persons, got it.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the longest time a person can go without sleep? —J. L.

A. The length of time a person can stay awake depends on many variables including physical condition. The longest time a person has gone without sleep under medical surveillance is 11 days and 13 hours. Charles Christensen, a 23-year-old California disc jockey, accomplished the feat in 1966.

Q. What makes some manufactured logs burn with a colored flame?—F. P. L.

A. Pulverized wood and sawdust are treated with copperous oxide before being pressed into log shape. This chemical, when burned, gives off the colored flames.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

High-Waisted Designs Can Be Adapted to Fit

Dear Eunice Farmer:

So many of the new dress patterns are high-waisted, but I still prefer wearing mine at the natural waistline. Could you please explain the proper procedure for lengthening these high-waisted designs? —Mrs. S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

It would be a good idea to have a friend help you with this measurement in order to be sure it is accurate. Tie a string tightly around your waist and adjust it so that it is really in the natural position. Now carefully measure from the centre of your shoulder, between the armhole and the neck edge, keeping tape over the largest part of the bust and continue to the string at the waistline. This will be the exact measurement which you must adjust according to the kind of dress you are making.

If you intend wearing a belt with the dress, you will have to allow from ½ to 1 inch in length for the ease you need when you move. Without enough ease, your waistline would slip up when you move and not feel comfortable. Do the same with the back of the bodice, also add ease to this length.

If you are large in the bust, you must also allow for a dart at the side of the bust. This must be pinned in place before you decide on the length you will need for your bodice. I have found it is always easier to make your bodice slightly shorter if necessary than it is to cut it too close to the actual measurement and then find that it wasn't long enough.

Scarves are important accessories for spring and Eunice Farmer gives you directions on how to make three popular scarves plus other accessories in her booklet "Boutique Gifts." To obtain your booklet send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope with your request for it to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

Second-Hand House Poses Problems

By PENNY SAVER

The trouble with a "second-hand" house is that everything is in the wrong place. This is especially true of old houses, particularly in the kitchen area where the addition of modern appliances, invariably makes cooking a meal tantamount to running an exercise circuit. Husbands are no help. True, if you own the place you can renovate a la Pauline Graves, but husbands have a bad habit of agreeing that something must be done then forgetting to do it. All a wife can do is cope.

One of my friends is taking a lesson in coping right now. Her husband was transferred to Victoria and bought a house for his family without consulting his wife. His choice was basically good: Situated on a large piece of land well outside the city, the place is roomy, well-built and surprisingly well-insulated. The whole place has been tastefully and thoroughly renovated and the former owner spared no expense.

So what's the problem? The kitchen, of course. The former owners were glass-nuts and fitted most of the kitchen cupboards with "windows." These make it very easy to find things, but the shelves must be kept neat and the glass (and sides) clean. Worst of all there is a double-glass window in the old-fashioned cooling cupboard. "I was so glad when I heard the kitchen had one," moaned my friend," but with this window I can't just toss bundles of potatoes, carrots and onions in every which-way. Maybe I'm being foolish and fussy, but I want it to look nice." To hold her root vegetables and fruits she had bought regular open, plastic bins, but for the shelves directly facing the "window" she bought beautiful enamel vegetable bins with lids. These bins are $5.98 each. They are a good size and have flat lids ("The lids keep the smell of the onions and the apples separate.") with depressions in the centre to make stacking easy. The basic color is white with pictures of vegetables all around.

Kitchen Posters

Remember when the "In" thing to put on a bare wall was a monster travel poster? "With-it" people who couldn't afford paintings were wild about picutres of trains sweeping through unbelievably green French country-sides. Now the "In" people go for hippy posters: The famous (and re-colored) poster of Sarah Bernhardt as Medee, Beardsley illustrations and hip zodiacs. My friend joined this crowd—when she decided to cover the large spaces on her new kitchen wall with posters. Hers however make sense. One is a monster herb guide that is both colorful and to the point. Another is a "gourmet guide" while on a smaller spot is a copy of an old inn advertisement giving the prices and rules for "victualling and lodging." The herb and gourmet guides are from a series of posters that include zodiac signs, antique maps, pictures of owls, a scene of the Norman conquest and many other subjects. These posters are $1.95 each. The smaller poster along with a "rules of the tavern" poster are copies of authentic old advertisements. The printing is white on black with a white border — obviously a straight negative and very effective. These small interesting posters, which are printed on a parchment-like paper, are 25 cents each.

I saw another nesting cream and sugar set. This one is $4.95 for a straight-sided cream jug that sits in a depression in the lid of the sugar bowl. Made of ceramic, these are white with patterns of either strawberries in red or apples (cut open to give the pattern of seeds) in green. Other serving items such as plates and bowls are available in these attractive patterns as well.

Please call 382-3131 if you would like to know where to find these items.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Dear John—What About Mary?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I get sick right up to here when I hear someone pleading with us girls to be gentle with the boys in the service and above all, "NO DEAR JOHN LETTERS!"

Abby, what about the "DEAR MARY" letters WE get? Is it any easier for us to sit home for months on end, refusing dates, writing letters every day, and having nightmares when we don't get any mail for weeks. And then like a bolt out of the blue, a letter finally comes, which starts, "Dear Mary, by the time you get this I will be married—."

At this moment I can rattle off the names of 10 girls who have had this happen to them. And I head the list.

I am sick of hearing that "You're safe at home" excuse. I'm "safe at home" all right. My skunk saw to that.

(ANOTHER) DEAR MARY

DEAR ABBY: Someone ought to tell that Battalion Chaplain in Viet Nam to go soak his head. (He said that girls with guys in the service should NOT write Dear John Letters.)

I imagine they aren't the greatest letters in the world to receive, but consider the alternative: Either the sweet young thing keeps writing fake love letters telling him that all is well and she will be waiting for him, or she just quits writing.

The latter happened to me, and when you're expecting a letter every day and don't get it, it's like getting a "Dear John" letter every day. When a guy gets a "Dear John," at least he knows what happened.

Giving Home Manicure Takes Some Practice

Lowman

Although many women have their manicures at a beauty salon, there are thousands of others who do their own. I receive numerous letters from the latter asking for detailed directions. So, here goes for those of you for whom it is a "do it yourself" task.

These are the articles you will need in order to do a good job: emery boards, polish remover, an orange stick, cotton, cuticle softener and cuticle scissors, and a small dish of warm soapy water.

First remove any nail polish you may be wearing. Next use an emery board to shape your nails to an oval. Do not saw back and forth but stroke in one direction, from side to centre. Be sure not to make the curve too steep at the sides. Strive for an oval.

Next soak the fingertips of the hand you have been working on in the warm soapy water. Keep them there for a few minutes and then dry them. Wrap a bit of cotton around the damp tip of the orange stick and dip it in cuticle remover or oil. Apply to the cuticle. Now push the cuticle back from the nail. Do this very gently.

Rinse well and inspect the cuticle. If it is jagged or too thick you will have to use the scissors. Cut off the jagged spot or remove the superfluous cuticle in one piece.

Ideally you should not have to cut the cuticle at all. If you form the habit of using a cuticle cream or oil at night and push the dead skin back regularly this will be your reward. However, if the cuticle needs cutting you have no choice. Rinse your hands and dry them well.

Your nails are now ready for the polish. It will be easier for you if you rest the elbow of the hand that holds the brush on the table. Place the other hand flat on the table.

Try to cover the nail with three strokes, on the sides first and then down the centre. First apply a base coat and then two coats of the colored polish. Finish with a clear top coat or sealer. Let the coats dry in between applications. Any smudges can be easily removed with polish remover.

If your fingers feel stiff or if your hands lack grace you may want my hand exercises. If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Government Helps Canadian Firms Put on Mammoth Show in New York

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — Seventeen Canadian rainwear manufacturers — from Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal—recently made their first organized foray here to capture a slice of the United States market. For several individual firms it was their first try at this large export field.

They took over two hotel corridors for sales rooms and waited hopefully—and as it turned out not in vain—for American store buyers to view their garments and place orders. It would seem now that those orders may total at least $500,000.

The Canadian collections ran the gamut from couture rainwear designed by John Warden and created for Croydon of Montreal to the more classic and conservative collection by Frankroy of Winnipeg.

Of special interest to American buyers are some Canadian-made fabrics not available in the U.S. Frankroy, for example, has a group of coats in nylon cire, a new leather-like Canadian fabric, and Pacific Garment of Toronto was showing a crinkly-surfaced nylon developed in Canada less than a year ago.

And the Canadians evidently have a way with cotton velvet for rainwear that can't be duplicated in the U.S., one buyer told Surrey Classics of Vancouver. The buyer was delighted with the classic evening styles and the luxurious look of the velvet even when weather-proofed.

PANTS-SUIT DOMINATES

Fashion-wise, all the Canadian collections included, of course, the pants-suit. It is everywhere. One cannot avoid it. Montroy of Montreal showed it in a wrap, self-tie, long jacket and hood, with flare pants, in red, white and blue printed cotton with white contrasts. Incidentally, both these colors and the white contrast are very much in the over-all fashion picture for spring. Lydia Fashions of Montreal added extremely wide notched collars to plaid coats, sold with or without pants.

Irving Posluns of Toronto was showing his rain ensembles, the coats a solid color cotton poplin with a contrast lining that matches an umbrella, scarf and reversible hat. The set retails both in Canada and U.S. for around $40—another reason for American buyers' interest in Canadian rainwear.

Warden featured a simple cream-colored twill coat, its rounded collar lined in brown plaid to turn up for color contrast and against the rain. A matching scarf pulls under the epaulettes to tie in front. Warden also had his own cuff, a smart turn-down and rounded version.

Incidentally Warden believes that the hot colors so popular even a season ago are finished in rainwear. They are too hard for the average person to wear. However, this wasn't a unamimous opinion.

William Frohman of Toronto introduced his Garbo coat, in various fabrics and colors. It is a slouchy wrap-style casual, with huge pockets and standaway notched collar.

GOVERNMENT HELPED

Sport-Ease of Winnipeg had a classic style in a cotton-nylon blend with simulated leather collar, cuffs and slotted waistband. Sports Togs of Montreal carried the Rainmaster label, designed by well-known Lydia Sperlich. Here again was the haute couture look that so delighted American buyers. One cardigan-type coat has a tattersall check top combined with a plain skirt and lowered belt. There's a matching check kerchief headgear.

The two-week stint in New York was arranged for the manufacturers by the Canadian government and is part of an all-over plan to foster export trade in all phases of Canadian manufacturing. The first salvo was fired last November when the 17 rainwear firms presented a preview in New York for the resident buyers, hoping they would be sufficiently impressed to advise their buyers scattered in stores across the country to see the collections when they were in New York during the January showings. The resident buyers were so impressed that they themselves placed preliminary orders to the tune of nearly $85,000.

In April the Canadian government will sponsor a coat and suit market in New York and in June a general showing of Canadian merchandise.

Introduction Lasted All Evening

By PAT DUFOUR

Rev. H. B. Illsey, of Esquimalt United Church, attended a meeting in the lounge of the "Y" Building Tuesday evening. He was there to introduce the main speaker, a Victoria lawyer, who was to discuss law with 12 young couples currently attending a nine-week Preparation for Marriage course. The lawyer didn't show.

Instead, Rev. Illsey carried the evening with an off-the-cuff discussion on the pros and cons of working wives. The switch of subject appeared popular. It also indicated that the much-discussed "generation gap" is no figment of the imagination.

The minister told his audience that he was convinced that every marital break-up stemmed from money problems. He emphasized, that in his opinion, too much emphasis was laid on material things.

Rev. Illsey asked how many of the women attending Tuesday's lecture intended to work after marriage. They all did.

One woman said that she would work because the additional money was needed to help finance the home.

Another said that she intended to continue working "because the contacts and experiences I get in my work will contribute to the relationships of my husband and myself."

Agreeing that "every age has experienced the so-called 'generation gap'," Rev. Illsey said that the gap had been accentuated in recent years. "There has been such a complete and dramatic change in our lives through technology during the past 10 years, the older generation simply hasn't been able to assimilate it."

He said that he had a certain amount of respect for hippies. "Perhaps they don't accomplish too much in their form of rebellion but at least they are vocal in their protests against the messy materialistic world we've created. I don't blame them for saying, 'Stop the world, I want to get off'."

The role of the Church was also discussed. Rev. Illsey deplored the fact that young people, generally, did not study their faith in depth. "They have a curiosity toward a variety of religions, which is fine. But, they don't work at their own.

"When they enter university the first professor they meet is able to whittle down their Sunday-School type of faith. It just doesn't stack up."

He told his audience that if they weren't satisfied with their Church they "should stick with it. Roll up your sleeves and do something about it."

A "Y" official, apologizing for the lawyer's absence, said the course would be lengthened to include Tuesday's scheduled subject.

Next Tuesday the group will discuss masculine and feminine roles, with related subjects, including decision-making.

Scientist to Probe Question Whether Russia Is Ahead of the West in Technological Field

"Is Russia Ahead of the West in Science?" will be the topic when Dr. John Convey speaks to the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel next Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. The speaker made an extended visit to Russia in 1964.

Dr. Convey was born in County Durham, England. The son of a coal miner, he spent the first 18 years of his life in the coalfields area. He emigrated to Canada in 1929, where his family settled in Clandonald, Alta.

He graduated from the University of Alberta with a degree in honor physics, and later obtained a M.Sc. in physics and his Ph.D. in atomic physics at the University of Toronto in 1940.

Dr. Convey was awarded the Sorby Prize for original work in metallurgical research when, after serving with the Royal Navy, he spent six years working on a wide variety of problems pertaining to operational research at the Sheffield Laboratories.

Returning to Canada in 1946, Dr. Convey became associate professor of physics at the University of Toronto, and in 1948 joined the federal mines branch as chief of the physical metallurgy division. He later became manager of the branch.

Dr. Convey is chairman of the materials research panel of the Defence Research Board, and a member of the advisory board of the faculty of science at the University of Ottawa.

An author of various technical articles and papers, Dr. Convey is well known for his "The Past, Present and Future of Canadian Steel" and "Story of Metals."

In 1956 Dr. Convey received the Blaylock Medal, awarded by the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, for his contribution to the development of controlled atomic energy in Canada. In 1959 he received an honorary D.Sc. from McMaster in recognition of his contribution to the development of metallurgy in Canada.

IN 1941:

Girl Jockeys Whipped Up Great Race

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

I had a long letter recently from Win Henderson, whose father had a riding academy at the old Willows Fairgrounds in the early part of the 1900s.

In it she suggested I might like to tell Times readers about Victoria's women jockeys.

These gals participated in their first race at the Willows track in September, 1941, and according to horsemen and punters of that day it was a "thriller-diller."

There were 2,500 customers at the Oak Bay track that day and if what Win says is correct, the girl "jocks" put on a "hoss race" from start to finish.

They were a lot keener to win than their most optimistic boosters ever anticipated.

In a newspaper clipping Win enclosed with her letter, I read that from the instant Macleod Breeze "poked his nose first out of the stall gates and held this scant margin over Dr. Pook crossing the wire, the punters were in an uproar."

* * *

The riders were "all in" after travelling the six furlongs and 30 yards and were unable to pull up their respective mounts. But they enjoyed the battle.

British Columbia racing tycoon Sam Randall was so tickled with the experiment, he planned a similar event for Vancouver the following summer.

Macleod Breeze had its owner-trainer, Joyce Hartley, in the saddle and Win Henderson tells me that "few women at that time could match skill with Joyce when she was in the pilot's seat."

The newspaper clipping says she was "fit as a fiddle, too, and outmanoeuvred her rivals all the way."

It also points out that the mere fact that she broke Macleod Breeze first out of the stalls and kept him in front all the way was sufficient testimony to her skill.

Presumably the Breeze was a notoriously slow breaker and never seemed to hit his stride until heading into the home stretch.

* * *

The judge ("Doc" McKeon) said after the race that Joyce Hartley raced like a regular jockey and if they asked him to handicap the next women's race she would tote at least 20 pounds of dead weight in her saddle against the field.

Margaret Hogg on Dr. Pook lost out by a head because Mrs. Hartley had "too many tricks" in reserve and was in better condition.

She did sneak through on the inside going down the back lane and did try to shake off Macleod Breeze, but Joyce wasn't having any of that. After turning for home "the Hartley woman whipped with her right, rode with her left . . . and she did not leave enough space for her less experienced opponent to pull her whip when she needed it most."

Owners and trainers were ready for the girls after the race. They knew they wouldn't have sufficient strength left to pull up their horses and a dozen ponies dashed from the chute to help.

* * *

They were a happy-go-lucky bunch before the feature race but were all in after it was over.

Next day, five of them were aching "from head to foot." But they provided what the newspaper clipping says was "one of the most thrilling horse races ever staged at the Willows track."

Five of the girl jockeys still live in Victoria — Margaret Hogg (now Mrs. Burr); Mrs. Don Carley of the Victoria Riding Club until recently active on Cedar Hill Cross Road; Ann Biggar (now Mrs. Ron Jones); June Lang (now Mrs. Ron Wattie), and Dilys Preece (now Mrs. Gerald Aitken).

Mrs. Bill Randall, daughter-in-law of Sam, who substituted at the last minute for Miss D. Nunns (now Mrs. Terence O'Grady), lives in Vancouver. Mrs. Hartley is in the United States.

When they wore silks they were all young and good looking, according to Win Henderson. They lived to ride in those days (on occasions some of them still ride). And they were out to prove that girl jockeys could last through a race and fight to win with the best.

Sirhan May Drop Not-Guilty Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Reports circulated today that Sirhan Bishara Sirhan might change his plea to guilty from not guilty in the gunshot assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Such a change, if it occurred, would result from either an understanding or a firm belief that a life term in prison—instead of death—would be the maximum penalty, the Los Angeles Times reported.

The only likely obstacle would be Sirhan's own refusal to change his plea, The Times said. Sirhan, 24, from Jordan, was described as fearful a change of plea would rob him of the opportunity to publicly air reasons for the assassination.

The Times said Sirhan's defence lawyers huddled with the defendant, his mother, and brother Tuesday to discuss the possible guilty plea.

MONTHS OR DAYS?

Speculation also rose Monday night when Evelle J. Younger, Los Angeles County district attorney, said without elaboration in a television interview that the Sirhan trial could take "three months or three days."

Court sources said a change in plea represented one way to drastically reduce the length of a trial that has already consumed nearly six weeks just in making preliminary motions and selecting a jury.

For either a conviction or a plea of guilty to murder in the first degree, the death penalty or life imprisonment is mandatory under California state law.

Defence lawyers were said to pin their hopes for having Sirhan avoid the gas chamber on the argument that his mental or emotional capacity was so diminished as to rule out the degree of premeditation needed to warrant death.

Neither defence lawyers nor the prosecution would comment.

Opening statements by defence and prosecution, and possible first testimony, are scheduled to start Thursday, after a recess for Lincoln's birthday today.

Riot-Scarred Bombay Starts Working Again

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Thousands of people returned to work today after four days of the worst riots in Bombay's history paralyzed business and left 44 persons dead, 500 injured and more than 3,500 arrested.

As a daylight curfew was lifted this morning, buses and electric trains carried thousands of commuters back into the city centre, passing through the suburbs of Dadar and Mahim, the worst hit by violence.

Banks, offices, shops and businesses were back to normal after a noon-to-dusk curfew Monday and a day-long curfew Tuesday.

Long lines formed outside food shops and stalls. Laborers began to remove roadblocks and the wreckage of buses and cars burned by bombs.

There will be no day curfew but a curfew will be in force tonight in areas of the city where tension is still high.

Rioting began Saturday when the militant right-wing Shiv Sena movement organized demonstrations to demand that Marathi-speaking areas of neighboring Mysore state be merged with Maharashtra state.

The demonstrations turned into an orgy of arson, looting and violence, partly directed against non-Maharashtrians such as South Indians in Bombay, but mostly with hooligans and urchins running amok.

The jailed leader of Shiv Sena, Bal Thackery, appealed to his followers Tuesday to end violence in their campaign.

A few buses were pulled from service this morning when a crowd began throwing stones in the northern suburb of Santa Cruz, but generally they were running normally.

Boy Gets Gift Guide To Better Smoking

OTTAWA (CP) — A cigarette company's letter to a 10-year-old boy encouraging him to smoke it's brand of cigarettes has the Commons most vocal anti-smoking MP fuming.

Barry Mather (NDP—Surray), outspoken member of the House health and welfare committee, Monday sent a letter to committee chairman Dr. Gaston Isabelle (L—Hull) calling the incident "a disgraceful act."

The form letter to the boy was sent along with a "gift guide" to "Master G. Peterson, RR 1, Smithville, Ont."

The letter, advertising Embassy cigarettes, said the recipient could win prizes from a CCM bicycle to a Cadillac by "picking up a pack of Embassy cigarettes . . . a cigarette that's tailored to your taste."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Torben Peterson, wrote to Mr. Mather complaining about the incident.

In Mr. Mather's letter to Mr. Isabelle he said the matter "underlines the need for speedy legislative action by Canada . . . to put an end to this ghoulish business of inducing youngsters to undermine their health."

Mr. Mather has advocated a ban on cigarette advertising in Canada.

Socred Chairmen Confirmed

The eight chairmen put forward by the Social Credit government to head the legislature's select standing committees were confirmed at organizational meetings Tuesday.

This despite some opposition criticism of placing government party members in the chair.

William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet) said the committees can only be "above politics" if there is a member from the opposition benches in charge.

Committees and chairmen are: standing orders and private bills, Robert Bonner; public accounts, Evan Wolfe; mining and railways, Ed Smith; agriculture, W. F. Jefcoat; municipal matters, Hunter Vogel; forestry and fisheries, James Chabot; labor, Herb Bruch, and social welfare and education, John Tisdalle.

Witness Sticks to Assassination Story

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A key witness at Clay Shaw's trial testified he was befuddled at times—but remained "100 per cent sure" he heard Shaw plotting to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

Perry Raymond Russo, 27, insisted that his expressions of grave doubt made to various people before trial started were due to enormous mental pressures generated by the case.

Russo, ending nearly 10 hours on the stand, stepped down Tuesday.

In his long cross-examination, defence lawyer Irvin Dymond bore down hard on statements Russo made to police Sgt. Edward O'Donnell during an interview after a June, 1967, lie detector test.

Before the test, Russo had told the preliminary hearing he was at a party at Ferrie's apartment in September, 1963, and overheard the plotters.

"Do you deny that when you were asked if Clay Shaw was at the party, you replied, 'Do you want to know the truth? I don't know if he was there or not?' " asked Dymond.

A—With some explanation, yes. At that time so many people were pressuring . . . it was getting hard for me to tell if he was there or if he wasn't.

Q—But you did tell him it was hard to tell if Shaw was there or not?

A—After explaining, yes.

Q—Did you tell Sgt. O'Donnell that if you had to give a yes or no answer as to whether Shaw was at the party, you would have to say no?

A—Probably not in those exact words but in essence, yes.

Custom-Built Campsites Speciality of Alberta Firm

By JOHN CRAIG

SPRUCE GROVE, Alta. (CP) — Instant communities in remote areas are the business of Porta-Built Industries Ltd.

Sign on the dotted line, says vice-president N. J. Jevning, and in two weeks Porta-Built will provide you with offices, bunk houses, kitchens, dining rooms, bathrooms, laundry, recreation room and support units for as many occupants as require them.

Bring along a couple of airplanes and you can fly away and set up housekeeping in your chosen wilderness tract.

Custom-built campsites are turned out by the three-year-old company in this community 20 miles west of Edmonton with a particular eye to the operations of the oil industry in northern areas.

Mr. Jevning, 42, the oldest of five working partners and an 18-year veteran of the oil business, says 90 per cent of the company's sales are to oil companies.

"Sales were in the $1,000,000 bracket last year and we hope they'll go to $1,500,000 this year," he said in an interview at the company's $220,000, 29,000-square-foot plant. Need for expansion and high land costs drove the company out of Edmonton to the present location last spring.

EYE ON FUTURE

While Porta-Built has en eye on future world markets, it currently concentrates on cold-weather problems.

The nylon gasket in an ordinary doorknob broke in sub-zero temperatures. The company's units now are equipped with the type of handle used in a walk-in freezer.

"Anything going remote has two furnaces," said Mr. Jevning. "Each operates at half-capacity, but if one gives out, the other will keep the unit warm."

Windows are shuttered to guard against heat loss. In the Arctic, the shutters can be kept closed most of the winter since there is no natural light.

But the lack of fresh air makes ventilation tricky. A unit must be powerful enough to dispose of cooking smoke without sucking out enough oxygen to put out the gas stoves.

For units carried by air, the company recommends electric heating. It is easier to ship in a single kind of fuel, and diesel oil —needed anyway—can generate the power supply.

For $7,000 to $11,000, depending on contents, the company offers a six-ton unit that can be shipped in a Hercules aircraft. It may contain a bolted-down ping pong table and shuffleboard and glass-fibre curtains as well as its own furnace.

FRANK EDMONDS WITH POSTER

Catchy Posters Are Often Stolen

By ALAN WHITE

Frank Edmonds designs posters that are so good they don't often get their message across.

They are so good they are stolen for decoration on University of Victoria student walls as soon as they go up.

Mr. Edmonds, 29, is information officer for the university and posters has only been a sideline. He isn't making them now because no one but the few collectors ever got to see them.

Students have been overheard on campus asking when the next Edmonds poster was coming out so they could get it before anyone else.

What makes his paper messages so popular?

EYE-CATCHING

Mr. Edmonds rebels at what he calls the dullness and pedestrian taste of art produced for and by institutions. "Civil service art" is a bore.

The trick is putting information across so people will read it and enjoy it is a certain degree of wit and humor, he says. So he makes his posters first of all, eye-catching, and secondly, intriguing.

"Institutions put out so much information," he says. "But the message has to be put out, so why not do it so it is witty or entertaining, or at least not dull?"

"Instead of being pretentious, I try to make a person enjoy reading posters.

"Some of them are my own comment on something—but also a moment of contact with a person."

One example of Mr. Edmonds' comment is a poster announcing a lecture by Kahm-Tineta Horn on the Indian crisis with a clean, stark picture of a canoe—powered by an outboard motor.

"If I can't be witty or entertaining with a poster, then I just make an effort to be brief and unassuming," Mr. Edmonds says.

"I was never trying to be serious about doing good posters as such—just trying to make them interesting. But people began stealing them and the posters weren't being functional because they weren't up long enough.

"Now I have to put up notices of meetings, which are dull, so they stay up long enough for people to read them."

But he doesn't only do posters—he has also put together information booklets for the various schools and faculties of the university.

SIMPLE DESIGN

All of them follow his simple demands of design—don't attempt to say too much and keep it clean looking and attractive. And above all, relate it to people, not just the list of facts which must be put across.

Mr. Edmonds has tried to organize all publications around a basic format and combination of paper sizes to standardize purchases and design.

This saves the printer from losing time second-guessing what layout is wanted for information and permits him to concentrate on a quality printing job.

How did a former engineering student from the University of Toronto wind up dealing in graphics and information distribution?

"I got into working with yearbooks and student publications," Mr. Edmonds said. "Somewhere along the line I realized this was the sort of thing I enjoyed doing the most. I've been doing it ever since."

'CLUTTERED'

He has been designing everything from official publications down to a recent invitation for a university Valentine's Day party for the past year.

To demonstrate his work, he displays a collection of pamphlets and releases from universities across the country. Most of them are "cluttered" or full of visual cliches and try to say too much.

"Institutions can be pompous," he says again. "They shouldn't be like that."

Mr. Edmonds' approach is anything but pompous. He says he picked up design by practicing it and learning by doing.

Some of his work is on display at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria and will be until next Thursday. Then it will go to Nanaimo for a show and possibly to the mainland as a travelling example of what art for institutions can look like.

Government Will Bear Moving Costs

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial government will pay costs of relocating farm buildings which straddle the rail route to Roberts Bank deep sea port, a highways department spokesman said Tuesday.

Vince Scanlon, right-of-way agent for the department, made the statement in reply to MLA Tom Berger (NDP — Vancouver Burrard) who criticized the government for ordering Delta farmer Allan Bates to move his farm buildings by Saturday.

Mr. Scanlon confirmed that the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority officials, developers of the rail link to the port 25 miles south of here, said they want the right-of-way cleared by Saturday.

He said that a fully-experienced mover will be hired to shift the structures and the cost will be borne by the provincial government.

The 20-acre tract on which the buildings stand was expropriated by B.C. Hydro last month along with another 80-acre parcel.

Train Pierced By Big Pipe, Three Killed

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP) — Three commuters were killed and at least 18 injured Monday when a 40-foot length of pipe was accidentally rammed through a crowded Southern Pacific commuter train speeding for San Francisco.

The eight-inch-diameter pipe hit the double-decker car just behind the centre doors, went through a lower window at head level and came out an upper window on the other side.

A Southern Pacific spokesman said the pipe, which was being installed near the track for railroad use, was being handled by a crane.

Mitch thinks he pulled a fast one on Peoples Credit Jewellers

He traded in his old dime store lunkie for a beautiful new watch and saved 50%

Nice going Mitch ... but we're happy too!

You see Mitch you're not the only one in town that's doing it. During February many of our leading citizens will also be pulling a "fast one" on us.

They'll be bringing in dime store watches, 30-year old lunkies and children's toy models and receiving more off on a trade-in than the old watches were originally worth.

Our store manager, accountants and famous name watch suppliers will go quietly berserk when we sell any watch in the store at such ridiculous prices.

But how else could we make so many new friends and customers so early in the year.

If you're happy . . . we're happy too ! So go ahead Mitch . . . pull a "fast one".

A letter from Birmingham, Ala., reads in part: "I have been taught that you need 19 points for a jump shift response and assumed my partner would have these points for his two-spade bid. When he rebid his spades I checked for aces and bid seven no-trump. Needless to say, I was very disappointed when I saw the dummy.

"I won the club lead and played three rounds of clubs. East showed out and I abandoned clubs temporarily and went after hearts by leading to dummy's ace and finessing against East. That finesse held so I played a diamond to dummy's ace and finessed the hearts again. Then I cashed my last heart and club and finally played spades. By this time dummy's last four cards were the ace-king-queen-seven of spades and much to my surprise, I made the grand slam.

"It seems to me that I had stumbled into some sort of a squeeze or maybe my opponents misdefended. It was pleasant chalking up the score but everyone at the table was mad at me. My partner told me I had overbid; my opponents said I was the luckiest player they had ever seen. What do you think?"

His partner had made a slightly unsound jump to two spades, but we aren't much for bidding grand slams unless we are really certain of success and we do think South bid too much. We also agree that he was lucky in finding the queen of hearts and then catching an opponent with the long spades and the king of diamonds.

On the other hand we think he was kidding us about his play. His play is a perfect Vienna coup in which he first set up the king of diamonds in a defending hand and then squeezed the man who held it.

His opponents had misdefended but we can't criticize them. West could have beaten the grand slam had he opened a spade but once he did not, there was no defence provided declarer found the queen of hearts and followed with the Vienna coup.

Mobile NATO Role Urged by General

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada should get out of its present military role in Europe and instead establish a mobile land force there with air support, Gen. Charles Foulkes said today.

Gen. Foulkes, former chairman of the chiefs of staff, now associate professor of strategy at Carleton University, made the suggestion in a written brief prepared for the Commons defence-external affairs committee.

Gen. Foulkes denounced Canada's tendency to "dabble in every aspect of military endeavor." The wide diversion of military tasks which the country had set itself, "with the accompanying array of schools, training establishments and equipment," minimized its contribution to collective security.

Canada's contribution should be selective and concentrated on one or two specialized tasks. "In this way, the maximum operational element could be provided."

The traditional ground role of the Canadian mechanized brigade group in Europe was "wasteful." Canada should hand it over to the British or the Germans and reorganize the brigade with a mobile formation.

WOULD SERVE NATO

This formation would be available to the NATO mobile force, which at present does not have any troops—"just promises of forces if and when available."

Canada has committed two battalions to this force, but they are stationed in Canada, Gen. Foulkes noted. He firmly believed a Canadian presence is desirable in Europe for some years to come.

". . . Here is a real opportunity for Canada to concentrate its efforts in Europe in one meaningful role in NATO, instead of three rather dubious commitments."

Canada's four European-based bomber squadrons would be converted to a ground support and transport role for the NATO mobile force under Gen. Foulkes's plan.

"As and when the reorganization of roles is implemented, it would then be possible to concentrate all the Canadian elements in one cantonment in Germany, with one administration and one set of amenities, and thus economize on administrative costs."

Big Reduction In Saanich Drainage Work

Saanich public works committee has slashed its proposed storm drainage construction program for 1969 following hefty increases in road work.

The committee recommended $600,000 (or five mills) be spent on road work this year, double the amount contained in the provisional budget. (See Page 8 for details).

The meeting Tuesday night recognized that this increase would necessitate cuts in other areas, and the committee recommended the storm drainage program be cut from $372,000 to $129,000.

The first figure includes various requests received in the past year which are tabulated and then viewed by council. There was $200,000 provided in the provisional budget, double the figure from the previous year.

Major casualties in the cuts were Bowker Creek and the Gordon Head area.

The committee dropped $77,000 for culvert work on the creek at St. Patrick's School on Trent Street and $54,000 for culverting at Richmond Elementary.

Miscellaneous items totalling $60,000 in the Gordon Head area were cut.

SURVIVORS

Still left in the recommended list of projects was $16,000 to take Bowker Creek under Shelbourne Street at Broadmead; $15,000 in the area of the shopping centre at Cordova Bay to resolve problems of drains to the beach from the road; and $13,000 to extend a drain at the G. R. Pearkes Handicapped Children's Clinic off Arbutus to alleviate a flooding problem.

The sum of $52,000 was previously committed but not spent, and forms part of the $129,000 to be spent this year. Of this, $27,000 was for reconstruction of the Bowker Creek culvert under Shelbourne at Donnelly.

Toronto Bus Bubbles Over Bunny Girl

TORONTO (CP) — There's nothing like spicing up a usually dreary bus ride with a scantily-clad bunny girl—at least that's what passengers on one Toronto Transit Commission bus decided Tuesday.

One man went a mile past his stop and another said he wasn't getting off the bus—ever. Another man said he wasn't feeling too well and wouldn't Bubbles—a waitress at a downtown nightclub hired for the day by the TTC—just sit beside him and hold his hand.

WIVES OBJECTED

Some passengers objected —their husbands didn't—and wouldn't relent when told that Bubbles was aboard only to test a suggestion made at the Canadian Urban Transportation Conference that "bus bunnies" could make public transport more attractive to motorists.

"Good afternoon, madame, I'm your TTC hostess today and may I show you to a seat," said Bubbles.

"Hi there," she said to a young man. "Would you like to be called when your stop comes up?"

Robert Tracy, a town planner from London, Ont., attending the conference, said "when I read about this idea I thought it pretty crazy."

"Now I can see some merit in it."

Officers Elected By Church Group

DUNCAN — Lorne McLeod has been elected president of the AOTS for the Duncan United Church.

Bob Ketterer is vice-president.

Retiring president Nick Chillibeck said the club has 63 members.

Norman Carter received a prize for his almost perfect attendance during the last 11 years. He missed only one meeting out of 110.

Awe, Stifled Sobs Over Film Version Of Romeo, Juliet

By ALAN WHITE

More than a few in the audience wept openly as the curtain closed on the Franco Zeffirelli film version of Romeo and Juliet.

Out on the sidewalk, the tears still flowed as groups of students clustered in silent awe. A few tried to stifle sobs over the last, tragic act of one of Shakespeare's greatest plays.

It was that good. Let some of the students who saw the play in a special matinee Tuesday at the Haida Theatre prove it by their reactions:

"There are no words good enough to describe the fantastic art and work put into this movie," one said. "Shakespeare must have been a great writer but the way the lives of Romeo and Juliet are portrayed makes the entire film well worth seeing."

Another said; simply: "A beautiful adaptation of the play."

'TRUE EXPERIENCE'

"Romeo and Juliet was a true experience. I felt for that movie what hasn't been felt for a long time.

One 19-year-old youth said he couldn't stop himself from crying at the force of the acting as fate conspired with the two young lovers to take their lives.

"I think it's a great show," said another student. "I never really cared for Shakespeare before, but this movie has changed my outlook. I hope they do more of his plays this way.

Many couldn't put into more than a few blurted phrases what they felt on seeing Shakespeare come to life.

From the opening scenes shot with such artful skill in a still-medeival Italy, the drama and action of Shakespeare's prose leapt from the dryness of the page.

Franco Zeffirelli chose ancient towns little changed from the Verona of 1450, scene of the tragedy of personal love and family hate.

He staged the feud between the houses of Capulet and Montague within the quarried walls of the town, contrasting color and pageantry and the brawling of the fueders against the grey, impassive walls.

And for his lovers, he chose the youngest actors ever to play the parts of Romeo and Juliet professionally — 17-year-old Leonard Whiting and 15-year-old Olivia Hussey.

The two bring with them a fresh and charming bloom of youth yet a full command of the depth and passion of the tale.

They meet with innocent boldness behind the feudal lines in the midst of a family revel. They fall in love and the hatred of their separate families is shredded from between them.

The supporting actors around them are tremendous in their roles, their command of Shakespeare's poetry superb.

The film has kept the original words, with only the heavy descriptive speeches taken out, the camera's lens tells the story as subtly and convincingly as the bard's words could.

There are moments of humor and comedy in the film, caught by the camera and brought to the audience in a close-up of a face or the visual context of a phrase.

The film took action out of the confines of a stage and gave it the breadth and freedom of movement to do justice to Shakespeare's majectic tale.

TENSE MOMENTS

The protagonists roamed about the town inmortal combat or stood still and close for the dramatic and tense moments of time.

Milo O'Shea as the priest Laurence who joins the two lovers together in marrage and tries to save their fates brings to the role a moon-eyed gentleness combined with strength. But even he becomes embroiled in tragedy.

Michael York as Tybalt and John McEnery as Mercutio carry just enough sneering and mocking bravado and temper to spark the final, fatal duel between the warring families.

Paul Hardwick as Lord Capulet and Antonio Pierfedirici and Lord Montague are stern and blind to all outside their own homes, yet sympathetic and pathetic as their blindness brings them tragedy.

TRADITIONS BROKEN

Zeffirelli broke several traditions in making the film, following his early stage production for the Old Vic theatre in London.

He selected his actors carefully and then moved them from Elizabethan England to Tuscany and Umbria.

He wanted to produce the story as Shakespeare himself might have done had he lived in the age of film. And he knew the country well, for he studied architecture and the buildings as a student at the University of Florence.

His respect for Shakespeare and insight into his work have served admirably in creating this story of a youthful impulse toward life and love sacrificed to the values of an older generation.

The only scene with any nudity — and the one which made the film Adult Entertainment — is perhaps the purest and most beautiful such scene ever put on film. It makes the actors not nudes, but living sculptures.

Douglas Plans Vacation

NANAIMO (CP)—T.C. Douglas, veteran leader of the national NDP and new member of parliament for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, plans a brief vacation before returning to Ottawa.

Mr. Douglas, who easily defeated his nearest opponent, Liberal Eric Winch in Moday's byelection said he will visit his daughters in Ontario and California before returning to his party's helm on Parliament Hill.

WIRETAPS USED AGAINST CRIME

WASHINGTON (WP) — For the first time in three and a half years the government is using wiretaps in cases not involving the national security.

Attorney-General John N. Mitchell has authorized an undisclosed number of taps in the field of organized crime since taking office Jan. 20.

Under Mitchell, the justice department also is planning to reorganize the "strike-force" approach to uncovering organized crime. It may establish a separate division of the department for that purpose.

The wiretapping and new ideas on combatting organized crime were made known Tuesday under rigid ground rules prohibiting identification of the sources.

Not since June, 1965, when former president Johnson issued a directive to investigatory agencies, has the government been permitted to wiretap or eavesdrop on private conversations unless the national security was involved.

Congress last year authorized wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping in a variety of areas when it passed the omnibus crime control and safe streets act. However, former attorney-general Ramsey Clark refused to use the authority despite considerable congressional pressure to do so.

Condition Those Plants

By HILDA BEASTALL

House plants need fresh air just as humans and four-footed house pets, but like us, the plants cannot take a spell outdoors without some conditioning. As the snow melted last weekend, I noticed aspidistras and ferns put out to air on steps and porches.

Hilda

Since they were only seen in passing, I have no means of knowing how lang these plants were exposed to outdoor temperatures, but I do know that it was around 40 degrees Fahrenheit on that day.

Supposing indoor temperature was at a normal of 70-deg. F., there was a sudden drop of 30, too much for any plant to take without showing some ill effects a few days later.

More delicate semi-tropical plants such as are grown so much now, are noticeably sensitive to changes of temperature, even within the house.

When airing the house, as we like to do in winter at least a couple of times daily, house plants should be placed to one side of the rooms out of direct line of the changing air currents.

Even in a greenhouse, sudden drops in heat are prevented. A gradual change from 75-deg. F. in daytime with sun to a night of 55-deg. F. does no harm to the general run of house plants.

The drop of 20 is accomplished over a period from about 4 p.m. to perhaps midnight.

Wait until end of May or into June before putting house plants outdoors. Temperatures then should be more equalized, indoors and out, and most plants will benefit from a couple of months in the open.

Exceptions will be the thin-leaved tropical foliage plants.

YOUR HEALTH

No Danger Of Heart Wearing Out

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

The idea of disease in the heart is particularly frightening. Becuase of the idea many people have that heart disease is commonly fatal, many men and women are thrown into panic the minute they suspect they have it, and a "cardiac neurosis," once the patient gets it, is very difficult to get rid of. If a man gets a pain in what he thinks is his heart, or if he feels a missed beat, or if his heart races for a minute, or if he feels a little harmless air-hunger, he may instantly become badly frightened. If he is turned down for life insurance or for army service because of a little murmur or some slight change in his electrocardiogram, he may become so distrubed that he will start going from physician to physician, getting opinions.

Alvares

When I was at the Mayo Clinic, every month I saw patients who had been badly frightened by a questionable diagnosis of coronary artery disease, usually based on an inadequate history and an inexpert interpretation of an electrocardiogram. In my clinic years I would call a heart specialist, and when he looked at the electrocardiograms, often he would say, "That is not a textbook normal, but it does not produce disease; forget it." Often he would say, "I am constantly seeing very healthy people of 70 or 80 who when they were in school were found to have heart murmurs—which they still have." In the worst cases of cardiac neurosis the patient appears to be mildly psychotic.

* * *

Probably the commonest sympton complained of by heart-conscious patients is palpitation, with a fast, pounding beat. Perhaps an attack starts without obvious cause, or it follows excitement, a fright, a cold, or some fatiguing experience.

When a woman with a tendency to palpitation comes into a physician' soffice, she may have a pulse rate of 130 beats a minute. Then, after she has talked awhile, it will slow down to perhaps 80 beats a minute; and early in the morning, if the husband will count it while she is still in bed, he will find it running only 60 beats a minute.

* * *

Some worrisome persons with an occasional fast heartbeat will be fearful that, with the extra beats, the heart will wear out. They can be assured that it will not. Others who have a moderately slow pulse are afraid that it will slow still more and stop. Nervous persons sometimes suffer from what we doctors call "paroxysmal tachycardia."

In this disease the pulse suddenly starts going so fast it can hardly be counted. Later, it as suddenly resumes its normal rate. Especially when the electrocardiogram is normal, this syndrome (a syndrome is a group of symptoms) rarely gives any serious trouble. I remember a man who had this trouble in a severe form for 15 years and then he cured himself by stopping his excessive smoking.

Another common symptom of persons with a nervous heart is the extrasystole. These extra beats commonly go with an essentially normal heart, and it is a mistake to think of heart disease merely because of the presence of the premature contractions. Furthermore, in such cases a wise doctor will not spend a lot of time examining the patient's heart and perhaps hospitalizing him. This is likely to make him more frightened.

Seaport of Nootka Nearly Caused War

By BOB BOWMAN

It seems incredible today but the picturesque little seaport of Nootka on the west coast of Vancouver Island nearly caused a war between Britain and Spain in which France, Prussia and Holland might also have been involved.

Bowman

In 1788 British traders were using Nootka as a base where they obtained sea otter skins from the Indians, sold them in China, and then carried valuable cargoes of tea to England. Captain John Meares also built the North West America at Nootka. It was the first ship launched on the Pacific coast of Canada.

Meares and some other British captains were actually acting illegally and circumventing trade agreements by flying foreign flags. Spain claimed Vancouver Island as her own territory and sent Captain Esteban Jose Martinez to Nootka to build a fort. Martinez captured the British ships there, and it took the captains and crews about a year to get back to London.

There was an uproar when the Spanish action became known. Parliament voted 2,000,000 pounds for war, and Admiral Howe was ordered to attack Spain with 14 warships. Prussia and Holland were asked to help as Britain's allies.

Spain backed down at the last moment because her strong ally, France, was involved in civil war and could not help. On February 12, 1793, Spain agreed to pay for the British ships that had been captured at Nootka, and an agreement was made that Spain and Britain would share Vancouver Island equally. The island was not actually named until later and was called Quadra-Vancouver Island in honor of Bodegay Quadra and Captain George Vancouver who surveyed the coast together after the trouble blew over.

Other events on February 12:

1800—New Brunswick College founded at Fredericton.

1816—St. John's, Newfoundland, nearly destroyed by fire.

1863—Parliament met at Quebec.

1894—Nova Scotia decided to hold a plebiscite on prohibition.

1902—Territorial Grain Growers Association formed in Saskatchewan.

1917—Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden began visit to Britain and troops overseas until May 15.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to James R. Chuba, age 10, of Tucson, Arizona, for his question:

Are Mercury and Venus always between us and the sun?

The orbit of Venus is smaller than the earth's and larger than Mercury's. Hence the orbits of the two inner planets are closer to the sun and the earth's bigger orbit is always outside them. However, all planets are wanderers. Sometimes Mercury or Venus happens to pass between us and the sun—but not very often.

Let's tackle this bewildering problem in two stages. A flat diagram of the orbits of the three planets is a helpful beginning. The orbit of Mercury is roughly 72 million miles wide. Outside it, the orbit of Venus is about 134 million miles wide and outside that is the earth's orbit—186 million miles wide. The three planets must keep in their own orbital traffic lanes. So obviously the orbits of Mercury and Venus must remain always between the earth's orbit and the sun.

However, each planet bowls around its own personal path at its own personal speed. The second stage of our problem begins when we set them in motion. A clockwork model of the scheduled planet motions would be helpful. Some planetariums have such complicated models. But maybe you can figure the procedure from your flat diagram. The two inner planets revolve faster than we do. They have shorter distances to travel to complete each yearly trip. The traffic on the two inside lanes is forever catching up and passing us. The three planets are always changing their positions from moment to moment.

Completes Orbit

The earth orbits at a breakneck speed of 18½ miles per second, Venus at nearly 22 miles per second. The orbital speed of little Mercury varies from 23 to 35 miles per second. Venus completes each orbit in about 7½ earth months, Mercury in about 88 earth days. The changing positions of the planets are computed from the variations in their speeds and orbital paths.

In general, a faster planet on an inside track catches up with us and pulls alongside. For a moment it is between us and the sun. Then it pulls ahead and we lag behind. Soon it rounds the curve that takes it around the far side of the sun—while we are still chugging around the same old side. Now we are on opposite sides of the sun and the sun is between us and the speedier one on the inside track. These changing positions repeat on schedule. Once every 584 days, Venus returns to a position more or less between us and the sun. Once every 116 days, speedy little Mercury passes more or less between us and the sun.

The "more or less" reminds us that planetary orbits are not perfect circles on a flat plane with the sun exactly in the centre. Mercury and Venus usually pass by us north or south of the sun. On rare occasions, called transits, they line up exactly and their dark little discs cross the sun's huge dazzling face. The next transit of Mercury will be May 9, 1970, the next Venus transit on June 8, 2004. On those two rare dates, one of the inner planets will pass directly between the earth and the sun.

* * *

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Bryan Peregoy, age 7, of Sarasota, Florida, for his question:

Which is the fastest living thing?

It would be fun to coax all the animals to run a race. Then we would know which of them is the fastest. But the animals refuse to run such a race. And clocking their top speeds one by one is a very hard job. Some horses, for instance, run faster than others. It is hard to tell whether any animal is doing his absolute best. We know which are the speedy ones. We think we know their top speeds—but maybe some of them could try harder and do better.

If we are going to include all the animals, we must clock the fishes and the birds as well as the four-footed creatures. The fastest fish is the sailfish—he can swim at almost 60 miles an hour. The fastest four-footed animal is the cheetah—he can sprint at almost 70 miles an hour. But many birds can outdistance the fastest creatures of the land and sea. The golden eagle can fly at 70 miles an hour. The peregrine falcon can fly almost 100 miles an hour. The Indian swift can out-fly the falcon—and so far as we know, this swift is the swiftest animal in the world.

"THE FIXER"
Fox Cinema

It is almost an allegory and for that it almost fails. Surely we are supposed to know we are all guilty of bearing witness to the absolute schemozzle our society is supposed to be in. Do we really need another allegory to show that The Jew suffers, that The Jew is all of us, that we all suffer?

Then, perhaps it is therapeutic. Perhaps John Frankenheimer, with his grisly version of Bernard Malamud's novel The Fixer, is proffering a salve, a morphia: look gang, all you suffering people out there and all you who worry about people suffering, look! The Jew still suffers.

If you don't all feel good, now, here, then take a look at The Bad Old Days and this slightly counterfeit stock player.

★ ★ ★

It is Kiev, before the revolution. It would not even be a nice place to visit.

Yakov Bok, The Fixer, is a man who fixes things that have been broken. He begins as a relatively whole man, a non-religious Jew whose crime is his Jewishness. For this he suffers. Goodness, he suffers.

They spit in his soup, pour sewage over his head, kick him, punch him, push him down stairs, on and on, it is a saga of pummelling. The end product is less than a whole man, but suddenly a religious man—redeemed by his suffering, perhaps even because it is senseless and undeserved—and a hero.

He says at the end: "I am Yakov Bok, a Jew, an innocent man, also your brother." In case you didn't get the point.

He is played by Alan Bates, very straight, almost beatific, frighteningly, horribly, sufferingly real.

★ ★ ★

His curse is plainly stated. The peasants are restless. If they get unhappy they will do unpleasant things to the Czar. They need diversions. Jew hating. Take the common share of peasant hatred and focus it on something besides the Czar.

Along comes Bok. An average rustic fixer who reads Spinoza and speaks in Meaningful Phrases: "I'm the kind of man who finds it perilous just to be alive."

And into no uncertain peril: he is accused of the ritual murder of a Gentile child, among other things, and clapped in jail for four years.

All the while he is in jail, they do inhuman things to him to make him confess. He refuses. They are so mean to this poor man come from the innocence of his rural village that you yell to him: "Confess, Yakov Bok!" Fixer, fix thyself.

It is not quite a fair reaction. It results from a little dramatic trumpery. Bok is clearly painted and his descent through pain from man to raw meat is all there. Everybody else, though, are bad guys.

★ ★ ★

They are metaphors. Metaphors for politics, for hate, for greed, but mostly for politics.

Those are not persons persecuting a person and finally Bok realizes that politics has done him in: "I feel less and I hate more."

Bates gives a virtuoso performance, but it is all his. A one-man show of exaggerated proportions. It is likely Bates' skill as an actor that keeps the exaggeration controlled, somehow believable. If it ceased to be believable, the whole effect of the film would be lost. It would degenerate into a tract.

Dirk Bogarde, a man who usually plays Dirk Bogarde splendidly, draws another character for a change.

But the director has decided Bogarde's role—the magistrate who believes Bok innocent and wants to prove it—does not require an explanation. So even this character is not permitted to reach into another dimension and when he dies, for his pains, there is little to say but, gosh, they killed him too.

★ ★ ★

Kiev, particularly its jail, is the third main player. Marcel Grignon's color camera catches the very smell of mildew, of excrement, of frustration. The jail where Bok is kept is actually no more confining than the houses of Kiev, the streets, the politics.

Throughout the film are plays on silence, like the white paper a water-color painter will let show through his colors, that underscore the total innocence that is for some unknown reason Bok's guilt.

"I am not a hero," he says with no particular rancor. "I am a fool—worse than a fool—I am an accident I didn't intend."

CONCENTRATE ON TRAINING HANDICAPPED

Education Minister Donald Brothers Tuesday announced formation of a division within the education department that will concentrate on training children with learning handicaps.

He said that in September there were 744 special education classes in the province to handle children who were blind, deaf or suffering neurological or emotional problems.

"A constant demand" for greater services in this field has prompted establishment of a division whose work will be closely related with services offered by provincial welfare and health departments.

Leslie Canty, now co-ordinator of the education department's special education services, will be placed in charge of the department's part of the new division, said Mr. Brothers.

In his reply to the budget speech, the minister also announced establishment of a consolidated audio-visual centre in Vancouver that will provide a base for a future educational television network.

University Honors Pearson

ST. ANDREWS (AP) — St. Andrews University, the oldest in Scotland, announced Tuesday the award of an honorary degree of laws for former Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson. The announcement said Pearson will be unable to attend the degree-conferring ceremony in June and the award will be given to him later.

How Far . . . Before They Break?

By A. H. WEILER
New York Times News Service

NEW YORK — Having bewitched moviegoers with "Rosemary's Baby," director Roman Polanski is now entranced by "real, equally fascinating people of the 19th century."

Stopping over here last week enroute from England to Hollywood, the diminutive Pole said that he is preparing both a biography of Paganini and "Donner Pass," the tragic story of western pioneeers who were forced into cannibalism when they became snowbound in the Sierras.

Paramount will release both films.

"Paganini has been an obsession with me for almost 15 years," said the 35-year-old writer-director, looking as mod and shaggy-haired as any King's Road hippie. "I'm working on the script now with Ennio De Concini. We'll stress Paganini's amazing character—so full of contradictions. There have been films about him before, but none of them caught the devilishness and virtuosity which guided the bow of the great violinist—his constant conflict with society, the church, kings, fellow artists and the many women who fell in love with this physically ugly man.

WRITING SCRIPT

"We'll shoot it in Italy, France and Austria later this year," Polanski added. "In the meantime, Ivan Moffat is completing the script of "Donner Pass." It will tell the story of a group of educated people facing the ultimate test of character. What interest me is showing how far such people can go before they break—or don't break, when the moment of truth hits them."

Director David Lean and writer Robert Bolt, the British team that turned out the highly successful "Lawrence of Arabia" and "Doctor Zhivago," are about to get themselves into trouble. This time, however, they will not travel to the teeming deserts or to Czarist Russia to find their trouble. Instead, they'll shoot "Michael's Day," which deals with the "Troubles" of 1916.

IRISH STORY

The story concerns a young Irish girl who has an affair with a British officer, even though she is already married to an older—and Irish—schoolteacher. Sarah Miles, who is Mrs. Bolt in real life, will play the heroine, Robert Mitchum will act her husband and Christopher Jones will be the lover. Shooting, for MGM release, should begin any day now, barring unforeseen troubles.

American moviemakers, training their sight beyond mere moon shots, have already taken the next step. Universal has acquired screen rights to "The Andromeda Strain," a novel by Michael Crichton (which Knopf will publish in May), for which they will pay "a minimum of $250,000." The book is perhaps the first of a new genre, since it deals with what happens when an unmanned American satellite returns to earth contaminated by unknown but lethally virulent life forms.

The author is almost as unknown as his fictional germs, but it should be pointed out that his first novel, "A Case of Need," was published last year under a pseudonym, Jeffrey Hudson, and was picked up for filming by the independent A-M productions. He is, it turns out, 26, in his final year at Harvard medical school, married, and the author, under still another pseudonym—John Lange—of four paperback suspense novels. We can hear Universal now—shouting, "Calling Dr. Crichton!"

. . . LIFE HAS BEGUN AGAIN FOR ME AT FORTY

JOHN E. TYMMS

I wouldn't of believed that I could weigh the same as I did 15 years ago in just 90 days, but here I am down to 170 pounds. I think the Spa facilities and the personnel are both excellent. The Personalized Program of exercise and foo dconsultation are great. Life has begun again for me at forty.

CATHERINE ALLEN

The Personalized Program of Exercise and Food Consultation at the Spa has helped me have lots more pep and ambition. Also losing 50 pounds of weight, it has kept me from becoming flabby and saggy. I wish the Spa was closer to Tillamock because I have to drive 150 miles round trip and would like to be able to come oftener, even though I come twice a week now. I also think the help and encouragement the staff at the Spa has given me has been a great help while losing weight.

Be Canadian, Advertisers Urged

TORONTO (CP) — J. R. Peters of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said Tuesday advertisers should pay for development of Canadian programs even though it may cost more than importing material.

In an address to the Canadian Broadcast Executives Society, he said advertisers "must be prepared to pay not only for the use of the time, but in the development of program material that is essentially Canadian and is a reflection of Canada."

"It seems to me that . . . if we put our minds together in an effort to stimulate the further development of Canadian material for broadcast use there might be less need for regulation."

He was referring to a federal government regulation which states 65 per cent of all broadcasts must be Canadian.

He said it is not enough that broadcasters show a profit and pay their shareholders dividends.

"The broadcaster finds himself having to be more and more concerned about what is in the public interest."

French Language TV Station Seen

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto should have a French-language CBC television channel by 1972, Eugene Hallman, vice-president and general manager of the CBC's English-language network, said Tuesday.

"French-language television is on the books for Toronto," Mr. Hallman told the Young Men's Advertising and Sales Club. "We can't announce detailed plans at the moment, but it will be a separate channel, producing a full range of programs," he told reporters later.

Mr. Hallman, appointed to his present post last year, said he wants to overhaul the "1932-style attitudes" among the CBC's present management and employees.

PERMANENT CROSSING DEMANDED BY P.E.I.

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island demanded at the federal-provincial constitutional conference today that the federal government live up to its promise to build a permanent crossing to his province.

"Failure to provide such a work would be regarded by the people of Prince Edward Island as highway robbery," he said.

Provinces to Continue Study Of Charter for Human Rights

OTTAWA (CP) — The heads of the federal and provincial governments agreed today on a vaguely-worded directive to their law ministers to take up a continuing study on whether a guarantee of fundamental human rights should be written into a new constitution.

Discussion of the federal proposal for entrenchment of a human rights charter in the constitution wound up with a 10-minute debate on how the conference should say once again there was no agreement.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said he favored a statement saying the first ministers showed "general interest" in the entrenchment of human rights. Others felt that would be making too much out of a somewhat inconclusive discussion that opened Tuesday afternoon and continued for about 40 minutes on the morning of the final day.

Finally, the ministers agreed to take note of their "various views and general interest" and instructed a ministerial committee to study all matters relating to a human rights charter and whether it should be written into a constitution.

DOUBTS EXPOUNDED

Doubts in some delegations were highlighted by Attorneys-General Leslie Peterson of British Columbia and D. V. Heald of Saskatchewan.

They felt it would be against the public interest to make a constitutional guarantee effectively superior to Parliament

$8,000 PAY HIKE STUDIED BY MPs

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Behind the scenes efforts by some influential members of Parliament to get the indemnities for members raised from the present $18,000 to $26,000 a year are now out in the open.

The move, however, is by no means unanimous among the parliamentarians. Many feel that to push for a pay raise of more than 40 per cent at this time would encounter strong protests in view of inflationary pressures now at work and the government's determination to hold down salary and pay raises across the country.

A small private committee with representatives of the different parties has been meeting. So far the move does not have the formal approval of the government of any opposition party.

There is a growing feeling among backbenchers that if pay raises are to be put through, they should be introduced in the first year of the new government.

No member wants to be identified as strongly favoring the move at this stage because it might stir up strong adverse reaction in his home constituency.

Members of Parliament get $12,000 a year as an indemnity and a tax free allowance of $6,000.

The talk now is to provide an additional $8,000 a year in the form of extra indemnity. The tax free allowance would be left at $6,000.

There have been reports of unhappiness among cabinet members over the recent substantial boosts for senior civil servants. Senior deputy ministers have been awarded a salary raise putting them at the $40,000 level. These senior deputy ministers are therefore earning more than the cabinet ministers heading their departments and who only receive a total pay of $35,000 annually. The suggested pay hike of $8,000 would raise a cabinet minister's pay to $43,000.

Major Changes Looming For All B.C. Universities

Education Minister Donald Brothers told the legislature Tuesday major changes could be in the offing for the province's university system.

Mr. Brothers, speaking during budget debate, said he is awaiting a report from a committee on university affairs established last year.

The committee, headed by Dr. G. Neil Perry, deputy minister of education, was to study the whole university system.

"I have no boubt that this committee will suggest some changes that will cause major changes in our present structure," Mr. Brothers said.

Moments earlier Mr. Brothers had told the house of impression gained when he and others involved in B.C.'s education system visited a junior college conference in California.

Asked outside the house whether Dr. Perry's committee might recommend a university system similar to that of California, with regional colleges and one major university with different campuses, Mr. Brothers said he had not seen the report yet and couldn't anticipate any recommendations.

"This feasibly could be one of them," he said.

He repeated his earlier comment that the report would include recommendations affecting the three major public universities "in a basic way."

The committee had been concerned with a number of subjects, including better methods of liason and financing, he said.

Asked if amalgamation of the Universities of Victoria, Simon Fraser and UBC under one umbrella University of British Columbia, Mr. Brothers said "it's one way."

"I guess other groups have made recommendations along this line."

Dr. Perry, reached by telephone, endorsed his minister's view that fundamental changes in B.C.'s university system and structure would be included in his report.

But he termed speculation any suggestion that the three major universities might be amalgamated.

"We still have to complete the final report," the former dean of the BUC faculty of commerce and business administration said.

He said the committee hoped to submit its report "shortly."

Peking Remains Silent

By COLIN McCULLOUGH
(Copyright (1969) The Globe and Mail)

PEKING — China's foreign ministry made no comment Tuesday on the statement in the Canadian Commons on the possibility of establishing diplomatic ties between the two countries by External Foreign Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Sharp told the house that the Canadian embassy in Stockholm had been instructed to initiate talks with the Chinese embassy there towards the exchange of diplomatic missions between Canada and China.

Chinese releuctance to talk publicly about diplomatic recognition is not surprising, at least at this stage. They will first of all want to find out what Canada's position will be on the delicate question of Formosa.

This is the prime issue for Peking. All other matters are negotiable and probably fall under the category of housekeeping problems.

INTEGRAL PAT

Formosa is an integral part of China both historically and legally, in the view of Chinese in Formosa and on the mainland. Neither side would accept a two-China policy.

It is probable, however, that China would accept a simple declaration from Ottawa that Canada had decided to recognize the People's Republic of China. No formal notification would have to be served on Chiang Kai-Shek.

Such a Canadian statement, however, would undercut the basis of Formosa's foreign policy—that it is the legitimate government of China. Logically, Formosa would withdraw its mission from Ottawa, just as it did from Paris when France recognized China in 1964.

Canada does not have a diplomatic mission in Formosa.

Since Canada, as well as all the nations in the world, is well aware of the attitudes of Formosa and China, there seems no reason for Ottawa to initiate the Stockholm talks unless it is prepared to discard the idea of a two-China policy and follow the French course in dealing with Formosa.

INTERESTED

Although China is unyielding on Formosa, it is likely to be flexible on other matters. There are several signs that the Chinese are much interested in Canadian recognition now that they have solved most internal problems and are focussing more attention on foreign policy.

The Stockholm talks would have to cover many other subjects, of course, and might go on for many weeks.

Canadians are well briefed about conditions for diplomats in China, having talked private-

Syrian Jet Shot Down By Israel

From AP-Reuters

Israel reported its air force shot down a MiG-21 warplane from Syria today and chased another one home after they flew over Israeli territory.

An Israeli spokesman said the two Soviet-built jets crossed the ceasefire over the Golan Heights, which Israel seized from Syria during the 1967 war.

He said one of the MiG pilots bailed out and his plane was seen to crash in Syrian territory.

AMBASSADOR HSUEH
. . . appeals to people

Subversive Base Feared

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Diplomatic recognition of Red China by Canada would enable the Communists from Peking to establish a base in North America for subversive activities, Ambassador of the Republic of China, Hsueh Yu-Chi, said here today.

The ambassador has taken the unusual course of not only lodging two formal protests with the government, he has also made an appeal directly to the Canadian people not to abandon their "good and loyal friends" representd by the Taiwan government.

He said that during his two years stay in Ottawa he has come to admire the qualities of "sense of justice and fair play" of the Canadian people.

Ambassador Hsueh delivered the first note of protest to the Canadian government late Wednesday when External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp confirmed that the government was seeking to open negotiations with the Communist Chinese government to exchange ambassadors.

The ambassador representing Chiang Kai-shek's government delivered a second stiff diplomatic note of protest this week. In it he urged the government to reconsider its position.

There has been no official comment from Taipei on the situation. However, it was reported in Washington today that the U.S. government has advised Taipei to keep some sort of diplomatic relatons with Canada even if Ottawa goes ahead with recognition of Peking. The U.S. state department has said it is "very much concerned" about Canada's overtures toward the mainland Chinese.

Nationalists Distressed by Move

Ambassador Hsueh issued a press release making a direct appeal to the people of Canada. In it he said: "My people and the government of the Republic of China have been distressed by the recently intensified efforts by the government in trying to recognize the Mao Tse-tung regime.

There even has been word that Canada, in her eagerness to achieve that recogniition, might decide to forsake her traditional friendly relations with the Republic of China."

The ambassador said a study of pronouncements showed the belief of the Canadian government that diplomatic relations with the Mao regime would help promote peace and international understanding by bringing the so far isolated Chinese Communists into the community of nations.

It also indicated that Canada believed it was in this country's interests to take such a step.

"I do not believe so," said the ambassador.

"The Chinese Communists today are isolated only because they themselves have chosen isolation. They have stubbornly resisted all previous efforts made by the free world to bring about communication and contract through diplomatic relations," said Ambassador Hsueh.

Strife 'Financed by Mao'

He pointed out that Britain recognized the Chinese Communist regime 20 years ago. So far Britain has seen her economic holdings and interests on the Chinese mainland liquidated, her legation quarters sacked, her diplomats manhandled and her newsmen incarcerated.

France, "under the bridge-building illusion" recognized the Chinese Communists five years ago. The French government was forced subsequently to conclude that much of France's turmoil and strife last May was instigated and financed by Mao's embassy in Paris, said the ambassador.

The ambassador declared that "what the Chinese Communists did to France they would do with greater enthusiasm to the North American continent. I shudder to think what grave consequences there would be to the security of the Americans if the Chinese Communists should ever be allowed to gain a foothold, or rather, a base of operations on the contenent of North America for their subversive activities."

He suggested that if Canada was to use the recognition of the Mao regime as an instrument to promote peace and international understanding, it must not act alone, but in conjunction with other major power in the Pacific.

The lone efforts of Canada would be not only wasted but would also do harm to the cause of peace by encouraging Mao Tse-tung to think his militant policy was paying dividends.

The ambassador also dismissed the argument that recognition could better promote trade. He pointed out the Mao regime has been buying wheat from abroad simply to meet its own need without regard to diplomatic relations.

Students March on Students

WINDSOR (CP) — The first active resistance against demonstrators who have blockaded themselves in Windsor Hall at the University of Windsor was mounted early today when about 30 residence students marched on the protesters.

The early-morning march on the barricades may have been the first part of a counter-demonstration by students against the occupation of the theology department.

The counter move began about 2 a.m. when counter-demonstrators got through the front ground-floor door of the building, but stopped at the barricaded door on the second floor.

The residence men were met by two of the demonstrators, and they talked for about an hour before the residence students drifted away.

A graduate student in history said a committee was formed to protest "against the irresponsible, immature and illegal action taken by the students occupying the theology department."

Fifty-five students barricaded themselves in the theology, classics and psychology departments of the university early Tuesday to back demands for a greater voice in departmental decisions after a professor was released. They were joined by another 30 students Tuesday night.

Dr. J. Francis Leddy, president of the university, said in a statement that U.S.-born Dr. William Kelly, a lecturer in the theology department, was released after his year's probationary period — "the standard probationary period followed by most North American universities."

Dr. Kelly's dismissal sparked the sit-in.

90 Persons Arrested; Computer Centre Wrecked

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 90 persons were arrested Tuesday after a group of sit-in students went wild at Sir George Williams University and caused more than $1,000,000 damages to its computer centre.

Police ended the 10-hour rampage by breaking past student-erected barricades as firemen fought a blaze amid debris from broken computers, windows, typewriters and furniture.

A police spokesman said early today it was hard to determine exactly how many persons were arrested as "some were juveniles, some women and some men, and therefore jailed in several places."

He added that not all those arrested were students.

The students had hurled university records, registration cards, transcripts and computer tapes onto downtown Maisonneuve Boulevard from their ninth-storey bastion.

Firemen contained the blaze, but smoke and water damage was widespread.

Some of the students were charged Tuesday with conspiracy to commit arson and public mischief.

Acting Principal Douglass Clarke said police were called in after an estimated 150 to 200 students ransacked the seventh-floor cafeteria and turned on water hoses.

Mr. Clarke said the law and regulations of the university "must be accepted as such" and any change must be implemented by lawful process.

Meanwhile, steps would be taken to recover study time lost by students whose classes were disrupted by the sit-in that started Jan. 29. It was called to protest administration handling of an investigation into charges of racial discrimination by an assistant biology professor against six West Indian students.

Last week other students occupied the faculty lounge near the cafeteria. They were the first to be ousted by police.

Even before firemen began pouring water into the ninth floor to quell the flames in the computer centre, corridors in the university were flooded with water from fire hoses opened by the occupiers. Escalators and stairwells were choked with furniture tossed by the dissenting students.

After it was all over, Malcolm Stone, university information officer, described the scene:

"The computer centre is a total wreck. There are bits and pieces of whatever goes into making a computer lying all over the floor. There's intricate wiring by the bucketfull, shattered crystals and water up to the ankles. Every window in the centre is smashed."

Mr. Stone said the students had destroyed both computers with axes and the fire later went through the ceiling of the room.

He said the destruction of the computers represented a $1,000,000 loss in itself. The university was losing a further $300 a day—about $100,000 a year—in revenue from renting the computers to private companies.

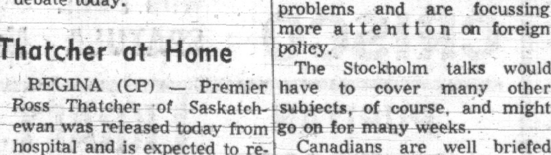
Water damage was extensive, and there were also losses resulting from the destruction of equipment.

Riot-equipped police who entered the $26,000,000 new university building said some of the occupiers got away in the confusion of the fire. Some might have slipped out a fire escape.

At least half a dozen police and firemen were overcome by smoke and at least three policemen were injured in earlier clashes with the students.

Non-striking students arrived for the school day to find the streets outside the building littered with the computer cards, records, tapes and print-outs jettisoned by the occupying students.

The building was closed and the students milled outside in a crowd estimated by police at more than 2,000 persons.



Seems th' premiers all voted t' let th' attorneys-gen'ral form a committee t' do th' work. Who sez Canadians can't agree on anythin'?

MARKET SUMMARIES

Small Decline Posted

The Toronto stock market posted a small decline today, while New York rose slightly.

AT TORONTO final volume was 6,064,000 shares compared with 6,556,000 Tuesday.

In industrials, Great-West Life fell 15½ to 115½, B.C. Sugar 5 to 50, Versafood 3 to 25½ and B.C. Forest 2⅛ to 33. Dylex Diversified gained 2⅜ to 34⅞.

McIntyre Porcupine was up 8½ to 128½, Falconbridge 2 to 127 and Hudson Bay Mining 1½ to 83½.

Numac lost 75 cents to $9.75 and Central-Del Rio ⅜ to 15. Asamera rose 3½ to 32.

AT NEW YORK there was little selling pressure and brokers saw the list as groping further for a base, with the economic and business news background neutral.

Prices near the close included Occidental Petroleum, up 1 at 51⅛; Twentieth Century-Fox, up 1⅝ at 37¾; INA Corp., off 3⅛ at 48⅜; Budd Co., off 1⅝ at 30½, and Callahan Mining, up 2⅝ at 32⅝.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

AT MONTREAL Bank of Montreal lost ⅝ to 15⅝, Nova Scotia ½ to 24¼, Royal ¼ to 22⅞ and Canadienne Nationale ⅛ to 13⅝.

Velcro climbed 4 to 53⅝, Southam 3 to 62 on only 50 shares.

In senior mines and oils, Falconbridge added 6 to 128, Home Oil A 1½ to 44¼ and Hudson Bay Mining 1 to 82¾. Hollinger lost 2 to 33.

Baker Talc picked up 6 cents to $1.19 on 37,500 shares in speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange.

AT VANCOUVER Riviera Mines, trading for the first time today, dominated pre-noon trading.

More than 207,000 Riviera shares changed hands by 11 a.m. The stock traded at a low of .83 and a high of .98.

Other mining issues were mixed and oils and industrials up in moderate trading.

Ace in the mines dropped a nickel to $3.15, Consolidated Skeena slipped .15 to $2.85 and Venus added .27 to $2.55.

Okanagan Holdings in the industrials gained .75 to $7, White Pass jumped $1 to $24.

Among the oil, Stampede was up .62 cents at $15.50 and Allied Roxana gained .10 to $2.50.

AT LONDON, prices declined over a broad front today on the stock exchange. Trading was unsettled by the possibility of further economic restraints in Britain, coupled with forecasts that trade figures for January, due Thursday, would show little improvement.

ICI lost nearly 2 shillings and Unilever was off about the same amount. Monsanto Chemical fell 3s 6d and EMI, Decca, Hawkers and Bats were also lower.

Dollar stocks were trendless. Gulf Oil Canada shed 2½ while Consolidated International, Bathurst, Nickel, Triad and Imperial Oil turned off. However, Dome added $6 and Brazilian Light and Power rose ¼ to 53¾.

Canada-Sino Trade Shows Big Increase

LONDON (Reuters) — Statistics published by the Sino-British Trade Council showed a big increase in Chinese-Canadian trade, now higher than Chinese trade with Britain and France.

The Canadian advance was accounted for by a 50-per-cent increase in Canadian sales to China. In the first 10 months of 1967 these were worth $84,000,000. For the same 10 months of last year they soared to $133,000,000.

During the same comparative periods Chinese exports to Canada dropped to $16,500,000 from $20,000,000.

Canadian-Chinese statistics for the whole of last year are not yet available. But over the first 10 months, two-way trade was valued at $150,000,000 compared with only $104,000,000 in the same period of 1967.

Granby Mining

Granby Mining's net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 was $767,000, the company said Tuesday.

The 1968 profit figure was down sharply from $11.9 million in 1967 but the two figures were not strictly comparable since the previous year's figure included an extraordinary item of $11.4 million on the sale to Newmont Mining of Copper Mountain property near Hope.

The company said common share earnings before extraordinary items were taken into account were 79 cents compared with 57 cents in 1967.

Extraordinary items in 1968 amounted to 26 cents a share.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, FEB. 12, 1969 —PAGE 25

Arthur Mayse

One day when our winter was at its meanest, a party unknown slipped $8.50 cash into a plain envelope and sent it off to Canadian Customs, Victoria division.

Lack of name and return address told a familiar story. The sum enclosed in the envelope with the January 24 Victoria postmark was "conscience money". Somebody, sometime had failed to declare one or more purchases made on the other side of the border, and wished to set the record straight.

Since receipt can't be acknowledged through usual channels, district chief of port operations Donald A. Smith asks me to pass on a message from Customs to 'X'.

"We take this as non-tax revenue from a person unknown, and have remitted to the Receiver-General of Canada."

Although smugglers' consciences don't always get to hurting, Mr. Smith tells me that at intervals of two years sciences don't always start brooding on past failure to declare and decides to make amends.

Oftener than not, such delayed payments are received in February, a moody month that lends itself to soul-searching.

The conscience-prickled have even been known to send in the undeclared article, along with their names. But far more usual is the anonymous enclosure—mailed, no doubt, with a sigh of relief.

Here's an account I think you'd like to share. It was set down by Commander Peter G. May, RCN, Captain of HMCS Yukon, and it tells how the ship's company of a Canadian destroyer on cruise moved in hearty navy style to befriend one Victoria six-year-old.

The Yukon's crew learned of Florenda Joy Dick's need for complex heart surgery through an internal broadcast on the evening of Jan. 29. This comment was added: "Does anyone have any ideas?"

Let Commander May continue:

"At 0800, 30th Jan., there were cash donations of sufficient amount to indicate a great interest in the cause, and immediately a fund was set up. The cash donations gave the fund a good start and strong momentum.

"As a matter of interest some of the methods of fund-raising are here indicated. The cash donations were followed by a raffle of ship's crests, a haircutting bee, canteen sales sponsored by the ship's company fund, a softball game, a raffle of a Mexican curio, and various untold, including sponsored sales at a ship's banyan." (For landlubbers, a banyan is a party, usually on shipboard, rigged by navy men for their own entertainment.)

Commander May also notes that two young seamen ashore in Balboa accepted donations from a USAF sergeant and a USN sailor.

"To a man," he concludes his message, "we pray for the little girl's full recovery and safe return to her mother and father and all good Victorians who so well deserve her smiling face to brighten an already beautiful city."

There's a P.S.: "The fund now stands at $1,116.79, and you may expect a final report from San Diego shortly after mid-February."

Another letter to hand from Chris Page, 1601 Belmont, who offers his views "as a student still in the throes,"

"I would like to tell of a system which is working extremely well in our grade nine class," he writes. "The teacher in advance asks several students to each pick a poem from any resources at their disposal and talk about their choice.

"Now one of the things which you mentioned in your article as 'dissecting a poem like a frog,' is one of the most rewarding things to do which I have encountered in all my English lessons. Doing this greatly deepens the interest in the poem and has been greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all members of this class."

To Chris Page, good frogging, and respect for a sturdy opinion. It isn't mine . . . but what a heck of a world if we all chose to agree!

'Don't Look to Regional Board' Mayor Tells Colwood, Langford

Campbell Proposal Shot Down

By JIM HUME

The Regional District Board has no intention of providing local government administrative services for Colwood, Langford and Metchosin.

Mayor Hugh Stephen, chairman of the regional board, made this view known today in answer to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's statement that, following rejection of the bid to incorporate the three areas, the regional board could provide certain local services.

Following the 90 er cent against incorporation vote Mr. Campbell said the regional board could be approached to administer such things as metro sewer expansion and planning "without having to duplicate full scale municipal government."

Mayor Stephen took a different view.

"I want to make it absolutely plain that in no circumstances will the regional board become a substitute for local government in any area where there are sufficient people to incorporate and look after themselves," he said.

"We have been charged with the duty of looking after regional functions and we shall continue to carry out those functions as we do for all our members.

'LOOK IN VAIN'

"But if the people of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin are looking to the board for assistance in the solving of problems which are purely local in nature, they will look in vain.

"We have enough on our plate now without running around trying to manage local affairs."

Mayor Stephen said his statement was not to be construed as an attempt to interfere with the Feb. 1 decision of the residents of the three areas concerned.

"We do not wish to intrude in their local decision," he said. "But we want our stand made quite clear."

Mayor Stephen said it was with considerable regret he received the resignations of three regional district board directors following the vote.

'GREAT SERVICE'

"The entire board deeply deplores the decision of these three dedicated men to leave the board," he said.

"All of them rendered great service to the board, particularly John Williams of Langford who guided the regional board parks committee through its formative years.

"I is a just a tragedy that these three men should be forced, because they are men of principle, to leave the regional government field,"

The resignation of Mr. Williams of Langford, Mac Tipton of Metchosin and Hal Banks of Colwood means the three areas will be unrepresented on the regional board until an election to appoint three new directors is held.

No date has been set for the election.

GET POSITIVE

In announcing their resignations in protest at the total rejection of the incorporation bid the three men challenged "the negative thinkers" of the area to now come forward and do something positive.

The resignations will cause some switches in committee appointments at the regional level made over the weekend by Mayor Stephen.

Mr. Williams had been re-appointed as chairman of the parks committee while Mr. Banks and Mr. Tipton had been appointed to the key finance, planning and transportation committees and the sewers, health and garbage committees respectively.

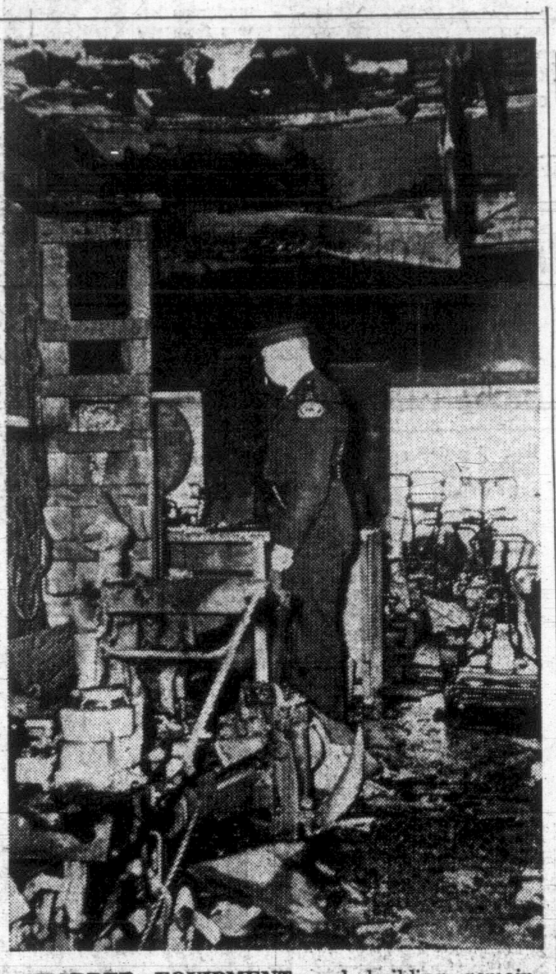
Other committee appointments saw Mayor Ray Bryant, Esquimalt, take the chair of the finance and personnel committee; Ald. Ian Stewart, Victoria, chairman of planning and transportation; Mayor Hugh Curtis, Saanich, chairman of regional sewers; Ald. Edith Gunning, Saanich, health services, and Mayor Fred Hawes, Oak Bay, regional garbade disposal.

MORE LIAISON

Mayor Stephen has introduced the Victoria city Group "A" and Group "B" committee system at the regional level in an attempt to bring about closer liaison between members and to streamline administration.

On Group "A" are directors Bryant, C. M. Parrott, L. H. Passmore, Howard Elder, D. Cavaye and Joan Purchase.

Group "B" is comprised of H. A. Curtis, E. R. Gunning, F. W. Hawes, A. W. Freeman, A. M. Galbraith, A. E. Beasley and Lily Wilson.



CHARRED EQUIPMENT and building remain after early morning blaze gutted premises of Ideal Lawn Equipment, 1640 Cedar Hill Crossroad. Damage is estimated at $15,000 to the building, a near total loss, plus several thousand dollars of lawn mowers. Fire broke out at about 1 a.m. and spread through entire one-and-a-half-storey building. Cause of the blaze was unknown at press time. Building and equipment are insured. (Times photo.)

Langford Pair Ready to Fill Vacant Posts

Both Opposed Incorporation

Two Langford opponents of incorporation have agreed to let their names stand as directors on the regional board.

William Temple and Earl Pallister said today they have been asked to stand by groups of persons who oppose incorporation of Langford, Metchosin and Colwood.

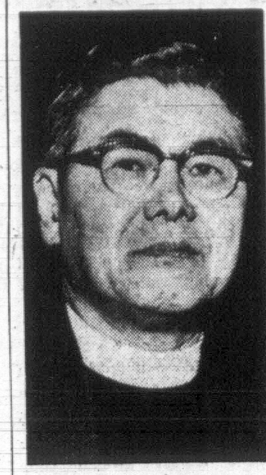
Hal Banks of Colwood, John Williams of Langford and Mac Tipton of Metchosin announced Monday they are resigning from the board.

"I opposed incorporation at this time because I did not think our financial base was strong enough to support a municipality," said Mr. Temple.

"I am not against progress. Possibly in three or four years when our assessement reaches the $30 million mark incorporation might be practical.

"I also feel that we did not influence more than 10 or 15 per cent in their vote. The people had made up their minds long before we anti-incoproratIonists began."

A spokesman for the regional district said this morning there never has been a contest for directors from Langford, Colwood and Metchosin. All elections have been by acclamation, meaning there was no lpposition.



ELECTED MODERATOR of the Victoria Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada Tuesday, Rev. Edward Ling became the first Chinese Canadian to hold this office in British Columbia. Park, Pool In Offing For Sidney

Sidney residents may soon enjoy a new waterfront park and an enclosed swimming pool.

The park would be a public project while the pool is being negotiated with a private company.

Council has approved a proposal by Mayor Arthur Freeman for a two-acre waterfront park to be located between Rest Haven Hospital and the federal fishboat wharf. It will involve extending the foreshore with 40,000 yards of gravel and rocks taken from the Patricia Bay Highway widening project.

The mayor said council will study similar developments in other parts of the municipality. Lack of available land means reclamation of foreshore is necessary.

The swimming pool is proposed for Resthaven Drive at Mills Road at an estimated cost of $60,000. The promoters will require to lease a half acre of municipal property.

One of the principals of the unnamed firm, William Young, said the pool would measure 60 by 30 feet and depths would range from 2½ to 5½ feet. A recreation room above dressing rooms would permit spectators to watch swimmers.

The prefabricated building is under study by Sidney recreation and parks committee under Ald. Harry Perry. Approval will depend on whether the facilities are considered adequate to local needs.

Hard Look Planned At Costs

Lively Sessions Coming On Car Insurance Study

The special legislative committee studying the royal commission report on auto insurance decided today to try to restrict its study to specific recommendations of the Wootton Commission.

And it will examine particularly the cost implications of any proposals.

Chairman Herb Capozzi (SC — Vancouver Centre) said if the committee entered into a comprehensive study of the lengthy report there would be "no possibility" of the committee reporting to the house by its March 7 deadline.

'UNREALISTIC'

He described the deadline as "quite unrealistic if we are to do a thorough job."

The Wootton commission presented its report to the government in November calling for a compulsory, no fault, insurance scheme.

Former attorney-general Robert Bonner made the recommendation that cost be studied for each proposal because he did not think the committee should report to the house "simply in a philosophic vein."

"If the philosophy is to reach for the moon — the question is how do you get there in dollars and cents."

ACTION AHEAD

It was the first meeting of the house committee and indications are that its deliberations will be lively.

Chairman Capozzi ruled that any MLA has a right to sit on the committee, but no MLAs with "vested interests" in automobile insurance may vote. This would take the vote from committee-member William Hartley (NDP — Yale-Lillooett), Co-Op Fire and Casualty agent from Merritt.

Mr. Hartley said he plans to appeal the ruling to the speaker of the house. The member has already this session entered a bill to provide for publicly-owned and operated auto insurance in the province and he told the committee he wanted to see "that the people in B.C. get a fair deal" in car insurance.

LIBERAL SECRETARY

Garde Gardom, the Liberal MLA for Vancouver-Point Grey, was elected secretary of the committee by acclamation. It is unusual for this or any other committee executive position to be held by non-government members.

The committee will advertise publicly for persons wishing to present briefs to its future meetings. A schedule has not yet been set.

HATE MAIL PUZZLES SCHOOLS

Hate literature attacking Premier Bennett and the Social Credit government arrived by mail at some schools in the Capital region Tuesday.

The bundle of poster-sized sheets, some with elaborate color printing, appears unrelated to schools and attacks various legal aspects of government policy.

"There's nothing constructive about it at all—it's a hurt thing," one official at the Greater Victoria school board office said.

The material arrived in a plain brown envelope with the initials "PTA" penned alongside the address. (PTA is a common abbreviation for Parent-Teacher Association).

There is no indication of the source and in the case of the envelope at the Greater Victoria board office, even the post-mark was blurred.

Several schools in the Sooke school district received the material but a Saanich Peninsula school board administrator said this morning it all came as news to him.

There was no indication of how many schools in Greater Victoria, or any other persons, got it.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the longest time a person can go without sleep? —J. L.

A. The length of time a person can stay awake depends on many variables including physical condition. The longest time a person has gone without sleep under medical surveillance is 11 days and 13 hours. Charles Christensen, a 23-year-old California disc jockey accomplished the feat in 1966.

Q. What makes some manufactured logs burn with a colored flame?—F. P. L.

A. Pulverized wood and sawdust are treated with copperous oxide before being pressed into log shape. This chemical, when burned, gives off the colored flames.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

PTA Women Talk Back To 'Teacher'

Education Minister Donald Brothers and about 100 women members of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation today flunked each other's homework tests in a sometimes-stormy confrontation.

The women, from various parts of the province, descended on the Legislative Buildings to lobby all MLAs to pressure the government into releasing more money for school districts.

Mr. Brothers, declining to meet the executive, said he wanted to take them all on, so he went over to their meeting in the auditorium of the new museum, backed by half a dozen Socred MLAs.

As soon as he got there, he said he'd like to ask the group a few questions before they asked him any.

While the supporting Socreds spread through the group handing out sheets of blank paper, Mr. Brothers threw out test questions to the women much like a teacher staging a surprise test.

Telling them to write down the answers, Mr. Brothers asked the women such questions as:

How much money did the provincial government contribute to school districts last year? How much did the homeowner grant total last year? What was the total education bill of the province?

"I wonder if you could answer the same questions if we asked them of you about each of our own school districts," blurted an exasperated woman.

PERSISTED

Mr. Brothers said he didn't think so, but gamely kept on asking questions and then swung into excerpts of his Tuesday speech to the legislature.

Within minutes, he was being peppered by mainly hostile questions form the women, which reached a climax when he told them that he was "proud" to find on his cross-Canada trips that the B.C. government's formula for helping school districts was the best in the country.

The inconclusive confrontation was to be followed by more lobbying by the PTA members later in the day.

Tests Continue on 'Bugs' For Finding Slide Villains

A two-year experiment using electronic "bugs" to listen for rocks about to start mountain slides is still continuing, a provincial highways engineer said Tuesday.

E. M. Readshaw, senior materials engineer, said super-sensitive microphones are used to monitor noises inside boulders either by earphones or tape recorders.

He said the noises can be analyzed for indications whether the boulder is about to crack but the monitoring program is still only an experiment.

Mr. Readshaw said the monitoring unit was used last fall in the general area of the Squamish Highway where a rockslide killed three persons last Sunday. But no readings had been taken of the particular spot.

First Wave Swamps Guards At Hillside's H-Hour

By PETE LOUDON

Poor Mr. Childerhouse, poor Petra—they were innocent victims the day the women stampeded.

Their names were advertised over a public-address system soon after Victoria's newest department store electronically slid open its doors today.

Mr. Childerhouse was instructed to meet his wife at the customer service counter. A man could have aged 10 years before he found it.

RISKY BUSINESS

Petra was described as three years old and lost, and Heather and Wendy were said to be waiting their mother at the foot of the down escalator.

The directions were clear enough, but on the day of the stampede, their positions were fraught with peril.

You could tell the women were getting restive days ago. Instead of ringing Valentines Day on the calendar they've been putting crayon hearts around Feb. 12.

Coins have been disappearing from sugar bowls. They've been studying bank statements to see if there had been a post-Christmas recovery yet.

POLICE KNEW

Husbands saw these little signs but most of us didn't twig to what was coming. We certainly never expected the stampede. The police were the first to know.

Some 1,500 cars overflowed the parking lot at the new Hillside-Shelbourne shopping mart soon after 9 a.m. Then cars began to plug Edgeware, Oakland, Burton, Keats and Shelbourne as far north as McRae.

The women appeared from cars, walking in, pushing baby puggies, pushing reluctant but helpless husbands in many cases.

Commissionaires soon stopped entry from Shakespeare. Men of the Veterans' Security Service stood like Horatios along North Dairy. Others were braced on the floors and at escalators. The tide swept by them.

The crowd flooded around a nurse with a wheelchair slowing her errand. Stragglers soon began falling out wherever there was a place to sit. Numbed faces, weary legs with toes turned in, claimed every space in the coffee shop as 80 people formed a line at the door.

As the first wave of shoppers completed their orbits and moved out, new waves rolled in. Now traffic was going two ways in the car lots and some guards were mumbling to themselves.

At press time it's still too early to assess the aftermath of the day of the great stampede. The minds of men may be scarred with what became a moving hallucination of flipping wallets, credit cards, cash drawers banging, free balloons and elbows in the ribs.

The amazing thing was, however, the women appeared to love it.

Rites Thursday For Former Shell Official

The former president of Shell Oil Co., (West Coast) Sidney Belither, O.B.E., died Monday in Royal Jubilee Hospital following an illness.

Mr. Belither retired in 1949 from his post with Shell, based in San Francisco, and came to live in Victoria in 1952.

He was born in Ilford, England, had spent most of his career with the Shell company and was known in many parts of the world.

Surviving are his wife Alexandra M., at home 3515 Upper Terrace; a daughter Ann, of Saskatoon, now at home; a son Peter in England, and two grandchildren.

Funeral service will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church by Canon Grahame Baker, with burial at Royal Oak.

FROST-BROKEN SAANICH ROADS BLAMED FOR CAR ACCIDENTS

Saanich police today cautioned drivers to use extra care, especially at night, when driving on roads damaged during the recent winter cold spell.

A number of accidents have been caused by ruptures in the road following frost heavings. The obstructions are not visible in the darkness and repairing of the damage will not be complete for some time.

The area affected includes Gordon Head, Cordova Bay and Mount Douglas.

Resignation Postponed

Ed O'Connor, general secretary of the B.C. Government Employees Association, said Tuesday he will postpone his intended resignation indefinitely because no suitable replacement has been signed on.

He made the statement after plans to turn the $15,000 to $18,000-a-year job over to Vancouver City Hall Employees Association business agent Max Pierotti fell through.

RIBBON - SNIPPER Mayor Hugh Stephen set mystic forces in action Tuesday night when with Simpsons-Sears president D. J. Peacher, left, and Dominion Construction president H. C. Bentall, right, he opened new Hillside emporium. Bargain-hunting women throughout Victoria district converged in thousands on the $10 million marketplace and first-day parking was inadequate after first hour of business today. Store estimates 6,000 cars; 30,000 people. (Photo by Jorgen Svendsen.)

Canada-Sino Trade Shows Big Increase

LONDON (Reuters) — Statistics published by the Sino-British Trade Council showed a big increase in Chinese-Canadian trade, now higher than Chinese trade with Britain and France.

The Canadian advance was accounted for by a 50-per-cent increase in Canadian sales to China. In the first 10 months of 1967 these were worth $84,000,000. For the same 10 months of last year they soared to $133,000,000.

During the same comparative periods Chinese exports to Canada dropped to $16,500,000 from $20,000,000.

Canadian-Chinese statistics for the whole of last year are not yet available. But over the first 10 months, two-way trade was valued at $150,000,000 compared with only $104,000,000 in the same period of 1967.

Granby Mining

Granby Mining's net profit for the year ended Dec. 31 was $767,000, the company said Tuesday.

The 1968 profit figure was down sharply from $11.9 million in 1967 but the two figures were not strictly comparable since the previous year's figure included an extraordinary item of $11.4 million on the sale to Newmont Mining of Copper Mountain property near Hope.

The company said common share earnings before extraordinary items were taken into account were 79 cents compared with 57 cents in 1967.

Extraordinary items in 1968 amounted to 26 cents a share.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Small Decline Posted

The Toronto stock market posted a small decline today, while New York rose slightly.

Bank issues led the Montreal stock market on a downward trend in early afternoon trading.

AT TORONTO final volume was 6,064,000 shares compared with 6,556,000 Tuesday.

In industrials, Great-West Life fell 15½ to 115½, B.C. Sugar 5 to 50, Versafood 3 to 25½ and B.C. Forest 2⅛ to 33. Dylex Diversified gained 2⅜ to 34⅞.

McIntyre Porcupine was up 8½ to 128½, Falconbridge 2 to 127 and Hudson Bay Mining 1½ to 83½.

Numac lost 75 cents to $9.75 and Central-Del Rio ⅜ to 15. Asamera rose 3½ to 32.

AT NEW YORK there was little selling pressure and brokers saw the list as groping further for a base, with the economic and business news background neutral.

Prices near the close included Occidental Petroleum, up 1 at 51⅛; Twentieth Century-Fox, up 1⅝ at 37¾; INA Corp., off 3⅛ at 48⅜; Budd Co., off 1⅝ at 30½, and Callahan Mining, up 2⅝ at 32⅝.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

AT MONTREAL Bank of Montreal lost ⅝ to 15⅝, Nova Scotia ½ to 24¼, Royal ¼ to 22⅞ and Canadienne Nationale ⅛ to 13⅝.

Velcro climbed 4 to 53⅝, Southam 3 to 62 on only 50 shares.

In senior mines and oils, Falconbridge added 6 to 128, Home Oil A 1½ to 44¼ and Hudson Bay Mining 1 to 82¾. Hollinger lost 2 to 33.

Baker Talc picked up 6 cents to $1.19 on 37,500 shares in speculative mines and oils on the Canadian Stock Exchange.

AT VANCOUVER Riviera Mines, trading for the first time today, dominated pre-noon trading.

More than 207,000 Riviera shares changed hands by 11 a.m. The stock traded at a low of .83 and a high of .98.

Other mining issues were mixed and oils and industrials up in moderate trading.

Ace in the mines dropped a nickel to $3.15, Consolidated Skeena slipped .15 to $2.85 and Venus added .27 to $2.55.

Okanagan Holdings in the industrials gained .75 to $7, White Pass jumped $1 to $24.

Among the oil, Stampede was up .62 cents at $15.50 and Allied Roxana gained .10 to $2.50.

AT LONDON, prices declined over a broad front today on the stock exchange. Trading was unsettled by the possibility of further economic restraints in Britain, coupled with forecasts that trade figures for January, due Thursday, would show little improvement.

ICI lost nearly 2 shillings and Unilever was off about the same amount. Monsanto Chemical fell 3s 6d and EMI, Decca, Hawkers and Bats were also lower.

Dollar stocks were trendless. Gulf Oil Canada shed 2½ while Consolidated International, Bathurst, Nickel, Triad and Imperial Oil turned off. However, Dome added $6 and Brazilian Light and Power rose ¼ to 53¾.
